BSBWHS201 Contribute to health and safety of self and others

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to work in a manner that is healthy and safe in relation to self and others and to respond to emergency incidents. It covers following work health and safety (WHS) and emergency procedures and instructions, implementing WHS requirements and participating in WHS consultative processes.

It applies to individuals who require a basic knowledge of WHS to carry out work in a defined context under direct supervision or with some individual responsibility, in a range of industry and workplace contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Act has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS401 Implement and monitor WHS policies, procedures and programs to meet legislative requirements

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package release 1.0

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to implement and monitor an organisation's work health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures and programs in the relevant work area in order to meet legislative requirements.

It applies to individuals with supervisory responsibilities for implementing and monitoring the organisation's WHS policies, procedures and programs in a work area. These individuals have a broad knowledge of WHS policies and contribute well developed skills in creating solutions to unpredictable problems through analysis and evaluation of information from a variety of sources. They provide supervision and guidance to others and have limited responsibility for the output of others.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS403 Contribute to implementing and maintaining WHS consultation and participation processes

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- explain clearly and accurately to individuals and parties the legal roles, duties, rights and responsibilities of self and others regarding work health and safety (WHS) consultation and participation processes
- contribute, as appropriate to job role and work area, to:
 - setting up and running WHS consultation and participation processes to ensure that relevant individuals and parties understand and can participate in the processes
 - identifying training needs to support the WHS consultation and participation processes and providing learning opportunities, coaching and mentoring as appropriate to needs
 - communicating information and data about WHS consultation and participation processes
 - identifying barriers to effective WHS consultation and participation and developing, implementing and evaluating measures to remove the barriers.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe requirements under WHS legislation and organisational policies and procedures for consultation and participation processes and the individuals and parties who need to participate
- describe possible barriers to the implementation and effectiveness of WHS consultation and participation processes and strategies to remove them
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them

- describe training requirements for individuals and parties necessary for effective WHS consultation and participation processes

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines
- workplace documentation and personnel.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS404 Contribute to WHS hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to the processes of identifying work health and safety (WHS) hazards, assessing WHS risks, and developing, implementing and evaluating risk controls according to legislative and organisational requirements.

It applies to individuals who contribute to WHS risk management processes in their work role in a range of industry and workplace contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS407 Assist with claims management, rehabilitation and return-to-work programs

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to assist with the management of workers' compensation claims, rehabilitation and return-to-work programs.

It applies to individuals who assist with claims management, rehabilitation and return-to-work programs.

Note that the unit does not in any way address the process of treating the worker for their injury or illness, as this is the task of health and rehabilitation professionals. Instead, the unit focuses on assisting with managing claims and ensuring that the organisation supports the worker through return-to-work programs.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to work within legislative and insurance requirements and organisational policies and procedures to:

- assist with processing and analysing workers' compensation claims including:
 - identifying and reporting on the nature of injury
 - estimating period of absence from work
 - ensuring arrangements are made in the work team to deal with absence as needed
- assist with planning, implementation of a rehabilitation or return-to-work program including:
 - job redesign, reduced hours and alternative duties as appropriate
 - documenting existing skills, experience and capabilities of affected worker
 - assisting with design of a rehabilitation or return-to-work program and determining retraining requirements
 - consulting with relevant managers about the program
- assist with monitoring and evaluating a rehabilitation or return-to-work program including:
 - facilitating regular contact, feedback and communications between provider, supervising manager and worker
 - identifying and notifying breaches of the return-to-work program and taking prompt remedial action
 - modifying the program where appropriate
 - evaluating the program and implementing recommendations for system improvement where appropriate
- communicate and facilitate consultation and negotiations sensitively with affected worker, relevant managers and external providers to address issues around compensation, treatment, rehabilitation, return-to-work matters and the effectiveness of a program.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain the organisation's rehabilitation and return-to-work programs
- outline relevant legislation and insurance requirements
- summarise the rights and obligations of all parties for rehabilitation and return-to-work programs under the relevant workers' compensation scheme and relevant legislation
- outline methods, techniques and tools to support the affected worker including:
 - different rehabilitation options and providers
 - options for alternative duties
 - processes and procedures preparing a workplace for return-to-work.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace documentation and WHS data
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, licensing requirements, standards
- office equipment and resources
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS408 Assist with effective WHS management of contractors

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with the work health and safety (WHS) management of contractors. The WHS management of contractors has a strong focus on compliance with WHS organisational and legislative requirements.

This unit applies to individuals who either work in organisations that are supplied with services by contractors or work in organisations that supply such services. It is only concerned with the supply of on-site services to workplaces. It does not cover outworkers or contractors who supply goods, materials or products to workplaces.

The unit applies to people who work in a broad range of WHS roles across all industries.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS409 Assist with workplace monitoring processes

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with monitoring a range of physical agents and conditions relevant to work health and safety (WHS).

It applies to individuals working in a broad range of WHS roles across all industries who assist with using a range of measuring devices to collect, interpret, evaluate and report on workplace information and data in relation to physical agents and conditions.

It does not extend to hazard identification, risk assessment or developing control measures based on the outcomes of monitoring, which are covered in BSBWHS404 Contribute to WHS hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS409 Assist with workplace monitoring processes

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to assist with processes for monitoring physical agents and/or conditions including:

- identifying regulatory requirements and standards that apply to monitoring of physical agents and/or conditions relevant to work health and safety (WHS)
- identifying the context of measurements to be undertaken including:
 - which physical agents and/or conditions will be measured and their characteristics
 - where the measurements will be taken
 - area or space available
 - movements of people and equipment, tasks or activities being undertaken, number of persons occupying area and other factors that may impact on the sampling or data-collection processes
 - physical features of equipment, such as emitting sources
- preparing for and collecting workplace WHS data and information including:
 - selecting and calibrating appropriate equipment and selecting appropriate scale
 - defining a sampling process and plan
 - performing tests
 - correct preparation, use, maintenance, cleaning storage and if required disposal of equipment
- consultation and communication with individuals and parties about the requirements, purpose and nature of the monitoring
- interpreting and evaluating results of monitoring including calculations using appropriate units of measurement, logarithmic scales, decimals and order of magnitude relevant to making and interpreting measurements and measurement error
- preparing and presenting clear and logical reports that are appropriate to purpose of report and the target audience
- keeping records that meet regulatory requirements
- seek expert advice, support and equipment as required.
- ensure own safety during monitoring process.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- list typical physical agents and/or conditions relevant to WHS including:
 - biological agents, such as insects, mites and bacteria
 - electricity
 - fibres, dusts and particulates
 - fumes, mists, gases and vapours
 - heat and humidity
 - light
 - noise
 - radiation, including ionising, non-ionising and laser
 - vibration
- outline aspects of WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and standards that are relevant to measuring physical agents and/or conditions and how they apply to the organisation
- explain the mode of action of common physical, biological and chemical agents on the body and how they produce discomfort or harm
- list the characteristics, mode of action and units of measurement for major hazard types
- describe environmental conditions that impact on measurements
- explain types of measuring and monitoring equipment and techniques for correct and safe use including limitations on use and output, calibration, adjustment, maintenance and any in-built alarms.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- measuring devices and equipment
- office equipment and resources
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, licensing requirements, standards

BSBWHS410 Contribute to work-related health and safety measures and initiatives

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to manage the identification, review, development, implementation and evaluation of effective participation and consultation processes as an integral part of managing work health and safety (WHS).

It applies to individuals with responsibility for enabling people to be consulted about, and to participate in, WHS management and decision making across the organisation. These individuals will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS410 Contribute to work-related health and safety measures and initiatives

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- contribute to scoping, establishing, reviewing and evaluating work health and safety (WHS) measures and initiatives to:
 - address specific legislative requirements and obligations
 - support non-statutory health promotion programs
- contribute to ensuring work-related health and safety measures and initiatives comply with legislative requirements and obligations
- liaise with relevant people internal and external to the organisation.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain the application of relevant mandatory health monitoring, including biological monitoring, to help secure work health and safety
- explain the difference between work-related health and safety measures and initiatives designed to meet specific legislative requirements and obligations, and those designed to support non-statutory health promotion programs, and give examples of each
- list factors that impact on work-related health and safety and their potential effects
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and how to access them
- outline organisational WHS and other relevant policies, procedures, processes and systems, including human resources
- summarise relevant WHS legislation, other legislation (such as privacy and workers' compensation) and common law rights and duties specific to work-related health and safety measures and initiatives

- describe work-related health and safety measures and initiatives that either address specific legislative requirements and obligations, or support non-statutory health prevention programs, including:
 - the factors impacting on worker health and safety that they address
 - effectiveness
 - costs and benefits
 - criteria for decisions regarding their implementation in a specific workplace
 - how they should be implemented.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace policies and procedures
- relevant legislation, regulations, standards and guidelines
- information and resources about factors impacting on the health and safety of workers, and work-related health and safety measures and initiatives
- relevant WHS documentation and records
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS501 Ensure a safe workplace

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to establish, maintain and evaluate the organisation's work health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures and programs in the relevant work area, according to WHS legislative requirements. It takes a systems approach and addresses compliance with relevant legislative requirements.

This unit applies to managers working in a range of contexts who have, or are likely to have responsibility for WHS as part of their broader management role. It is relevant for people with obligations under WHS legislation, for example persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers, as defined by relevant legislation.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS501 Ensure a safe workplace

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- establish, implement, maintain and evaluate a work health and safety (WHS) management system for a work area of an organisation in accordance with WHS legislation including policies, procedures and record keeping
- ensure organisational WHS compliance
- establish, implement, maintain and evaluate effective and compliant participation arrangements for managing WHS including identifying duty holders, identifying and approving the required resources and developing and implementing a training program
- establish, implement, maintain and evaluate procedures for effectively identifying hazards, and assessing and controlling risks using the hierarchy of risk control
- provide information and complete documentation for a WHS management system
- identify requirements for and request expert WHS advice.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify and detail relevant WHS Acts, regulations and codes of practice
- specify relevant WHS organisational policies, procedures, programs and practices
- explain hazard identification and risk-management processes
- describe the hierarchy of risk control and how it is applied in the workplace
- specify in-house and WHS legislative reporting requirements.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- organisational WHS policies and procedures
- WHS legislation, regulations and codes of practice
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS502 Manage effective WHS consultation and participation processes

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to manage the identification, review, development, implementation and evaluation of effective participation and consultation processes as an integral part of managing work health and safety (WHS).

It applies to individuals with responsibility for enabling people to be consulted about, and to participate in, WHS management and decision making across the organisation. These individuals will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS502 Manage effective WHS consultation and participation processes

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- implement the legal and organisational requirements for work health and safety (WHS) participation and consultation
- manage effective WHS consultation and participation processes including development, implementation, monitoring and review, in consultation with others
- review the effectiveness of existing WHS participation and consultation processes, identifying gaps and areas for improvement and positive performance indicators
- develop new or improved WHS participation and consultation processes that achieve required improvements and integrate with existing systems
- develop an action plan for implementation of new or improved WHS participation and consultation processes
- provide advice, support and monitoring to others during implementation of new or improved WHS participation and consultation processes and recommending changes to the plan as required

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify appropriate communication networks, processes and formats
- outline Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material in general, and in particular the parts relating to:
 - duties of PCBU's, officers, workers and inspectors
 - duty holders
 - consultation, participation and representation
 - discriminatory, coercive and misleading conduct

- workplace entry by WHS permit holders
- describe formal and informal communication and consultation processes, and key personnel related to communication
- explain how the characteristics and composition of the workforce impact on WHS risk and the management of WHS, including:
 - communication skills
 - cultural background and diversity
 - gender
 - labour market changes
 - language, literacy and numeracy levels of the workforce
 - structure and organisation of the workforce, including part time, casual and contract workers; shift rosters; and geographical location
 - workers with specific needs and limitations
 - workplace culture in relation to alcohol and other drug use
- list internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and how to access them
- identify key personnel, including change agents, within workplace management structure
- describe organisational culture as it impacts on the work team
- summarise relevant organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- describe the roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS legislation
- outline the training needs of health and safety committees, and health and safety representatives.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace policies and procedures
- reports from other parties consulted about design, implementation, management and review processes
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify, interpret and apply information from a range of sources to contribute to the development, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of a systematic approach to work health and safety (WHS) risk management
- apply WHS Acts, regulations codes of practice and standards, including the Safe Work Australia model Code of Practice: How to Manage Work Health and Safety Risks
- identify duty holders
- explain the differences between a hazard and a risk and identify hazards and risks in the organisation
- prepare an action plan to implement a systematic approach to WHS risk management
- prepare positive performance indicators for evaluation of a systematic approach to WHS risk management
- consult effectively with relevant stakeholders.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe formal and informal communication and consultation processes, and key personnel related to communication, including duty holders
- explain how the characteristics and composition of the workforce impact on WHS risk and the management of WHS with reference to:
 - communication skills
 - cultural background/diversity
 - gender
 - labour market changes

- language, literacy and numeracy
- structure and organisation of the workforce, for example part time, casual and contract workers, shift rosters, geographical location
- workers with specific needs and limitations
- workplace culture towards alcohol and other drug use
- describe internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and explain how to access these sources
- outline the limitations of generic hazard identification and risk assessment checklists, and risk ranking processes
- describe the nature of workplace processes including work flow, planning and control and hazards relevant to the workplace
- describe organisational behaviour and culture as it impacts on WHS, change and the work team
- describe the key features of organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- identify other functional areas in the organisation that impact on the management of WHS
- outline the key features of relevant commonwealth and state/territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material
- describe the key principles and/or practices of:
 - a systematic approach to managing WHS
 - duty of care including concepts of causation, foreseeability and prevention
 - incident causation and injury processes
- describe risk analysis and assessment techniques and tools, and their application and limitations
- explain risk, as the effect of uncertainty, on objectives
- explain the duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings (PCBUs) in regard to risk management under WHS legislation
- describe the sources of occupational disease and their prevention
- describe standard industry controls for hazards
- describe techniques, tools and processes for identifying and controlling health and safety hazards and risks including :
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analysis
 - manifests and registers including dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk throughs
- describe the key features of the toxicology of hazardous chemicals and potential health effects in the workplace.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- relevant WHS legislation, standards, codes of practice and guidelines
- workplace policies and procedures and documentation
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS504 Manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct work health and safety (WHS) risk management processes.

It applies to individuals who manage WHS risks, based on the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS), WHS information system (WHSIS) and risk-management approach (as covered in BSBWHS503 Contribute to the systematic management of WHS risk). These individuals will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS504 Manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- access information and data on hazards and how to manage associated risks
- identify duty holders and legislative requirements for work health and safety (WHS) risk management
- use the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS) and WHS information system (WHSIS) to conduct the following risk management processes:
 - identify hazards and potential hazards
 - assess the associated risks
 - identify control options
 - select suitable options
 - develop and implement a risk control plan
 - evaluate risk controls
- carry out hazard identification and risk management.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe the basic principles of workplace incident, injury and disease causation
- explain the meanings of 'hazard' and 'risk' and how they differ
- identify formal and informal communication and consultation processes and key personnel related to communication
- describe how the characteristics and composition of the workforce impact on WHS risk and the management of WHS, including:
 - communication skills
 - cultural background and diversity

- gender
- labour market changes
- language, literacy and numeracy levels of the workforce
- structure and organisation of the workforce, including part-time, casual and contract workers; shift rosters and geographical location
- workers with specific needs and limitations
- workplace culture in relation to alcohol and other drug use
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them
- explain the limitations of generic hazard identification and risk assessment checklists and risk ranking processes
- outline methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS legislation
- describe the nature of workplace processes (work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the workplace
- describe organisational culture as it impacts on the work team
- summarise organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- list other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- outline the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- outline Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material and other publications relevant to the organisation
- outline risk management as a duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings or officers under WHS legislation
- describe the roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS legislation
- outline standard industry controls for a range of hazards
- identify techniques, tools and processes for identifying health and safety hazards and assessing and controlling the associated risks, including:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk-throughs.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace policies and procedures
- office equipment and resources
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines relating to risks found in the workplace

- case studies and, where possible, real situations.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS505 Investigate WHS incidents

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to plan, conduct and report on investigations of work health and safety (WHS) incidents that have resulted in, or have the potential to result in, injury or damage.

It covers conducting an initial assessment of the situation; establishing the scope and legal parameters of the investigation; conducting a systematic analysis to identify underlying causes and actions for prevention; and reporting on the outcomes of the investigation appropriate to the potential severity of the incident, which may include accessing specialist expertise.

This unit applies to individuals required to investigate incidents in relation to prevention of future incidents.

The unit applies to people who work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and who apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Regulation, Licensing and Risk – Work Health and Safety

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
1 Ensure initial responses to the incident are carried out according to requirements	1.1 Prepare and implement a workplace procedure for incident investigation 1.2 Ensure site of the incident is safe and secured and that the immediate needs of those involved in the incident are met 1.3 Ensure WHS legislative requirements are met 1.4 Ensure other actions are performed to meet requirements of relevant workplace policies, procedures, processes and systems
2 Develop an investigation plan	2.1 Apply knowledge of WHS legislation and workplace policies, procedures and systems to assist with identifying duty holders and ensure requirements of WHS legislation and workplace policies, procedures, processes and systems are met by the investigation plan 2.2 Form an appropriate investigation team 2.3 Define the scope and purpose of the investigation and ensure they are appropriate to the scope and nature of the incident 2.4 Ensure participation of, and consultation with individuals and parties as part of the planning process, specifying agreed processes for all phases of the investigation 2.5 Identify, document and obtain necessary resources to conduct the investigation, including expert advice if required 2.6 Identify, address and document barriers to investigation 2.7 Ensure planning includes agreed timelines, objectives, responsibilities, roles, documentation, actions and outcomes
3 Collect information and data	3.1 Identify and access sources of information and data 3.2 Inspect incident site, equipment and other evidence, and document outcome of inspection 3.3 Gather information and data in ways that ensure objectivity, confidentiality, validity and accuracy
4 Analyse information and data gathered to identify immediate and underlying causes and practical prevention measures	4.1 Ensure investigation team understands, identifies and applies the conceptual basis for the analysis 4.2 Construct timeline of events leading up to the incident 4.3 Investigate key events, conditions and/or circumstances that together resulted in the incident

	4.4 Develop actions, interventions and practical measures to prevent the re-occurrence of the incident and to address root causes 4.5 Detail recommended actions, interventions or measures, and plans for their implementation and evaluation
5 Compile and communicate investigation report	5.1 Prepare a report on the investigation, using objective language 5.2 Cite evidence and basis for conclusions and recommendations 5.3 Communicate the report to relevant individuals and parties

Foundation Skills

This section describes language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills incorporated in the performance criteria that are required for competent performance.

BSBWHS506 Contribute to developing, implementing and maintaining WHS management systems

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to the development, implementation and maintenance of elements of a work health and safety management system (WHSMS).

It applies to individuals with organisational responsibilities for contributing to tasks in relation to elements of a WHSMS appropriate to the nature and scale of the organisation and its work health and safety (WHS) risks. These people will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and will apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS506 Contribute to developing, implementing and maintaining WHS management systems

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB01 Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to contribute to:

- developing, implementing, reviewing and improving a Work Health and Safety management system (WHSMS) for an organisation
- developing work health and safety (WHS) policy and gaining commitment to the WHSMS
- consultation and communications processes
- developing and implementing a WHS plan
- measuring and evaluating WHS performance.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- summarise the key elements of a WHSMS
- identify barriers to WHSMS implementation and strategies to remove them
- list the benefits to an organisation of having return-to-work and injury management integrated into the WHSMS
- list essential content of a WHS improvement action plan
- specify legislative requirements for WHS information and data, and consultation
- describe the nature of information and data that provide valid and reliable measures of performance of WHS management processes
- identify relevant Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material, and other relevant publications
- describe a range of commonly used WHSMS and the associated WHSMS certification standards

- specify requirements for recordkeeping that address WHS, privacy and other relevant legislation
- describe the roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS legislation
- specify WHS positive performance indicators.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- workplace policies and procedures
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to managing work health and safety information systems (WHSIS) to support work health and safety (WHS) management. It focuses on systems for gathering, managing and communicating information necessary for WHS management.

It applies to individuals who contribute to the management of a WHSIS. These people will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS507 Contribute to managing WHS information systems

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to contribute to:

- identifying Work Health and Safety Information Systems (WHSIS) legislative and organisational requirements including:
 - duty holders and roles
 - WHS information for effective work health and safety (WHS) management
 - functions and purposes
 - user needs
 - workplace factors
- using the WHSIS including:
 - advising and supporting users
 - gaining feedback for monitoring, evaluation and improvement
- using the WHSIS to support effective WHS management as required by job role including:
 - accessing and reviewing WHS information and data and their sources
 - collecting and recording WHS information and data that addresses legislative and organisational requirements, using appropriate tools
 - meeting external reporting requirements in a timely manner
 - using appropriate analytical techniques to evaluate WHS performance and identify improvement areas
 - regularly reviewing and analysing WHS information and data to ensure legislative and organisational requirements are met
 - recommending improvements in prevention strategies based on information and data
 - communicating WHS information and data according to legislative and organisational requirements
- assisting with monitoring and evaluating the WHSIS, and developing and implementing improvement measures incorporating:

- user participation and consultation, including with regard to frequency, method and scoping of WHSIS review
- identification and actioning of training needs.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify information and data relevant to the organisation and its needs (which is a function of the size and nature of the organisation) and to specific hazards in the workplace
- identify commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards, guidance material and links to other relevant legislation, including industrial relations, equal employment opportunity, workers' compensation and rehabilitation
- outline due diligence obligations as referred to in WHS Acts, regulations and codes of practice
- list internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and how to access them
- identify key personnel, including change agents, within workplace management structure
- summarise the language, literacy and cultural profile of the work team
- summarise legislative requirements for WHS information and data, and consultation
- describe methods for collecting reliable information and data, commonly encountered problems in collection, and strategies for overcoming these problems
- describe methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS legislation
- describe the nature of information and data that provide valid and reliable measures of performance of WHS management processes
- outline organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- detail the requirements for record keeping that address WHS, privacy and other relevant legislation
- list the requirements for reporting under WHS and other relevant legislation, including obligations for notification and reporting of incidents
- summarise the roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS legislation
- describe systems for storage and retrieval of information and data.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- reports and sample software for WHS information and data collation and analysis
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines
- case studies and, where possible, real situations

- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS508 Manage WHS hazards associated with plant

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to effectively manage work health and safety (WHS) hazards and to comply with WHS legislation as it applies to the management or control of plant (not the design, manufacture, supply, installation, construction or commissioning of plant or issuing of licences associated with plant).

It applies to individuals who may provide leadership and guidance to others using managerial and communication skills and who use systematic approaches to identify and resolve issues.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the National Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS508 Manage WHS hazards associated with plant

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- manage effective identification of hazards and develop risk control options for the operation of plant as defined in work health and safety (WHS) legislation
- develop, implement, monitor and modify WHS policies and procedures for the operation of plant
- use relevant systems and procedures in the operation and maintenance of plant
- implement general licensing and training requirements associated with plant
- identify, record and report on WHS hazards and assessing risk
- develop and implement risk control options
- communicate in the workplace to:
 - advise people of their rights, obligations and duties
 - consult about policies and procedures
 - identify hazards
 - assess WHS risk
 - advise people about registration, licensing and certification requirements
- use machinery safety control measures to control plant risks, including following registration and licensing requirements
- identify training needs and organise training.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe the basic principles of incident causation and injury processes
- explain the differences between a hazard and a risk

- identify factors that impact on risk
- explain the hierarchy of control and considerations for choosing between different risk controls
- identify high-risk work licences required for specific plant
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and explain how to access these sources
- discuss the management of risk associated with plant as a duty of a person conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) under WHS legislation
- describe the methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS legislation
- outline workplace processes (such as work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the workplace
- discuss organisational behaviour and culture as it impacts on WHS, change and work team
- describe the key features of organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- identify other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- outline key features of plant specific knowledge including:
 - basic physics of fluids under pressure and pressure vessels, and the behaviour of pressurised fluid when pressure is released
 - duties, rights and obligations of individuals and parties specified in WHS legislation
 - hazards associated with plant and systems of work associated with plant
 - industry practices related to permit to work and isolation and tag out systems
 - registration requirements of plant, licensing and certification competencies
- describe the key principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- describe the strategies for guarding moving parts in machinery, human factors related to machine guarding, safe design principles, features and limitations
- outline the key features of WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and other instruments issued by WHS regulators.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- manufacturers' manuals including specifications and operational information and data
- relevant WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards, guidelines
- sources of information, data and advice
- workplace policies and procedures
- workplace equipment and resources
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS509 Facilitate the development and use of WHS risk management tools

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to facilitate the development and use of WHS risk management tools.

It applies to individuals with responsibility for risk management. These people will work in a range of work health and safety (WHS) roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- select, develop and modify suitable work health and safety (WHS) risk management tools, in consultation with others, that address the workplace and legal requirements
- facilitate the use of WHS risk management tools including:
 - developing and conducting training for users
 - consulting on and facilitating logistical arrangements for use
 - supporting users
- use and apply WHS risk management tools and communicate outcomes including:
 - completing risk management process steps
 - facilitating logistical arrangements
 - collating and analysing results and findings
 - communicating results, findings and outcomes to others
- review usefulness and usability of WHS risk management tools and make changes based on the review outcomes.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe risk management tools, their correct application, use and limitations
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and how to access them
- outline the language, literacy and cultural profile of the work team
- describe WHS risk management methods, techniques, procedures and processes, including:

- correct application and use
- limitations
- usefulness and usability
- summarise the nature of workplace processes (work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the workplace
- outline organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- identify other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- describe techniques, tools and processes for identifying WHS hazards including:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - safe work method statements
 - workplace inspections and walk throughs
- describe tools, techniques and methods to address specific physical or psychosocial risks
- outline WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and other instruments issued by WHS regulators and how they apply to the organisation.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

BSBWHS510 Contribute to implementing emergency procedures

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to the implementation of planning and response procedures for emergencies. The focus is on implementation of procedures already developed for short-term emergency responses. It assumes that expert advice will be available in identifying potential emergencies and in formulating response plans.

This unit applies to individuals with supervisory responsibilities for managing work health and safety (WHS) in the workplace who contribute to the implementation of procedures for responding to emergencies. These people will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and who apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify potential emergencies and their causes, with input from others, including specialist advisers and emergency agencies and document them in a risk register
- identify and prioritise options for initial response to contain or limit emergencies and their impact, and for liaison with emergency services
- plan initial response procedures including:
 - categorising major types of potential emergencies
 - identifying required resources
 - checking equipment
 - documenting required actions for a range of major types of emergency, with input from others and in keeping with standards and current industry practice
 - identifying training needs and providers
- implement initial response procedures including:
 - documenting and displaying actions required
 - outlining own role
 - following appropriate procedures
- contribute to post-event activities including supporting others and contributing to debriefing
- monitor emergency response and address deficiencies including:
 - consulting
 - documenting and reporting results
 - identifying improvements.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe basic emergency prevention controls typically installed in a workplace including:
 - emergency alerting systems
 - emergency protection systems
 - smoke alarms, fire alarms and fire extinguishers
 - required safety wear
 - security systems
- describe the enterprise physical site and work areas
- explain enterprise reporting procedures for an emergency
- detail the essential actions of self and others in an emergency
- describe hazards and precautions to be taken during an emergency
- list hazards arising from evacuation
- detail the information needs of emergency response personnel during reporting, arrival and response to an emergency
- identify internal and external sources of work health and safety (WHS) information and data and how to access them
- summarise organisational and workplace WHS policies and procedures
- describe the organisational structure, roles and responsibilities contributing to the implementation of emergency procedures
- describe the powers of safety representatives and other authorised WHS personnel to implement an immediate cease work if an immediate danger to WHS exists
- summarise the principles and priorities for evacuation, checking and accounting for people
- summarise the principles of fire protection and emergency response
- outline relevant Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material and how it applies to the implementation of emergency procedures
- identify roles and responsibilities of WHS personnel
- give examples of emergency responses typically used in workplaces
- detail the WHS information needs of work unit or work team.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- workplace policies and procedures
- WHS legislation, regulations and codes of practice
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS601 Apply legislative frameworks for WHS

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify own competence limits and scope for providing advice about legislative frameworks relevant to work health and safety (WHS) seeking assistance from legal advisors and others where necessary
- assist with determining legislative frameworks relevant to WHS by monitoring relevant legislation and other documentation
- identify and effectively communicate to relevant stakeholders the current, emerging and future legislative requirements and issues in relation to the organisation including duties, rights and obligations of individuals and parties
- assist with providing advice on compliance with WHS and other legislative frameworks relevant to WHS, including advice on regulator functions, powers and exercise of powers
- assist with evaluating and implementing measures to comply with legislative frameworks relevant to WHS, including addressing required training and changes required to achieve compliance.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe duties, rights and obligations of individuals and parties as specified in relevant WHS legislation and where this information is located in WHS legislation
- identify effective consultation and participation processes
- identify existing work health and safety information system (WHSIS) or other workplace information systems
- describe functions and powers of the WHS regulator, and how they are exercised
- describe objectives and principles underpinning WHS legislation and related legislation

- describe relationship between the WHS Act, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material, and other legislation relevant to WHS
- explain relevant sections of Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards, guidance material and other instruments
- identify sources of information about WHS legislation and related legislation
- explain systematic approaches to managing and complying with WHS legislation
- identify workplace policies, procedures, activities, processes and systems that will achieve compliance with WHS legislation and related legislation.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material
- workplace documentation including policies and procedures
- reports from other parties consulted in ensuring compliance with required legislation
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS602 Facilitate WHS activities

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to work effectively with key work health and safety (WHS) personnel and stakeholders and with WHS and other professionals.

This unit involves identifying and engaging with key personnel and stakeholders and selecting communication strategies to provide them with required information and tools. It also covers facilitating and evaluating the effectiveness of collaborative work with WHS and other professionals.

It applies to individuals who are required to coordinate and facilitate WHS activities.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS603 Implement WHS risk management

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to implement work health and safety (WHS) risk management. It addresses the establishment, implementation, review and improvement of WHS risk management frameworks and processes.

It applies to people who apply advanced practical knowledge to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program within an organisation.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- manage effective work health and safety (WHS) risk management consultation and participation processes including:
 - identifying those who need to be involved
 - reviewing and improving exiting processes
 - ensuring processes are appropriate to the organisation and WHS risks
- arrange for necessary resources during WHS risk management, including:
 - identifying and budgeting for requirements
 - procuring resources and ensuring availability
- review and improve existing WHS risk management processes, including:
 - using workplace information and data
 - consulting with individuals and parties
 - considering effectiveness, current risk controls, lessons learnt from events, changes in the internal and external contexts, emerging risks and performance against indicators
- develop a WHS risk management framework including:
 - using suitable sources of information and data to determine the purposes, objectives, principles and structure
- establish the context for WHS risk management including:
 - identifying duty holders, legislative requirements, impacting individuals, parties and factors
 - defining risk criteria
- assess risks including:
 - identifying hazards
 - undertaking risk analysis and evaluation
 - addressing requirements of WHS legislation, WHS risk assessment and workplace WHS information and data
- control risks including:

- selecting from control options according to outcomes of risk assessment, WHS hazards and risk controls, and WHS legislation
- preparing and implementing risk control measures
- monitor and review the WHS risk management process according to the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS) requirements
- record the WHS risk management process according to the organisation's WHS information system (WHSIS) requirements.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain different definitions of hazard and risk and how they are used by different individuals and parties
- outline internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them
- identify organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- identify other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- describe the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- describe the principles of duty of care, including concepts of causation, foreseeability and preventability
- describe the principles of incident causation and injury processes
- list a range of risk analysis and assessment techniques and tools and their application and limitations
- outline relevant and applicable Australian legislation, standards and publications
- define risk as the effect of uncertainty on objectives
- define risk management as a duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings (PCBUs) or officers under WHS legislation
- give examples of standard industry risk controls for a range of hazards
- outline techniques, tools and processes for identifying health and safety hazards and controlling risks:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk-throughs
- describe toxicology of hazardous chemicals and potential health effects in the workplace.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- relevant WHS legislation, standards and guidelines
- workplace policies and procedures
- reports from other parties consulted during the approach to WHS risk management
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- evaluate the effectiveness of an organisation's arrangements for identifying work health and safety (WHS) hazards including:
 - comparing them with WHS policies and procedures
 - ensuring inclusion of long-latency and low-frequency/high-consequence hazards
 - ensuring inclusion of risks to persons other than workers
 - reviewing outcomes with specialists
- evaluate the effectiveness of an organisation's arrangements for WHS risk management including:
 - appropriateness of risk assessment tools and processes
 - validity and reliability of outcomes
 - inclusion of all major WHS risks
 - suitability and effectiveness of risk controls
 - the relationship between strategic planning and WHS
- evaluate the effectiveness of the organisation's processes for monitoring WHS including:
 - the quality of information and data
 - management's response to issues
- assess the outcomes of the organisation's arrangements for managing WHS including:
 - assessing whether performance indicators, including positive performance indicators (PPIs), provide a true, reliable and timely effectiveness measure
 - comparing differences between reported performance and evidence gathered
 - evaluating and documenting WHS performance outcomes
 - determining whether arrangements have produced improvement
- assess and report on the organisation's WHS compliance with agreed benchmarks and legislation, including:
 - identifying areas of WHS compliance and non-compliance
 - documenting and reporting outcomes to key stakeholders.

- outline Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards, guidance material and links to other relevant legislation, including industrial relations, equal employment opportunity, workers' compensation and rehabilitation
- outline the concept of common law duty of care
- describe the development of WHS performance assessment tools including PPIs
- describe ethics related to professional practice
- outline formal and informal communication and consultation processes, and key personnel related to communication
- summarise the language, literacy and cultural profile of the work team
- describe legal liability in relation to providing advice
- summarise the legislative requirements for WHS information and data, and consultation
- outline the limitations of generic hazard identification and risk assessment checklists, and risk ranking processes
- list methods for collecting reliable information and data, commonly encountered problems in collection, and strategies for overcoming such problems
- list methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS legislation
- describe the nature and use of information and data that provide valid and reliable results on performance of WHS management processes (including PPIs) and limitations of other types of measures
- outline the nature of workplace processes (work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the workplace
- describe organisational culture as it impacts on the work team
- summarise organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- outline the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- outline the principles of duty of care, including concepts of causation, foreseeability and preventability
- list the principles of effective meetings, including agendas, action planning, chair and secretarial duties, minutes and action items
- list a range of risk analysis and assessment techniques and tools, and their application and limitations
- detail the requirements for recordkeeping that address WHS, privacy and other relevant legislation
- detail the requirements for reporting under WHS and other relevant legislation, including obligations for notification and reporting of incidents
- summarise the requirements under hazard-specific WHS legislation and codes of practice
- describe risk management as a duty of PCBU's or officers under WHS legislation

- describe the roles and responsibilities, in relation to communication and consultation, for health and safety committees, health and safety representatives, line management, workers and inspectors
- outline sampling methodologies, application and related statistical measures
- list standard industry controls for a range of hazards
- describe techniques, tools and processes for identifying and controlling health and safety hazards and risks:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk-throughs.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace strategic and operational plans, policies and procedures
- WHS information and data
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS605 Develop, implement and maintain WHS management systems

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to develop, implement and maintain a Work Health and Safety management system (WHSMS) or parts of a WHSMS.

It applies to individuals with organisational responsibilities and who have advanced practical knowledge required to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program in an organisation.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- support and facilitate the implementation of a work health and safety management system (WHSMS) including:
 - determining form, content, purposes and functions
 - consulting and gaining agreement
- develop work health and safety (WHS) policy and commitment to a WHSMS including:
 - communicating requirements
 - developing and implementing an initial review
 - meeting organisational requirements
 - facilitating and supporting consultation and participation
 - documenting and communicating the policy
- develop a WHS plan including:
 - communicating requirements
 - collaborating with others
 - facilitating and supporting consultation and participation
- implement a WHS plan including:
 - communicating requirements
 - facilitating and supporting consultation and participation
 - collaborating to ensure policies, procedures, processes and systems support WHS plan implementation
- measure and evaluate WHS performance including:
 - communicating requirements
 - facilitating and supporting consultation and participation
 - assessing policies, procedures, systems and processes for ability to support WHS plan implementation
- review and improve the WHSMS including:
 - communicating requirements

- facilitating and supporting consultation and participation
- documenting and reporting outcomes and suggested improvements.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- give examples of barriers to WHSMS implementation and strategies to overcome them
- describe the nature of information and data that provide valid and reliable measures of WHS performance and WHSMS, including positive performance indicators
- outline relevant Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards, guidance material and other relevant publications
- outline requirements for recordkeeping that address WHS, privacy and other relevant legislation
- describe the structure and functions of a WHSMS
- summarise WHSMS certification and auditing standards, processes and requirements.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- workplace WHS policies and procedures
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance materials.
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS606 Conduct a WHS audit

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct an internal work health and safety (WHS) audit or an external WHS audit under the guidance of a lead auditor.

This unit applies to the auditing of a systematic approach to managing WHS, which may or may not be formalised as part of a WHS management system, and can be against internal or external benchmarks. It involves systematic examination against audit criteria to determine conformance to planned arrangements for the management of WHS.

It applies to personnel required to conduct a WHS audit. A WHS audit may be conducted by an individual or by a team and may be concurrent with other management system audits or conducted as a standalone exercise.

This unit does not cover evaluation of the organisation's overall WHS performance, which is addressed in BSBWHS604 Evaluate the WHS performance of organisations.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
1 Prepare for a WHS audit	1.1 Define the scope, objectives and benchmarks of the audit 1.2 Identify and obtain relevant documentation, including preliminary material, on the operation of the organisation 1.3 Identify and arrange resources required to conduct the audit 1.4 Assign timing, schedule and responsibilities for the audit
2 Develop a WHS audit plan	2.1 Ensure nature of information and data collected provides valid and reliable evidence of the systematic approach to managing WHS and risk controls within the context of the organisation 2.2 Include key personnel and stakeholders in sources of evidence 2.3 Ensure information and data collection strategies address issues of security, confidentiality, impartiality and equity 2.4 Include opportunities for corroborating evidence in information- and data collection strategies 2.5 Document audit plan and submit to key personnel and stakeholders for consultation and feedback 2.6 Modify audit plan in relation to feedback from key personnel and stakeholders 2.7 Re submit audit plan to key personnel and stakeholders for comment as appropriate 2.8 Negotiate issues concerning audit plan with key personnel and stakeholders, and amend documents where required
3 Select appropriate WHS audit tools	3.1 Ensure audit tools accurately reflect the criteria of the benchmark, nature of risks, identified relevant information and data types 3.2 Ensure audit tools focus on WHS management processes 3.3 Ensure audit tools can be used with consistent outcomes by all members of the audit team 3.4 Ensure audit tools enable collection of evidence in a timely and efficient manner 3.5 Trial audit tools and modify as required
4 Gather information, data and WHS records	4.1 Consult a broad range of workplace personnel during evidence-gathering activities

	4.2 Gather information, data and WHS records, compare with the audit plan and identify reasons for discrepancies 4.3 Identify and use alternative methods when required information, data and WHS records are not forthcoming using planned methods 4.4 Check reliability and validity of information, data and WHS records with a number of sources 4.5 Adapt to contingencies as they arise
5 Undertake WHS audit activities	5.1 Undertake preliminary evaluation 5.2 Undertake initial meetings and work site familiarisation 5.3 Monitor progress of the audit plan with key personnel and stakeholders and/or audit team members to ensure resources are being used as planned, and that audit objectives and audit timelines are being achieved 5.4 Progressively document and retain records of information, data and WHS records and findings in an appropriate format 5.5 Report promptly the hazards and risks identified during the audit to key personnel and stakeholders and/or person in control of the workplace 5.6 Address own health and safety during the audit according to organisational requirements and standards for safe work practices and applicable WHS legislation 5.7 Ensure information and data collection and evaluation activities comply with legal requirements and are carried out ethically 5.8 Undertake exit meetings with key personnel and stakeholders as appropriate
6 Report on the outcomes of the WHS audit	6.1 Compare results of the evaluation against audit criteria 6.2 Consult appropriately on evaluation results and develop summary audit findings and recommendations 6.3 Present summary audit findings and recommendations to key personnel and stakeholders at the closing meeting 6.4 Present objective evidence with clear and concise findings, including benefits to be achieved by adoption of the audit recommendations 6.5 Anticipate possible challenges to the report and prepare further explanations to promote acceptance 6.6 Recommend corrective action and follow up processes as required

BSBWHS607 Apply ergonomics to manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to apply the principles, processes and methods of ergonomics to work health and safety (WHS) risk management and to the enhancement of WHS related planning and design activities and processes.

It applies to individuals who manage WHS risks and who need to consider the role ergonomics should play in this process. These individuals will apply advanced practical knowledge to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program within an organisation. Working with ergonomists may be required as part of this role.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS607 Apply ergonomics to manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify work health and safety (WHS) hazards and manage associated risks where ergonomics can be applied through:
 - using workplace WHS information
 - using knowledge of ergonomics principles, processes and methods
- use ergonomics principles, processes and methods to address WHS risk management
- apply ergonomics in WHS related planning and design activities including:
 - identifying opportunities for enhancement through ergonomics
 - enhancing activities and evaluating changes
- ensure ergonomics activities are compliant and appropriate including:
 - legislative compliance
 - organisational compliance
 - appropriateness to available resources and own role and capabilities
 - seeking specialist input where necessary and appropriate.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- define 'ergonomics' and outline the application domains of ergonomics
- broadly outline the knowledge base, skills, methods, techniques, expertise, roles and functions of ergonomists
- outline ergonomics principles, processes and methods applicable to the management of WHS hazards and risks, and WHS related planning and design activities and processes

- identify ergonomics related content of applicable WHS legislation, regulations, codes of practice and other documents, such as policies, standards, guidance publications and alerts issued by the relevant WHS regulators
- summarise the general principles and processes of ergonomics
- outline the scope and broad content of Australian and international ergonomics standards
- describe systems and systems concepts as used in ergonomics.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- relevant WHS legislation, standards, guidelines, information and data
- reports from other parties consulted in developing ergonomics interventions
- case studies and, where possible, real situations

BSBWHS608 Assist with applying occupational hygiene to manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with the application of occupational hygiene principles, knowledge and techniques to manage work health and safety (WHS) risks.

It includes understanding how occupational hygiene contributes to WHS management, the appropriate application of occupational hygiene knowledge, skills and techniques and working with occupational hygienists and other specialists.

This unit applies to individuals who assist with applying occupational hygiene to manage WHS risks. Individuals who are required to assist with the monitoring of a range of physical agents and/or conditions in the workplace should use BSBWHS409 Assist with workplace monitoring processes.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS608 Assist with applying occupational hygiene to manage WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify work health and safety (WHS) hazards and risks to be addressed by occupational hygiene through:
 - using workplace WHS information
 - using knowledge of occupational hygiene principles, knowledge, skills and techniques
 - identifying situations requiring specialists
- assist with the assessment of identified WHS hazards and risks including:
 - determining sources of exposure
 - identifying and using occupational hygiene equipment and techniques
 - analysing and interpreting results of assessments
 - reporting results, interpretations and recommendations
- assist with the design and implementation of risk controls including:
 - applying the hierarchy of control
 - identifying and advising on remediating problems with existing controls
 - ensuring participation and consultation
 - accessing external sources of information and specialist advice
- assist with monitoring, evaluating and modifying risk controls including:
 - consulting others
 - addressing related training needs
 - making recommendations about future risk controls
- ensure occupational hygiene activities are legislatively and organisationally compliant and appropriate:
 - according to resources, role and capabilities
 - seeking specialist advice as needed.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain common controls for a range of hazards and associated risks, their effectiveness and their limitations
- describe how occupational hygienists work with WHS personnel, individuals and parties in the workplace to control WHS risks
- outline organisational and workplace WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- explain key concepts and processes including:
 - occupational hygiene assessments and investigations
 - characteristics of WHS hazards and risks addressed by occupational hygiene, their effects on people and how these effects occur
 - exposure standards, and other standards and guidelines used in occupational hygiene, including their limitations and practical applications
 - how recommendations for occupational hygiene risk controls are developed, implemented and evaluated
 - nature and scope of risk controls, including the hierarchy of control in relation to occupational hygiene
 - occupational hygiene principles, knowledge, skills, techniques and methodologies
 - roles and functions of occupational medicine physicians, other medical doctors and toxicologists
 - sources and routes of exposure of hazards and risks addressed by occupational hygiene
 - training, education, roles, functions and skills of occupational hygienists
 - types, purposes, functions and use of occupational hygiene equipment
 - summarise the requirements for individual training and instruction in the fitting, use, maintenance and storage of a range of personal protective equipment (PPE)
- summarise the requirements for selection and limitations of use of PPE
- define risk management as a duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings (PCBUs) or officers under WHS legislation
- identify sources of occupational disease and their prevention
- outline WHS Acts, regulations and codes of practice with particular relevance to occupational hygiene
- outline workplace processes, activities, jobs and tasks relevant to occupational hygiene.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- relevant legislation, standards and guidelines

- occupational hygiene equipment that meets relevant standards for function and performance
- relevant workplace policies and procedures
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS609 Advise on the application of safe design principles to control WHS risks

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to advise on applying safe design principles to control Work Health and Safety (WHS) risks during a product's life cycle. The central feature of safe design is the application of relevant information and data about human experience, capabilities and behaviour to the design of objects, facilities, procedures and environments that people use.

It applies to individuals who are in a position to provide advice on the application of safe design principles in their organisation, which may be involved in one or more stages of the product life cycle.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- advise on work health and safety (WHS) requirements of design processes including:
 - advising decision makers on responsibilities and legal duties, including WHS risk management, and control for residual WHS risks, at product life cycle stages
 - promoting WHS in design requirements and WHS risk control across product life cycle
 - making available current WHS product design information
 - making available education and training for design phase WHS risk management
 - consulting known and potential users
 - identifying situations where specialists or advisers may be required
- advise on the development of a systematic WHS risk management system for safe design including giving advice on:
 - hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control
 - ensuring risk management includes potential alterations to the product during its life
 - documentation and accessibility of decision making
 - establishment and downstream distribution of a residual risk register
 - monitoring of evolving design
- advise on the principles of WHS risk controls:
 - based on the hierarchy of control
 - ensuring inclusion of fail safe action
- advise on consultation processes in the life cycle of the designed product including giving advice on:
 - consideration of users' needs
 - consultation during concept and design phases in relation to WHS risk management
 - communication of residual life cycle risk
- advise on procurement systems to minimise 'purchased' WHS hazards and risks including giving advice on:

- inclusion of risk management requirement and provision of residual risk information
- inclusion of agreement to carry out a safe design approach in the design brief or draft specifications.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe basic human cognitive and perceptual capabilities and other basic and fundamental factors relevant to the design of human machine interfaces
- outline basic information about relevant psychosocial factors, occupational violence, shift work, repetitive work, awkward postures, lighting, thermal environment and work layout
- outline the basics of anthropometry and biomechanics
- summarise commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations and codes of practice and other relevant publications and guidelines relating to information and data, consultation, participation and safe design including:
 - Safe Work Australia, Guidance on the principles of safe design for work
 - Safe Work Australia, Model Code of Practice: Safe design of structures
- give examples of direct and indirect factors that impact on WHS and the environment in the design of products
- outline formal and informal communication and consultation processes and key personnel related to communication
- detail the hierarchy of control and criteria for choosing between different WHS risk controls
- outline internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them
- identify key personnel, including change agents, within workplace management structure
- outline legal liability in relation to providing advice
- describe organisational behaviour and culture as they impact on WHS and on change
- summarise pertinent sections of relevant Australian, and other, standards
- explain risk management and the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- outline the WHS legislative duties of PCBUs or officers who are designers to eliminate hazards at the design stage.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- reports from other parties consulted, in developing appropriate interactions between people involved in the life cycle of the designed product
- relevant legislation, standards, guidelines, research or industry data
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWOR201 Manage personal stress in the workplace

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to understand signs and sources of stress within the broader framework of the job role and work environment.

It applies to individuals who usually work with some guidance and supervision in an environment where they are likely to encounter difficult customers and situations from time to time. It typically applies in a contact centre environment owing to the very measured, structured, high volume and potentially repetitive nature of the work, but can apply in any work environment.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWOR201 Manage personal stress in the workplace

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- recognise and understand potential stress in the work environment
- develop and use techniques and strategies to manage stress and stressful situations
- adopt and monitor potential sources of stress and fatigue, seeking assistance as required
- monitor own performance against performance requirements and key performance indicators (KPIs)
- use techniques to achieve work/life balance.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe job role priorities and KPIs
- list internal and external sources of assistance, including escalation pathways
- outline signs and sources of existing and potential stress or difficult situations
- discuss stress management and reduction techniques
- describe time management tools and techniques.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced in the industry capability – workplace effectiveness field of work and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- time management tools

- workplace documentation
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge of:

- Available services and constraints on delivery
- The broader service delivery and training networks in the local area
- Process of referral and documentation of the referral

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Identify presenting needs and respond appropriately within the guidelines of the service
- Interpret and apply relevant policies
- Demonstrate application of skills in:
 - appropriate one to one communication process
 - record-keeping and documentation processes, including effective use of relevant information technology in line with work health and safety (WHS) guidelines

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- Evidence must include observation of performance in the work environment or in a simulated work setting
- Evidence must include demonstration over a period of time to ensure consistency of performance

availability of information especially for direct use of clients

3.4 Monitor validity and usefulness of information and take appropriate actions for disposal or storage

4. Support and supervise the development of information and educational resources

4.1 Develop content and format guidelines in consultation with clients and other stakeholders, to guide production of education and information resources

4.2 Recruit appropriate expertise to develop designated information and education resources

4.3 Establish opportunities for information users to monitor and advise on ongoing development of information and education resources

5. Provide staff training

5.1 Determine staff training needs in relation to systems for information acquisition, recording and storage, and for preparing educational resources

5.2 Organise training or retraining in accordance with the units of competency required, training needs analysis and organisation policy

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge of:

- Application of information technology
- Workload analysis models/systems
- Operations of the agency
- Relevant policy and procedures and work systems
- Systems analysis models/theories

- Relevant legislation relating to organisation and statutory information requirements
- Range of current and emerging information technology relevant to addressing organisation information requirements
- Consultation processes and techniques
- Communication dissemination models

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Assess information requirements for an organisation or department
- Design work systems that integrate technology and address organisation and statutory information requirements
- Design training processes to support introduction of new technology in work practices
- Demonstrate knowledge of applicable agency and legislative requirements processes listed in the Range Statement

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Demonstrate application of skills in:
 - assessment of information needs
 - analysis
 - planning
 - consultation/facilitation
 - report writing
 - running reviews
 - accessing/researching current emerging technology
 - marketing technology
 - communication/dissemination strategies
- Utilise relevant information technology effectively in line with work health and safety (WHS) guidelines

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment • The individual being assessed must provide evidence and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit is most appropriately assessed in the workplace or in a simulated workplace and under the normal range of workplace conditions
This may include the use of languages other than English and alternative communications systems
- Assessment must include all aspects of managing the organisation's information systems in the workplace

Access and equity considerations:

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment

- Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
- Resources required for assessment of this unit include access to:
 - an appropriate workplace where assessment can be conducted or simulation of realistic workplace setting for assessment

Method of assessment:

- Assessment may include observations, questioning and evidence gathered from the workplace e.g. observation of recording systems, portfolios, testimonials from clients and colleagues

Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

The contexts for managing information systems include:

- Management of a work unit/major program area

Managing information systems will be carried out within requirements established by:

- Commonwealth and state legislation
- Organisation policy and procedures
- Relevant program standards
- Informal and formal arrangements with government, non-government and other service providers to obtain information relating to clients and services
- Computer based recording systems
- Electronic banking

Financial and technological resources required may include:

- 1.1 Implement ongoing continuous improvement processes to review relevance and effectiveness of workplace processes and systems
- 1.2 Identify potential for change in order to more effectively achieve organisation's objectives and contribute to meeting client and stakeholder needs
- 1.3 Work collaboratively with staff to foster innovation and generate ideas for improved processes, practices and/or systems
- 1.4 Acknowledge staff contributions and provide support and guidance to build on and enhance ideas in positive and beneficial ways
- 1.5 Review and discuss potential outcomes of identified changes and their alignment with client needs and issues and with organisation's values, philosophy and strategic objectives
- 1.6 Identify and discuss potential barriers to change and determine strategies to address identified challenges during the change implementation process

2. Facilitate implementation of change in the workplace

- 2.1 Consult and negotiate with relevant stakeholders to facilitate understanding of and agreement with planned changes being implemented
- 2.2 Undertake risk assessment prior to implementing change and communicate risks to involved stakeholders
- 2.3 Ensure staff have a clear understanding of the purpose and nature of changes being implemented and implications specific to their work practices
- 2.4 Provide support as required to facilitate implementation of agreed changes
- 2.5 Address barriers and challenges to changes as required and in consultation with relevant stakeholders

ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

- 2.6 Demonstrate acceptance of failure in trials of ideas or changes and focus on resolving issues and minimising impacts on clients and risk and cost to the organisation
3. Review the impacts of change and innovation in the workplace
- 3.1 Put in place processes to enable ongoing review of outcomes of change against expectations and previous outcomes or performance
- 3.2 Ensure prompt action is taken to address issues where changes have a negative impact
- 3.3 Identify and implement measures, where required, to enhance the implementation of change
- 3.4 Acknowledge, reinforce and promote the benefits of effective changes achieved

Required Skills and KnowledgeREQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge of:

- A range of approaches to planning and management of workplace change and innovation
- Consultation and collaboration mechanisms appropriate to the workplace
- Funding/income strategies
- Principles and practices of change management theory
- Relevant government policies and systems
- Scope and outcomes of the workplace

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Consult and work collaboratively with staff to plan and implement change and innovation
- Identify and address barriers to change in the workplace
- Implement organisation continuous improvement policies and procedures
- Review and adjust implementation of change
- Support and guide effective change in the workplace, including celebration of success and acceptance of failure

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Demonstrate application of skills in:
 - continuous improvement principles and practices
 - literacy
 - communication and negotiating with relevant decision-makers and stakeholders associated with change
 - community consultation
 - planning and review processes
 - coordinating a complex range of issues and relationships
 - analysis
 - leadership and motivation
 - service quality maintenance
 - cost management
 - effective and safe facilitation of workplace change
- Facilitate processes to recognise and address environmental responsibility and sustainable practice issues

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit is most appropriately assessed in the workplace under the normal range of workplace conditions
- It is recommended that assessment take place on more than one occasion or evidence gathered that provides evidence of competence over a period of time

Access and equity considerations:

- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
- All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
- In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

Context of and specific resources for assessment:

- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
- Resource requirements for assessment of this unit include access to an appropriate workplace where assessment can be conducted

Method of assessment:

- Assessment may include observations, questioning and evidence gathered from the workplace

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

Workplace change may relate to:

- Community expectations
- Levels and sources of funding
- Management decision-making processes
- Nature and focus of service, programs and activities
- Service users/funding providers
- Staff requirements
- Technological changes
- Use and availability of resources
- Workplace policies and approaches
- Workplace processes, practices and systems

Support may include:

- Emotional support
- Organisation resources
- Professional guidance
- Training or related skills and knowledge development

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements define the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

The Performance Criteria specify the level of performance required to demonstrate achievement of the Element. Terms in italics are elaborated in the Range Statement.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1. Prepare a research plan

- 1.1 Ensure views and interests of stakeholders are reflected in the research methodology and it is compatible with ethical considerations
- 1.2 Select research methodology suitable to needs, purposes and resources and to maximise credibility of outcomes
- 1.3 Select and use research strategies appropriate to client group, subject matter being researched, the outcomes sought and the resources available
- 1.4 Ensure research plan incorporates strategies for validating research outcomes

2. Implement appropriate research strategies

- 2.1 Select and use research strategies appropriate to subject matter being researched, the outcomes sought and the resources available
- 2.2 Determine and allocate resources needed to conduct research
- 2.3 Ensure collection, recording and storage of all relevant information is timely and will ensure validity, confidentiality and security
- 2.4 Identify a representative range of people and groups with an interest in the issues and consult them in appropriate ways to ensure validity of outcomes
- 2.5 Undertake consultation according to agreed practices and protocol of own and other agencies
- 2.6 Consider cultural sensitivities and ethical issues in

ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

all consultation

3. Organise and analyse information

3.1 Organise information in a form that allows analysis and suits the research purposes

3.2 Develop patterns in the data and derive explanations, maintaining validity and reliability

4. Report the findings of the research

4.1 Report complete and accurate details of the research methodology, information and analysis in an accessible and useable style and format

4.2 Provide opportunities for validation of research findings

4.3 Report research results and make them available to all relevant stakeholders

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level required for this unit.

Essential knowledge:

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include knowledge of:

- Current and suitable research methodologies, including community based research and participatory research
- Research interview techniques, including consultation methods, protocols and practice
- Information systems, manual and electronic
- Report presentation
- Cultural implications of research methods
- Cultural analysis of information
- Cultural knowledge and ownership issues

- Research ethics

Essential skills:

It is critical that the candidate demonstrate the ability to:

- Carry out research activities that are directly relevant to the organisation and/or the community

In addition, the candidate must be able to effectively do the task outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage the task and manage contingencies in the context of the identified work role

These include the ability to:

- Demonstrate application of skills in:
 - consultation methods
 - complex communication
 - negotiation with a wide range of known and unknown stakeholders
 - interpretation and analysis of data
 - networking
 - written/oral presentation
- Utilise relevant information technology effectively in line with work health and safety (WHS) guidelines

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate this unit of competency:

- The individual being assessed must provide evidence of specified essential knowledge as well as skills
- This unit is most appropriately assessed in the workplace or in a simulated workplace and under the normal range of workplace conditions
This may include the use of languages other than English and alternative communication systems
- It is recommended that assessment take place on one or more occasions but must include all aspects of research activities - preparing, implementing, analysing, and reporting on research

- Access and equity considerations:*
- All workers in community services should be aware of access, equity and human rights issues in relation to their own area of work
 - All workers should develop their ability to work in a culturally diverse environment
 - In recognition of particular issues facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, workers should be aware of cultural, historical and current issues impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
 - Assessors and trainers must take into account relevant access and equity issues, in particular relating to factors impacting on Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander clients and communities

- Context of and specific resources for assessment:*
- This unit can be assessed independently, however holistic assessment practice with other community services units of competency is encouraged
 - Resource requirements for assessment of this unit include access to:
 - an appropriate workplace where assessment can take place, or simulation of realistic workplace setting for assessment

- Method of assessment:*
- Assessment may include observations, questioning and evidence gathered from the workplace

Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

- The contexts for undertaking research may include:*
- Preparation of a range of organisation information for policy development, strategic planning, marketing and promotion services, planning new services, reviewing existing services, providing advice to management

- Responsibility for research specific to a service, its stakeholders, interests and relationship with the wider community
- Specific community or client interests and issues

Stakeholders may be:

- Within the organisation
- Within the community
- In other areas of delivery and other services, agencies
- In the education/training field
- Other specialists
- Management
- Community leaders
- Recipients of the service delivery

according to organisational requirements, making efficient use of time and resources.

3 Finalise procurement process.

- 3.1 Procurement process is finalised within agreed timeframes according to organisational requirements.
- 3.2 Inspection is arranged to confirm procurement meets required quality standards and procurement objectives.
- 3.3 Defects or variances to procurement objectives are identified and prompt remedial action is taken according to organisational requirements.
- 3.4 Business equipment and technology are used to maintain systems, records and reports according to applicable OHS, organisational and legislative requirements.

Required Skills and KnowledgeREQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

- communication skills to discuss and confirm procurement arrangements, interpret written and oral information, liaise with suppliers and obtain feedback
- computing skills to access the internet and web pages, prepare and complete online forms, lodge electronic documents and search online databases
- interpersonal skills to relate to people from a range of social, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and varying physical and mental abilities
- literacy skills to interpret written and oral information, including procurement policies and procedures; and access and understand a variety of information
- organisational skills to coordinate work schedules and time lines
- technology skills to complete documentation and maintain records, reports and a database of information about suppliers.

Required knowledge and understanding:

- benefits and risks of a range of procurement options, such as lease, purchase, sale and leaseback, and term contract
- best practice procurement principles
- implications of warranties, guarantees and exclusions
- key principles of procurement, including:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- accountability and recording
- ethics and fair dealing
- open and effective competition
- planning and professionalism
- value for money
- limitations of work role, responsibility and professional abilities
- organisation's policies and procedures for employment and tendering of services and procurement
- relevant Australian standards
- relevant federal and state or territory legislation and local government regulations related to:
 - anti-discrimination
 - consumer protection
 - environmental issues
 - equal employment opportunity (EEO)
 - financial probity
 - franchise and business structures
 - industrial relations
 - OHS
 - property sales, leasing and management
- tendering and contracting processes, including a range of contractual arrangements
- user needs and requirements for facilities
- whole of life costing and price-quality relationship issues.

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Overview of assessment

This unit of competency could be assessed through practical demonstration of implementing and monitoring purchasing processes for goods and services. Targeted written (including alternative formats where necessary) or verbal questioning to assess the candidate's underpinning knowledge would provide additional supporting evidence of competence. The demonstration and questioning would include collecting evidence of the candidate's knowledge and application of ethical standards and relevant federal, and state or territory legislation and regulations. This assessment may be carried out in a simulated or workplace environment.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of:

- accurately reviewing procurement objectives and relevant information to determine procurement processes, and sourcing appropriate authority or delegations for procurement
- finalising procurement process within agreed timeframes and using business equipment and technology to maintain records and reports
- knowledge of organisation's practices, ethical standards and legislative requirements associated with implementing and monitoring purchasing processes for goods and services
- using communication to monitor effectively the implementation of the procurement process against budget parameters.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Resource implications for assessment include:

- access to suitable simulated or real opportunities and resources to demonstrate competence
- assessment instruments that may include personal planner and assessment record book
- access to a registered provider of assessment services.

Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.

Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required.

Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate, and appropriate to the language and literacy capacity of the candidate and the work being performed.

Validity and sufficiency of evidence require that:

- competency will need to be demonstrated over a period of time reflecting the scope of the role and the practical requirements of the workplace
- where the assessment is part of a structured learning experience the evidence collected must relate to a number of performances assessed at different points in time and separated by further learning and practice with a decision of competence only taken at the point when the assessor has complete confidence in the person's competence

- all assessment that is part of a structured learning experience must include a combination of direct, indirect and supplementary evidence
- where assessment is for the purpose of recognition (RCC/RPL), the evidence provided will need to be current and show that it represents competency demonstrated over a period of time
- assessment can be through simulated project-based activity and must include evidence relating to each of the elements in this unit.

In all cases where practical assessment is used it will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge. Questioning will be undertaken in such a manner as is appropriate to the language and literacy levels of the candidate and any cultural issues that may affect responses to the questions, and will reflect the requirements of the competency and the work being performed.

Range Statement

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below. Add any essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts.

- Procurement may include:
- common use contracts
 - facilities management
 - franchising
 - gainsharing and open book
 - incentive contracting
 - leasing and buying
 - maintenance and support arrangements
 - pre-qualification of suppliers
 - prime contractors and subcontractors

| | | 2.4 | Emergency response procedures are practised with team members. |

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - identify hazards and risks
 - identify waste types and waste non-conformances
 - segregate valuable resources in composite materials
 - segregate waste types, including potentially hazardous waste
- interpersonal skills to work in a team environment
- literacy skills to:
 - list potential hazards and risks
 - document and keep records

- read and interpret:
 - emergency requirements
 - hazard advice
 - job sheets
 - work requirements and material safety data sheets (MSDS)
- oral communication skills to:
 - follow instructions
 - provide information
 - ask questions
- self-management skills to:
 - apply signalling techniques
 - conduct work practices safely and efficiently
 - plan and undertake routine tasks
 - prioritise duties
 - use emergency and personal protective equipment (PPE)

Required knowledge

- identification of:
 - waste contaminants
 - waste monitoring procedures
 - waste non-conformances
 - waste non-conformance handling procedures
 - waste types
 - waste management options
 - waste storage requirements
 - waste disposal and recovery routes
- procedures for containing segregated waste types, including containment and isolation of hazardous waste
- emergency response procedures relating to:
 - confined space procedures
 - duty of care
 - identification of work areas, including location of:
 - alarms
 - emergency equipment
 - communications equipment
 - coding systems
 - environmental agencies
 - environmental regulations
 - reporting requirements
 - signalling techniques

- waste management hierarchy
- waste containment methods and isolation of emergencies
- occupational health and safety (OHS) requirements relating to:
 - chemical storage and decanting
 - dangerous goods and hazardous substances
 - OHS hierarchy of control
 - basic first aid appropriate to likely hazards and risks in work environment
- potential hazards and risks relating to:
 - dangerous goods
 - potential incidents

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment	This unit of competency could be assessed by observation of practical demonstration in the workplace or in a simulated environment.
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of the required skills and knowledge specified in this unit. In particular the person should demonstrate the ability to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • identify a range of waste streams, hazardous wastes and waste contaminants • identify a range of potential hazards and risks present in the workplace • observe OHS requirements.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	Assessment of essential underpinning knowledge may be conducted in an off-site context. It is to comply with relevant regulatory or Australian standards' requirements. Resource implications for assessment include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • work plans and approved specifications • forms and procedures manuals.
Method of assessment	The process of identifying waste and hazards must meet industry expectations. If the environment is narrowly defined or is not representative of industry needs, it may be necessary to refer to portfolio case studies to assess competency in the identification of waste and hazards. Assessment methods must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • satisfy the endorsed Assessment Guidelines of the Property Services Training Package • include direct observation of tasks in real or simulated work conditions, with questioning to confirm the ability to consistently identify and correctly interpret the essential underpinning knowledge required for practical application • reinforce the integration of employability skills with workplace tasks and job roles • confirm that competency is verified and able to be transferred to other circumstances and environments.

Guidance information for assessment	Reasonable adjustments for people with disabilities must be made to assessment processes where required. This could include access to modified equipment and other physical resources, and the provision of appropriate assessment support. Assessment processes and techniques should as far as is practical take into account the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate in relation to the competency being assessed. This unit could be assessed on its own or in combination with other units of competency relevant to the job function, for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CPPWMT3005A Identify and segregate waste • CPPWMT3014A Manually sort waste.

Range Statement

 - shock
 - soft tissue injuries, including strains and, sprains
 - stroke
 - unconsciousness
- basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
 - how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
 - chest
 - response/consciousness
 - upper airway and effect of positional change
 - considerations in provision of first aid for specified conditions

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates' skills and knowledge.

Assessment resources must include:

- adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
- adrenaline auto-injector training device
- AED training device
- placebo bronchodilator and spacer device
- roller bandages
- triangular bandages
- workplace First Aid kit
- workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form for written reports
- wound dressings

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessor requirements

Assessors must satisfy the NVR/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide first aid response and emergency life support to a casualty in a remote and/or isolated situation.

The unit applies to workers who may be required to prepare for and provide a first aid response in locations beyond the reach of timely medical assistance.

Specific licensing /regulatory requirements relating to this competency, including requirements for refresher training should be obtained from the relevant national/state/territory Work Health and Safety Regulatory Authorities.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

Elements define the essential outcomes.

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Respond to a remote emergency situation

- 1.1 Plan for isolated travel or work if required, accounting for expected contingencies
- 1.2 Recognise an emergency situation
- 1.3 Identify, assess and manage immediate hazards to health and safety of self and others
- 1.4 Assess the casualty and recognise the need for first aid response
- 1.5 Assess the situation and evaluate options for medical assistance
- 1.6 Evaluate options for transporting casualty or waiting for medical assistance in relation to environmental issues, risks, transport availability and casualty condition

2. Apply appropriate first aid procedures

- 2.1 Perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in accordance with Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines
- 2.2 Provide first aid in accordance with established first aid principles
- 2.3 Display respectful behaviour towards casualty
- 2.4 Obtain consent from casualty where possible
- 2.5 Use available resources and equipment to make the casualty as comfortable as possible
- 2.6 Operate first aid equipment according to manufacturer's instructions
- 2.7 Monitor the casualty's condition and respond in accordance with first aid principles

3. Manage the incident

- 3.1 Seek assistance from others present to manage incident circumstances
- 3.2 Establish communication links with emergency response services and convey incident details
- 3.3 Report details of casualty condition, changes in condition, management and responses
- 3.4 Assist in the evacuation of the casualty by following directions given by emergency response services as

ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements define the essential outcomes.

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

required

3.5 Maintain confidentiality of records and information in line with statutory and/or organisational policies

4. Evaluate the incident and own performance

4.1 Recognise the possible psychological impacts on self and other rescuers involved in critical incidents

4.2 Participate in debriefing to address individual needs

Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills described those required skills (such as language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency.

Release 1	This version was released in HLT Health Training Package release 1.0 and meets the requirements of the New Standards for Training Packages. Significant changes to elements and performance criteria, changes to scope of unit. New evidence requirements for assessment, including use of contextualised remote scenarios.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- Followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:
 - performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor
 - performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface
 - responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting
 - managed the unconscious breathing casualty

- followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions
- followed the prompts of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED)
- Responded to at least three simulated first aid scenarios contextualised to the candidate's remote and/or isolated situation:
 - demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
 - conducted a visual and verbal secondary survey assessment of the casualty
 - assessed vital signs, including respirations, pulse and temperature
 - post-incident debrief and evaluation
 - provided an accurate verbal and written report of the incident
- Applied first aid response in a remote situation for the following:
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - basic care of a wound
 - bleeding control
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - envenomation, using pressure immobilisation
 - environmental impacts, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
 - fractures, sprains and strains, using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation techniques
 - head, neck and spinal injuries, using immobilisation principles
 - respiratory distress, including asthma
 - shock

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
 - ARC guidelines relevant to provision of CPR and first aid
 - safe work practices to minimise risks and potential hazards
 - infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions
 - requirements for currency of skill and knowledge
- legal, workplace and community considerations including:
 - awareness of potential need for stress-management techniques and available support following an emergency situation
 - duty of care requirements
 - respectful behaviour towards a casualty
 - own skills and limitations

- consent
- privacy and confidentiality requirements
- importance of debriefing
- considerations when providing first aid, including:
 - airway obstruction due to body position
 - appropriate duration and cessation of CPR
 - appropriate use of an AED
 - chain of survival
 - standard precautions
 - how to conduct a visual and verbal secondary survey assessment
 - assessment and interpretation of vital signs, including respirations, temperature and pulse
- principles and procedures for first aid management of the following scenarios, contextualised to the candidate's remote and/or isolated situation:
 - abdominal injuries
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - basic care of a wound
 - bleeding control
 - burns
 - cardiac conditions, including chest pain
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - crush injuries
 - diabetes
 - dislocations
 - drowning
 - envenomation
 - environmental impact, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
 - eye and ear injuries
 - febrile convulsions
 - fractures
 - head, neck and spinal injuries
 - minor skin injuries
 - needle stick injuries
 - poisoning and toxic substances
 - respiratory distress, including asthma
 - seizures, including epilepsy
 - shock
 - soft tissue injuries, including sprains and strains

- stroke
- unconsciousness
- remote considerations in the provision of first aid, including:
 - typical hazards and strategies for preparing supplies to address contingencies
 - management options relating to transporting casualty, including aero-medical evacuation
 - how to identify and prepare areas for safe evacuation, including aero-medical evacuation
 - how and when to access emergency response services
 - communication systems, equipment and methods available in remote situations
 - priorities of management in first aid when dealing with life-threatening conditions
 - specific considerations contextualised to alpine, desert, marine, rural/remote settings and tropical environments
- basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
 - how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
 - chest
 - response/consciousness
 - upper airway and effect of positional change
 - considerations in provision of first aid for specified conditions, including specific considerations for remote settings

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates' skills and knowledge.

- Assessment resources must include:
 - adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
 - adrenaline auto-injector training device
 - AED training device
 - placebo bronchodilator and spacer device
 - roller bandages
 - thermometer
 - triangular bandages
 - workplace First Aid kit suitable for remote locations
 - workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form
 - wound dressings

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessor requirements

Assessors must satisfy the NVR/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

Assessment Requirements for ICTICT103 Use, communicate and search securely on the internet

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- connect to and access the internet
- send and receive emails
- secure internet access and email communications
- use search tools to locate information
- use different internet search techniques
- research and select appropriate website
- undertake online transactions
- assess the accuracy, currency, authority and reliability of the site and information located.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must :

- list basic technical terminology related to reading help files and prompts
- describe the basics of copyright and privacy statements
- explain different types of messages that occur, including error messages and messages to install plug-ins
- list different types of search engines and web browsers
- list procedures for using email applications
- list procedures for evaluating and assessing the authority, reliability and authenticity of information
- outline internet search functions
- describe internet speed and traffic loads related to times of accessing the internet
- describe the makeup and structure of internet addresses

- list organisational guidelines on internet and email use (web etiquette or netiquette)
- describe business process related to online transactions
- describe web browser update techniques
- explain what key words and bookmarks are used for.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the general information and communications technology (ICT) industry, and include access to:

- a personal computer or digital device with internet
- search engines currently used in industry
- organisational policies on internet usage.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Assessment Requirements for ICTICT511 Match ICT needs with the strategic direction of the enterprise

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- access and analyse relevant information on changes to technology and resources
- analyse strategic plans to determine future technology needs
- monitor resource use and cost-efficiency and effectiveness of technology
- develop and document action plan detailing standards, targets, timelines and implementation methods.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify methods of analysis and planning approaches to technical problems and management requirements
- assess and document the hardware platform used by the organisation and network, and the subsequent security guidelines required
- explain current system functionality to forecast for planning
- identify and specify operating systems supported by the organisation to forecast for planning
- compare competing and complementary internal and external operating environments
- identify and assess technology and product directions for evaluating and forecasting vendor and technology trends.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the general information and communications technology (ICT) industry, and include access to:

- a site where ICT needs and strategic directions of the enterprise may be coordinated
- detailed information relating to a business strategic plan
- information on a range of ICT business solutions.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Assessment Requirements for ICTSAS305 Provide ICT advice to clients

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- investigate client support requests and provide a documented solution after consultation with client
- convey comprehensive technical information to clients in a clear, concise, jargon-free and coherent manner
- use technical manuals and 'help' documentation.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify and describe the available in-house and vendor support
- explain contract and service agreements with vendors
- identify features of different types of hardware supported by the organisation
- identify sources of information relevant to the provision of services and support
- identify operating system:
 - functions and basic features
 - supported by the organisation
- identify and describe security and network guidelines and procedures
- identify the advanced features of software, including the functions and support provided by the organisation.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the systems administration and support field of work and include access to:

- peers and supervisors for obtaining information
- relevant information sources
- technical records and documentation.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to establish a social networking presence, using social media tools and applications. It includes the requirement to review, compare, and use different types of social networking tools and applications.

It applies to information and communications technology (ICT) personnel who need to develop a social networking web presence for a small or large office environment, using social media tools and applications.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
Elements describe the essential outcomes.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.
1. Describe the different types of social media tools and applications	1.1 Explain the characteristics of the term 'social media' 1.2 Identify different types of social-media tools and applications 1.3 Illustrate some of the issues associated with the use of social media tools and applications

2. Compare different types of social media tools and applications	2.1 Select one social media type to review 2.2 Review the most popular tools, and applications, within that social media type 2.3 Itemise the benefits across a range of the most popular tools and applications 2.4 Select the most appropriate social media tool or application
3. Set up and use, popular social media tools and applications	3.1 Identify the social media tools and applications available for possible implementation 3.2 Initiate the preferred social media tools, and applications, for use 3.3 Establish the social media interface, using text and file content 3.4 Initiate social networking interaction 3.5 Test and evaluate tools, and applications, for ease of use 3.6 Present the findings

This section describes language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills incorporated in the performance criteria that are required for competent performance.

Skill	Performance Criteria	Description
Reading	1.2, 2.2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Extract the relevant information from technical and organisational documents
Writing	1.1, 2.2, 2.3, 3.3, 3.4, 3.6	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Develop the content in a manner that supports and conveys information, using the appropriate structures and specialised language
Navigate the world of work	1.3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Understands legal and ethical responsibilities, regarding the use of social media tools
Get the work done	2.1, 2.2, 2.4, 3.1, 3.2, 3.5, 3.6	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Makes routine decisions and implements standard procedures for routine tasks Understands the purposes, specific functions, and the key features of common digital systems and tools, and operates them effectively to complete routine tasks

Assessment Requirements for ICTWEB201 Use social media tools for collaboration and engagement

Modification History

Release	Comments
Release 1	This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 1.0.

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify different types of social media tools and applications, and the issues associated with their use
- access the internet, set up a social networking presence and upload and link a wide variety of files
- use and evaluate social media tools and applications.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- list basic technical terminology in relation to social networking, social media applications, and tools
- outline basic methods of uploading images, text files, portable document format (PDF) files, audio files, video files, and link the associated files
- state the features, and functions, of social media applications
- list import and export software functions
- explain how to link documents
- explain the process of tagging, in order to facilitate collaborative folksonomy
- list social media applications and procedures, for connecting to social networking sites
- identify and describe, input and output devices
- describe, and use, really simple syndication (RSS) feeds to connect a social network.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the website technologies field of work, and include access to:

- a personal computer (PC) and printer
- the internet
- social-media tools and applications
- online instructional documents.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT	PERFORMANCE CRITERIA
1. Investigate current practices in relation to resource usage.	1.1 Identify environmental regulations applying to the enterprise. 1.2 Assess procedures for assessing compliance with environmental regulations. 1.3 Collect information on environmental and resource efficiency systems and procedures, and provide to the work group where appropriate. 1.4 Measure and record current resource usage by members of the work group.

	1.5 Analyse and record current purchasing strategies. 1.6 Analyse current work processes to access information and data and assist in identifying areas for improvement.
2. Set targets for improvements.	2.1 Seek input from stakeholders, key personnel and specialists. 2.2 Access external sources of information and data as required. 2.3 Evaluate alternative solutions to workplace environmental issues. 2.4 Set efficiency targets.
3. Implement performance improvement strategies.	3.1 Source techniques/tools to assist in achieving targets. 3.2 Apply continuous improvement strategies to own work area of responsibility and communicate ideas and possible solutions to the work group and management. 3.3 Integrate environmental and resource efficiency improvement plans for own work group with other operational activities and implement them. 3.4 Seek suggestions and ideas about environmental and resource efficiency management from stakeholders and act upon them where appropriate. 3.5 Implement costing strategies to fully value environmental assets.
4. Monitor performance.	4.1 Document outcomes and communicate reports on targets to key personnel and stakeholders. 4.2 Evaluate strategies. 4.3 Set new targets and investigate and apply new tools and strategies. 4.4 Promote successful strategies and reward participants where possible.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

Required skills include:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- using relevant environmental and resource efficiency systems, tools and procedures
- applying quality assurance systems relevant to own work area
- applying relevant supply chain procedures
- measurement and calculation techniques
- communication/consultation skills to ensure information is supplied to the work group

Reading and writing is required to comprehend documentation and interpret environmental and energy efficiency requirements and to document and maintain records

Numeracy is required to interpret numeric workplace information, readings and measurements, handle data as required and complete numeric components of workplace forms/reports.

Required knowledge

Required knowledge includes:

- how to access and use relevant environmental and resource efficiency systems, tools and procedures
- understanding of best practice approaches relevant to own area of responsibility
- strategies to maximise opportunities and minimise impacts relevant to own work area
- relevant environmental and resource efficiency issues specific to industry practices
- methods for measuring and calculating resource usage

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

A person who demonstrates competence in this unit must be able to provide evidence of the ability to implement and monitor integrated environmental and resource efficiency management policies and procedures within an organisation.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

It is essential that competence is demonstrated in the knowledge and skills defined in this unit. These may include the ability to:

EVIDENCE GUIDE
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • monitor and investigate current resource usage • develop plans to improve sustainability • implement environmental improvements. Consistent performance should be demonstrated. For example, look to see that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • environmental performance is routinely monitored and investigated • areas for improvements are followed through and the implemented changes are in turn monitored and investigated.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	This section should be read in conjunction with the range of variables for this unit of competency. Assessors must be satisfied that the person can consistently perform the unit as a whole, as defined by the Elements, Performance Criteria and skills and knowledge. Resources required include suitable access to an operating plant or equipment that allows for appropriate and realistic simulation. A bank of case studies/scenarios and questions will also be required to the extent that they form part of the assessment method. Questioning may take place either in the workplace, or in an adjacent, quiet facility such as an office or lunchroom. No other special resources are required. Access must be provided to appropriate learning and/or assessment support when required. Where applicable, physical resources should include equipment modified for people with disabilities.
Method of assessment	A holistic approach should be taken to the assessment. Competence in this unit may be assessed: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • by demonstration in the workplace • using targeted questioning for appropriate portions • through use of specific project(s) • by use of a suitable simulation and/or a range of case studies/scenarios • by a combination of these techniques. In all cases it is expected that practical assessment will be combined with targeted questioning to assess the underpinning knowledge and theoretical assessment will be combined with appropriate practical/simulation or similar assessment.

Guidance information for assessment	Assessors need to be aware of any cultural issues that may affect responses to questions. Assessment processes and techniques must be culturally appropriate and appropriate to the oracy, language and literacy capacity of the assessee and the work being performed.

RANGE STATEMENT
The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.
Procedures	All operations are performed in accordance with procedures. Procedures include all relevant workplace procedures, work instructions, temporary instructions and relevant industry and government codes and standards. Where reference is made to industry codes of practice, and/or Australian/international standards, the latest version must be used.
Environmental and resource efficiency issues	Environmental and resource efficiency issues include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> addressing environmental and resource sustainability initiatives such as Environmental Management Systems, action plans, surveys and audits reference to standards, guidelines and approaches such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ISO 14001 Environmental Management Systems Life Cycle Analyses

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Cradle to cradle • Global Reporting Initiative • Ecological footprinting • Triple Bottom Line reporting • Product Stewardship • determining enterprise's most appropriate waste treatment including waste to landfill, recycling, re-use and wastewater treatment • applying the waste management hierarchy in the workplace • initiating and/or maintaining appropriate enterprise procedures for operational energy consumption, including stationary energy and non stationary (transport) • efficient use of water • minimising greenhouse gas emissions • use of controls to minimise the risk of environmental damage from hazardous substances
Measure	Measuring techniques include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • material fed to/consumed by plant/equipment • plant meters and gauges • job cards including kanbans • examination of invoices from suppliers • measurements made under different conditions • examination of relevant information and data • others as appropriate to the specific industry contexts.
Techniques and tools	Techniques and tools may includeÂ : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • visual workplace concepts • measurement, display and/or recording devices • changed work practices/procedures • competence development and awareness training • process and equipment items
Compliance	Compliance includes meeting relevant federal, state and local government laws, by-laws, regulations and codes of practice.
Incidents	Incidents include:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • breaches or potential breaches of regulations • occurrences outside of standard procedure which may lead to lower environmental performance
Purchasing strategies	Purchasing strategies include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • influencing suppliers to take up environmental sustainability • selecting materials/components with a lower environmental profile.
Stakeholders, key personnel and specialists	Stakeholders, key personnel and specialists include individuals and groups both inside and outside the organisation that have some direct interest in the enterprise's conduct, actions, products and services, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • employees at all levels of the organisation • customers • suppliers • other organisations • key personnel within the organisation, and specialists outside it who may have particular technical expertise
Suggestions	Suggestions includes ideas that help to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • prevent and minimise environmental risks and maximise opportunities • reduce emissions of greenhouse gases • reduce use of non-renewable resources • make more efficient use of energy, water and other resources • maximise opportunities to re use and recycle materials • identify strategies to offset or mitigate environmental impacts. e.g. purchasing of carbon credits • express purchasing power through the selection of suppliers with improved environmental performance. e.g. purchasing renewable energy and materials with lower embedded carbon • eliminate the use of hazardous and toxic materials increasing the reusability/recyclability of wastes/products.

MSS015002A Develop strategies for more sustainable use of resources

Modification History

Not applicable.

Unit Descriptor

This unit of competency covers identifying strategies for more sustainable uses of resources. The unit includes the identification of waste as defined in lean manufacturing (muda) as part of a strategy for achieving better sustainability outcomes in a process as well as quantifying theoretical and actual resource (including energy) consumption.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies inside organisations and their value chains and specifically applies to the use of resources as part of an overall response to improving sustainability. The unit has been developed with manufacturing operations as a focus. However, because of the range of organisations in a typical manufacturing value chain it may also be applied to other types of organisations.

The unit assumes that a decision to attempt to achieve more sustainable use of resources has already been made. The unit covers the skills needed for developing a strategic approach to resource use at the organisation or value chain level.

The unit does not cover the technical skills required to implement specific initiatives that may be identified as part of the strategic plan. However, there is a requirement to present and organise data. The complexity of this requirement will vary according to the type and scale of the organisation's processes. Where required, appropriate mathematics and statistics units should be selected from the MEM05 Metal and Engineering Training Package or other appropriate Training Package.

Where the carbon footprint (or water footprint or similar) of an enterprise or value chain is known, the unit can be applied to developing strategies for the reduction of that footprint.

It would typically be undertaken by a manager or technical specialist who had a major responsibility for sustainability as part of a broader work role, or sustainability may be their primary work responsibility.

For specific techniques covering the auditing of water, energy, emissions and transport, refer to relevant sustainability audit units.

Elements and Performance Criteria

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 Quantify resource consumption | 1.1 Identify all significant resources used by process |
| | 1.2 Identify consumption measurements available for each resource |
| | 1.3 Determine consumption for each resource |
| 2 Quantify resource loss | 2.1 Determine theoretical consumption of each resource |
| | 2.2 Compare theoretical consumption with actual consumption |
| | 2.3 Determine loss (emission) for each resource |
| 3 Recommend strategies for reducing waste | 3.1 Short-list high emission process steps |

| | 4.2 Compile data, implications and recommendations |
| | 4.3 Consult with stakeholders as appropriate |
| | 4.4 Draft and present report |

Required Skills and Knowledge

Required knowledge includes:

- the concept of muda. Muda is usually summarised under the headings of the ‘seven wastes’ which include:
 - overproduction
 - delay/waiting
 - transportation
 - over processing
 - excess inventory
 - unnecessary motion
 - defects and rework
- methods of material balancing
- methods of energy balancing
- methods of comparing theoretical with actual resource consumption
- methods for mapping manufacturing processes and resources consumed
- methods of measuring actual resource usage
- concept of muda and muda categories
- muda reduction methods and strategies
- AS/NZS ISO 14000 Environmental Management Standards

Required skills include:

- calculating, manipulating and interpreting numerical data, including establishing series, means and averages, absolute and proportional material and energy usage per product or process, correlations and rates of change
- analysing and conducting root cause analysis
- calculating theoretical consumption of resources as the minimum amount of resources per product or process step as defined by the customer multiplied by the rate of production or process
- calculating actual consumption of resources per unit (e.g. per product, operation, site or value chain)
- writing technical reports
- consulting with technical experts and internal and external stakeholders

Evidence Guide

Overview of assessment	A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to identify and quantify resources and waste in a process, recommend strategies to reduce waste and prepare a report with recommendations.
Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit	Assessors must be satisfied that the candidate can competently and consistently apply the skills covered in this unit of competency in new and different situations and contexts. Critical aspects of assessment and evidence include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> quantifying significant resource consumption and emission using materials balancing identifying and consulting with stakeholders developing strategies for reducing emissions preparing and presenting a resources use report.
Context of and specific resources for assessment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This unit of competency is to be assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment. Assessment should emphasise a workplace context and procedures found in the candidate's workplace. This unit of competency may be assessed with other relevant units addressing sustainability at the enterprise level or other units requiring the exercise of the skills and knowledge covered by this unit. The competencies covered by this unit would be demonstrated by an individual working alone or as part of a team.
Method of assessment	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In all cases, practical assessment should be supported by questions to assess underpinning knowledge and those aspects of competency which are difficult to assess directly. Where applicable, reasonable adjustment must be made to work environments and training situations to accommodate ethnicity, age, gender, demographics and disability. The language, literacy and numeracy demands of assessment should not be greater than those required to undertake the unit of competency in a work-like environment.
Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

Waste	Waste in this unit is used in the broader sense of ‘muda’ as used in lean manufacturing and the competitive manufacturing units of competency developed by Manufacturing Skills Australia (MSA)
Emissions	Emissions means all materials which enter the process/site but which do not leave as part of the product and so includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> known or able to be physically measured emissions of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> gases, vapours and fumes liquids solids assumed emissions through material balancing assumed emissions through energy loss, including heat, friction and other energy conversion yield losses
Theoretical consumption	Theoretical consumption of resources is the minimum amount of resources per product as defined by the customer multiplied by the rate of production
Actual consumption	Actual consumption is the amount of a resource entering the value chain
Significant resources	Significant resources includes resources which are deemed to be significant because they are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> high volume high value high environmental significance important to the product or process covered by legislation or regulation important to the enterprise It need not include resources which are incidental to the activity and which are not otherwise significant

Unit Descriptor

This unit of competency describes the outcomes required to demonstrate ethical conduct required of those in public service. It includes applying ethical standards and dealing with ethical problems.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Application of the Unit

This unit supports the attainment of skills and knowledge required for applying ethical conduct and accountability required in those working in government employment.

In practice, ethical conduct is demonstrated in the context of other generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services, etc.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the required performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge and/or the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1. Apply ethical standards

- 1.1 Interpretation of ethical values and principles is reviewed with senior staff to ensure accuracy.
- 1.2 Personal work practices are undertaken in compliance with public sector ethics standards, organisational policy and guidelines.
- 1.3 Verbal and written advice and reports are prepared containing information which is impartial, substantiated, accurate and complete.
- 1.4 Public resources are used in accordance with public sector ethics standards, organisational policy and guidelines.
- 1.5 Conflicts of interest are identified, declared, addressed and documented in accordance with policy and procedures.
- 1.6 Personal behaviour and relationships with the public, suppliers and business contacts are conducted in accordance with ethics standards, policy and guidelines.

2. Deal with ethical problems

- 2.1 Situations which pose ethical problems are resolved or referred in accordance with organisational guidelines.
- 2.2 Decision-making processes used to resolve ethical problems are recorded in accordance with organisational policy and procedures.
- 2.3 Organisational policies/codes on the prevention and reporting of unethical conduct are accessed and applied.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills:

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:

- applying objective and impartial evaluation of conflicting requirements
- using ethical decision making
- preparing written advice and reports requiring accuracy of expression
- accessing legislation and codes of ethics electronically or in hard copy
- tailoring communication to suit different audiences
- responding to diversity, including gender and disability
- applying occupational health and safety procedures relating to ethical work practices

Required knowledge:

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge and understanding of:

- the nature of ethics and ethical values
- fundamental ethical principles such as justice, respect for persons, procedural fairness, confidentiality, responsible care
- values of public sector office
- natural justice/procedural fairness
- equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity principles
- where to access ethical decision making/problem solving models, organisational codes and procedures
- procedures for declaring conflicts of interest
- protocols for reporting fraud, corruption and maladministration
- occupational health and safety procedures relating to ethical work practices

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the Performance Criteria, Required Skills and Knowledge, the Range Statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Units to be assessed together

- Pre-requisite units that must be achieved prior to this unit: Nil
- Co-requisite units that must be assessed with this unit: Nil
- Co-assessed units that may be assessed with this unit to increase the efficiency and realism of the assessment process include, but are not limited to:

- PSPGOV303B Build and maintain internal networks
- PSPGOV305B Access and use resources and financial systems
- PSPGOV307B Organise workplace information
- PSPGOV308B Work effectively with diversity
- PSPGOV309A Address client needs
- PSPGOV312A Use workplace communication strategies
- PSPGOV314A Contribute to conflict management
- PSPIM301A Process claims
- PSPLAND302A Investigate tenure and land use history
- PSPLEGN301B Comply with legislation in the public sector
- PSPOHS301A Contribute to workplace safety
- PSPPROC302A Undertake basic procurement
- This unit should be co-assessed with other units to supply the context for ethical behaviour

Overview of evidence requirements

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of Employability Skills as they relate to this unit
- ethical conduct in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts may be generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services etc

Resources required to carry out assessment

These resources include:

- ethics-related legislation and guidelines
- codes of conduct and codes of ethics
- public sector standards, procedures and protocols
- ethical decision making/problem solving models
- manager/mentor/network who role models ethical conduct

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when working ethically in a public sector environment, including coping with ambiguity, difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- ethical conduct in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts may be generalist or specialist work activities such as building and maintaining networks, delivering client services, using financial resources, procuring goods or services etc.

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the Performance Criteria, is detailed below. Overview of evidence requirements

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of Employability Skills as they relate to this unit
- ethical conduct demonstrated and supported in others in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts include generalist or specialist work activities such as applying government processes, delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, awarding contracts, etc

Resources required to carry out assessment

These resources include:

- ethics-related legislation and guidelines
- codes of conduct and codes of ethics
- public sector standards, procedures and protocols
- ethical decision making models

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when working ethically in a public sector environment, including coping with ambiguity, difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- ethical conduct demonstrated and supported in others in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time) where contexts include generalist or specialist work activities such as applying government processes, delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, awarding contracts, etc

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Range Statement

The Range Statement provides information about the context in which the unit of competency is carried out. The variables cater for differences between States and Territories and the Commonwealth, and between organisations and workplaces. They allow for different work requirements, work practices and knowledge. The Range Statement also provides a focus for assessment. It relates to the unit as a whole. Overview of evidence requirements

In addition to integrated demonstration of the elements and their related performance criteria, look for evidence that confirms:

- the knowledge requirements of this unit
- the skill requirements of this unit
- application of Employability Skills as they relate to this unit
- information gathered and analysed in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time)

Resources required to carry out assessment

These resources include:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to information research, presentation and management
- access to electronic information/records management systems
- Case studies and workplace scenarios to capture the range of situations likely to be encountered when gathering and analysing information

Where and how to assess evidence

Valid assessment of this unit requires:

- a workplace environment or one that closely resembles normal work practice and replicates the range of conditions likely to be encountered when gathering and analysing information, including coping with difficulties, irregularities and breakdowns in routine
- information gathered and analysed in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time).

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations.

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- case studies
- portfolios
- projects
- questioning
- scenarios

- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Range Statement

The Range Statement provides information about the context in which the unit of competency is carried out. The variables cater for differences between States and Territories and the Commonwealth, and between organisations and workplaces. They allow for different work requirements, work practices and knowledge. The Range Statement also provides a focus for assessment. It relates to the unit as a whole. Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the application of a knowledge of government processes. It includes applying information relating to Machinery of Government, and applying knowledge of organisational functions and protocols. Legislation/regulations applying across the public sector, such as equal employment opportunity, equity and diversity etc, are not addressed here, as these are covered in PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector.

In practice, knowledge of government processes is applied in the context of other generalist and specialist work activities such as delivering and monitoring services to clients, using resources, conducting interviews, giving evidence, awarding contracts etc.

This is one of 3 units of competency in the Working in Government Competency Field that deal with government processes. Related units are:

- PSPGOV515A Develop and use political nous
- PSPGOV601B Apply government systems

This unit replaces PSPGOV401A Apply knowledge of government processes. The units are not equivalent as this unit has additional knowledge requirements, and 2 additional performance criteria for dealing with ambiguity in the public sector; further, an element relating to legislation has been deleted because of overlap with PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

- negotiations undertaken in a range of (3 or more) contexts (or occasions, over time).

Assessment methods should reflect workplace demands, such as literacy, and the needs of particular groups, such as:

- people with disabilities
- people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- women
- young people
- older people
- people in rural and remote locations.

Assessment methods suitable for valid and reliable assessment of this competency may include, but are not limited to, a combination of 2 or more of:

- demonstration
- observation
- portfolios
- questioning
- scenarios
- simulation or role plays
- authenticated evidence from the workplace and/or training courses

For consistency of assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the expenditure of public monies for simple procurement of low value/low risk goods and services using contractual arrangements that include simple tendering and requests for quotation. The unit requires analysis and decision making in the procurement process, which is undertaken under limited supervision. It includes planning and undertaking procurement, managing contractors and completing contractual arrangements.

In practice, procuring goods and services overlaps with other generalist and specialist public sector or local government work activities, such as upholding and supporting the values and principles of public service, identifying and treating risks, exercising delegations, applying government processes, encouraging compliance with legislation in the public sector or local government, planning procurement, developing and distributing requests for offers, selecting providers and managing contracts.

This unit is not recommended for those who specialise in procurement. It cannot be included in the Certificate IV in Government (Procurement and Contracting).

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to those who enter into contracts or go out to tender or manage the procurement but are not procurement professionals. Those undertaking this unit may be developing a request for tender but procurement is not a major part of their role.

 - 2.2. Specialist expertise is used to assist in evaluation of offers as required.
 - 2.3. Evaluation and selection of the offer are made according to tender evaluation plan, and organisational policy and procedures.
 - 2.4. Notification of successful and unsuccessful suppliers/providers is undertaken according to procurement plan, and organisational policy and procedures.
 - 2.5. Work does not commence and payment is not made until contractual arrangements are formalised.
 - 2.6. Contractual arrangements that are legally binding to all parties and suitable to the procurement activity are negotiated, formalised and reported according to organisational policy and procedures.
3. Manage contractors.
 - 3.1. Communication strategies are established to build and maintain relationships with contractors.
 - 3.2. Performance is monitored against contract performance indicators for quality assurance of the goods or services and to ensure compliance with contract specifications.
 - 3.3. Contract performance indicators are regularly reviewed to ensure relevance.
 - 3.4. Approvals are obtained for contract variations according to organisational and contractual requirements.
 - 3.5. Disputes or complaints are investigated, documented and resolved or referred according to contractual provisions.
 - 3.6. Contractual obligations to contractors are met.
 - 3.7. Records are maintained according to organisational and legal requirements to provide an audit trail and for other organisational purposes.
4. Complete contractual arrangements.
 - 4.1. Goods and services received are confirmed as meeting contractual specification and required outcome, and accounts are processed for payment according to organisational procedures.

- 4.2. Contracts are finalised, cancelled or terminated according to contractual arrangements.
- 4.3. Contract performance, outcomes and management processes are evaluated, and lessons learnt are recorded and used to inform ongoing contract management practices.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - write procurement specifications in unambiguous terms
 - consult and negotiate with providers
 - write, read and/or sign contractual agreements that may include complexity of language and style, using templates where appropriate
 - engage in ongoing communication with contractors that may involve explaining or clarifying written and oral information, note-taking at meetings, active listening, and checking for understanding
 - provide feedback
- teamwork skills to:
 - work independently or under direction as appropriate to the situation
 - model team leadership approaches if appropriate
 - respond to diversity
 - refer issues to the correct person
- problem-solving skills to:
 - evaluate procurement options and select the most suitable option
 - assess goods or services provided against specifications
- initiative and enterprise skills to apply OHS, environmental, sustainability and corporate social responsibility practices in the context of government procurement activities
- planning and organising skills to:
 - manage contractor performance against contract requirements
 - make payments and manage financial arrangements
- learning skills to keep up-to-date with relevant procurement legislation, policies and procedures
- technology skills to:
 - operate organisational IT systems
 - use electronic procurement templates

Required knowledge

- commonwealth, state or territory, and local government legislation, policies, practices and guidelines:
 - relating to contract management, including environmental purchasing and corporate social responsibility guidance
 - such as OHS and equity and diversity
- organisational procurement policies, practices and approval processes
- organisation's code of conduct and code of ethics
- procurement options and methods
- probity and ethical issues
- codes of conduct, codes of practice and standards of individual behaviour relating to procuring goods and services, in particular identifying and managing conflict of interest, gifts and inappropriate relationships with providers
- procedures for receipt and payment of goods or services
- common use arrangements
- procurement approval procedures
- financial accountability requirements
- aspects of contract law, laws of tort, trade practices law, commercial law and other legislation relating to receipt and evaluation of offers, negotiation and award of contracts

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Competency must be demonstrated in the ability to procure goods and services consistently in accordance with legislative and organisational requirements.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to:

- plan a procurement activity, using templates where these are available, to a level of detail commensurate with the complexity and risk profile of the procurement
- implement the procurement plan in a way that reflects the legislative and policy environment applicable to the organisation
- develop a suitable contract management plan, using templates if available
- manage the performance of contractors to ensure that the goods or services are delivered in accordance with the contract

- act within own delegations and refer issues to higher authority when necessary.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated by providing evidence of undertaking a range of relevant work tasks in an actual or simulated procurement environment on at least two separate occasions.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

The unit of competency is to be assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment.

Access may be required to:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to procuring goods and services
- codes of conduct and codes of practice
- workplace scenarios and case studies relating to a range of procurement activities
- case studies that incorporate dilemmas, and probity requirements relating to procurement of goods and services.

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- questions to assess understanding of relevant legislation and procedures
- review of strategies selected for procurement
- review of procurement plans, requests for quotation/tender, tender evaluation plans, selection reports, contracts, contract management plans and reports, and other documentation prepared by the candidate in a range of contexts
- feedback from peers or supervisors on actions taken to monitor and review contract performance.

In all cases, practical assessment should be supported by questions to assess underpinning knowledge and those aspects of competency which are difficult to assess directly. Questioning techniques should suit the language and literacy levels of the candidate.

Guidance information for assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- PSPETHC401A Uphold and support the values and principles of public service
- PSPGOV417A Identify and treat risks
- PSPGOV421A Exercise delegations
- PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector
- PSPPROC411A Plan procurement
- PSPPROC412A Develop and distribute requests for offers
- PSPPROC413A Select providers and develop contracts
- PSPPROC414A Manage contracts.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Market assessment

may include:

- structure of the market
- number and quality of providers
- factors and conditions which may affect supply of goods or provision of services
- potential impact of intended procurement activity

Evaluation of options

may include:

- stakeholder consultation
- confirmation that procurement is necessary
- development of a business case
- comparison of internal and outsourced provision

Probity requirements:

- may include:
 - accountability
 - transparency
 - confidentiality
 - managing conflict of interest
 - impartiality
- are maintained to:
 - encourage conformity to processes
 - facilitate accountability
 - ensure proponents are treated in a fair and equitable manner

Key elements of a commercial strategy may include:

- encourage commercial completion
- preserve public and private sector confidence in government processes
- consultation with key stakeholders
- expenditure budget meets organisational requirements for probity and accountability
- procurement process agreed by users and documented, and meets legal and probity requirements
- approvals obtained
- contractual arrangements that capture and address identified risks, protection of all parties, and include performance indicators that provide the basis for due performance

Contractual arrangements may include:

- verbal and written orders
- purchase order
- government credit cards
- petty cash
- memoranda of understanding/memoranda of agreement
- in-house service level agreements
- contracts
- standing offers
- inter and intra-government agreements

Legislation, policy and procedures and probity requirements may include:

- commonwealth or state and territory legislation
- council rules and by-laws
- equal employment opportunity and anti-discrimination law
- commonwealth, and state or territory government procurement guidelines, including environmental purchasing guidelines
- organisational policies and practices
- probity guidelines
- financial management requirements

Stakeholders may include:

- end users, customers or clients, and sponsors
- current or potential providers or suppliers
- technical or functional experts or advisers
- commonwealth, state or territory, and local government
- the organisation
- other public sector organisations
- employees, unions and staff associations

- industry bodies
 - local communities
 - lobby groups and special user groups
- Methods for requesting and receiving offers may include:
- requests for quotation
 - direct purchases using existing supply agreements, such as standing offers
 - oral quotations
 - written quotations
 - direct purchases from retail or wholesale outlets
 - electronic commerce
- Reporting may include:
- gazettal notices
 - public notification
 - Gazette Publishing System (GaPS)
 - electronic
 - verbal
 - annual reports
 - internal and/or external
 - statistical reports
- Records may include:
- purchase requests and orders
 - simple procurement submissions and proposals
 - invoices and payment requests
 - statements and petty cash vouchers
 - offer and contract documents
 - evaluation process documentation
 - records of authorised decisions
 - corporate credit card transaction statements
 - records of supplier performance
 - gazettal notices
 - financial statements
 - asset registers

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the ability to select preferred providers as a result of a formal request for offer process. It includes evaluating offers, selecting preferred providers, obtaining approvals, developing and formalising contractual arrangements, and debriefing the market and other stakeholders.

In practice, selecting providers overlaps with other generalist and specialist public sector and local government work activities, such as upholding and supporting the values and principles of public service, identifying and treating risks, exercising delegations, applying government processes, encouraging compliance with legislation in the public sector or local government, planning procurement, developing and distributing requests for offers and managing contracts.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

The unit applies to those who undertake the selection of providers, including those who specialise in procurement.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Select preferred providers	1.1. Evaluation panel is formed and coordinated. 1.2. Offers are evaluated according to evaluation plan and organisational probity requirements which relate to managing conflicts of interest and adherence to public sector standards. 1.3. Specialist expertise is obtained where necessary to assist with evaluation of offers. 1.4. Clarification and negotiation of matters contained in offers are undertaken with bidders according to organisational guidelines and public sector standards. 1.5. Preferred providers are selected and recommendations for allocation of business are developed, justified and documented against selection criteria according to policy, procedures and governance requirements. 1.6. Approvals are obtained for the recommended offers. 1.7. Successful providers are notified in line with organisational protocols.
2. Develop and formalise contractual arrangements	2.1. Approvals are obtained to enter negotiations, when required, and negotiation of the final wording of contract is conducted according to organisational policy and procedures and defined probity frameworks as set out in the evaluation plan.

- 2.2. Approvals to enter into contracts are obtained according to policy and procedures.
 - 2.3. Commitments are not made and contractors do not commence until contracts are signed.
 - 2.4. Contracts are structured to capture and address identified risks, protect both parties, provide the basis for due performance, and outline expected standards of behaviour.
 - 2.5. Contracts are entered into that are valid and legally binding to the parties.
- 3. Debrief market and other stakeholders
- 3.1. Advice on the contractual arrangements is provided to internal stakeholders according to organisational policy and procedures.
 - 3.2. Unsuccessful bidders are informed and debriefed upon request with constructive feedback on their proposals.
 - 3.3. Details of successful providers are made public according to probity requirements, organisational protocols and public sector standards.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - consult and negotiate with contractors and stakeholders, involving complex oral and written exchanges of information
 - network within probity boundaries with diverse stakeholders and contractors
 - read complex documents, such as contracts, legislation and guidelines
 - provide feedback
- teamwork skills to:
 - work independently or under direction as appropriate to the situation
 - model team leadership approaches if appropriate
 - respond to diversity
 - refer issues to the correct person
- problem-solving skills to apply probity requirements in evaluating offers, formalising contracts and debriefing stakeholders
- initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - apply the content of complex documents, such as contracts, legislation and guidelines

- apply OHS, environmental, sustainability and corporate social responsibility practices in the context of selecting providers and developing contracts
- planning and organising skills to analyse and compare written information to ensure key elements from the specification and the procurement plan are captured in the written contract
- learning skills to keep up-to-date with relevant procurement legislation, policies and procedures
- technology skills to:
 - operate organisational IT systems
 - use electronic procurement templates

Required knowledge

- commonwealth, state or territory, and local government legislation, policies, practices and guidelines:
 - relating to award of contracts, including environmental purchasing and corporate social responsibility guidance
 - such as OHS and equity and diversity
- organisational procurement policies, practices and approval processes
- probity principles and issues
- codes of conduct, codes of practice and standards of individual behaviour relating to receipt and selection of offers
- aspects of law of contract, laws of tort, trade practices law, commercial law and other legislation relating to receipt and evaluation of offers, negotiation and award of contracts
- equal employment opportunity

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Competency must be demonstrated in the ability to select providers and develop contracts consistently in accordance with legislative and organisational requirements.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to:

- apply recognised offer evaluation methodologies to select a preferred provider
- make provider selections in accordance with the offer evaluation plan, procurement plan and relevant policy and legislation

- work with subject matter experts, such as legal, financial, commercial and technical
- adhere to probity requirements
- make written recommendations about suppliers to delegates and higher management
- act within the scope of own delegations
- keep appropriate records
- debrief relevant stakeholders about their performance.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated by providing evidence of undertaking a range of relevant work tasks in an actual or simulated procurement environment on at least two separate occasions

Context of and specific resources for assessment

The unit of competency is to be assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment.

Access may be required to:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to selecting providers and developing contracts
- codes of conduct and codes of practice
- workplace scenarios and case studies relating to a range of procurement activities associated with selecting providers and developing contracts
- case studies that incorporate dilemmas, and probity requirements relating to selecting providers and developing contracts

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- questions to assess understanding of relevant legislation and procedures
- review of strategies and approaches adopted for selecting providers and developing contracts
- review of selection reports, approvals and sign-offs, negotiation plans, draft contracts, final contracts, risk assessments and other documentation prepared by the candidate in a range of contexts
- review of stakeholder engagement approaches adopted by the candidate

In all cases, practical assessment should be supported by questions to assess underpinning knowledge and those aspects of competency which are difficult to assess directly. Questioning techniques should suit the language and literacy levels of the candidate.

Guidance information for

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in assessment

different situations or environments.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- PSPETHC401A Uphold and support the values and principles of public service
- PSPGOV417A Identify and treat risks
- PSPGOV421A Exercise delegations
- PSPLEGN401A Encourage compliance with legislation in the public sector
- PSPPROC411A Plan procurement
- PSPPROC412A Develop and distribute requests for offers
- PSPPROC414A Manage contracts.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Offers may include:

- delivery of goods for use or into store
- provision of services
- maintenance agreements
- leasing agreements
- consultancies
- research and development
- infrastructure assets

Evaluation:

- must include:
 - processing offers
 - determining value for money
 - checking and investigating
 - collating information
 - comparative statements
 - accountability
- may include staged procurement

Probity requirements:

- may include:
 - accountability
 - transparency

- confidentiality
- managing conflict of interest
- impartiality
- are maintained to:
 - encourage conformity to processes
 - facilitate accountability
 - ensure proponents are treated in a fair and equitable manner
 - encourage commercial completion
 - preserve public and private sector confidence in government processes

Allocation of business may include:

- single successful contractor
- multiple successful contractors
- standing offer (panel)
- multiple contracts as a result of a single request for offer

Contracts may include:

- memoranda of understanding and memoranda of agreement
- in-house option directives
- common use arrangements and standing offers
- inter and intra-government agreements
- service level agreements
- deeds of agreement

PSPPROC506A Plan to manage a contract

Modification History

PSPPROC506A Release 2: Layout adjusted. No changes to content.

PSPPROC506A Release 1: Primary release.

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the ability to establish arrangements for contract management. It includes confirming contract requirements, preparing a contract management plan, and implementing contract strategies and contractual arrangements.

In practice, planning to manage a contract may overlap with other public sector and local government generalist and specialist work activities, such as promoting the values and ethos of public service or local government, undertaking negotiations, promoting compliance with legislation in the public sector, managing contract performance, finalising contracts, managing procurement risk, planning for procurement outcomes and making procurement decisions.

PSPPROC414A Manage contracts is the appropriate unit for people undertaking contract management as a minor part of their work role.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to those whose primary role is contract management, and who may or may not have had involvement in the procurement process preceding execution of the contract.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Confirm contract requirements	1.1. Legislation, public sector standards and organisational requirements relating to probity, financial management, approvals and other considerations are identified for inclusion in the contract management plan. 1.2. Contract requirements are re-confirmed with all parties. 1.3. Obligations to the contractor, limits of authority and delegations relating to contract are determined according to contractual arrangements and organisational policy and procedures. 1.4. Start-up or transition arrangements are confirmed.
2. Prepare contract management plan	2.1. Contract risks are identified and risk management plan is developed in line with contract requirements and organisational policy and procedures. 2.2. Procedures to identify, receive and address contract variations are determined according to contract requirements and organisational policy and procedures. 2.3. Procedures to investigate, resolve or refer disputes or complaints are determined according to contract requirements and organisational policy and procedures. 2.4. Key performance indicators are developed and negotiated, and administrative processes are identified and approved for the life of the contract according to organisational policy procedures. 2.5. Contract management plan that addresses key elements is documented, approved and maintained according to organisational requirements. 2.6. Expected standards of behaviour, probity and privacy principles are applied to all elements of contract management plan. 2.7. Environmental, sustainability and corporate social responsibility principles are applied to all elements of contract management plan.

3. Develop stakeholder relationships

- 3.1. Stakeholder networks and relationships are identified.
- 3.2. Networking strategies are used, within probity boundaries, to establish, develop and maintain working relationships to promote benefits to the contract requirements.
- 3.3. Confidence of stakeholders is developed and maintained through high standards of behaviour and ethical conduct.
- 3.4. Negotiation strategies are used to achieve positive outcomes when difficult situations arise.
- 3.5. Communication requirements are identified and confirmed in line with contractual obligations and stakeholder needs.

4. Implement contract strategies

- 4.1. Requirements of confidentiality and freedom of information are identified for the contract.
- 4.2. Communication/information strategy is developed that matches needs of the organisation, the contract and the contractor's business environment.
- 4.3. Contract review requirements are established with stakeholders.
- 4.4. Contract review strategy is developed to review management of the contract, contractor performance and user satisfaction.

5. Implement contractual arrangements

- 5.1. Business relationship with contractor is established and managed according to organisational policy and procedures and probity requirements.
- 5.2. Start-up or transition arrangements are implemented.
- 5.3. Financial, administrative and information management processes are established.
- 5.4. Contractual arrangements are implemented according to contract management plan.
- 5.5. Appropriate contract records are maintained for the life of the contract.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - consult and negotiate with contractors and stakeholders
 - network, within probity boundaries, with contractors and stakeholders
 - develop a written contract management plan and sub-plans
 - read complex documents, such as contracts, legislation and guidelines
 - provide feedback
- teamwork skills to:
 - model effective team management approaches
 - respond to diversity
 - refer issues to the correct person
- problem-solving skills to:
 - apply OHS requirements in the context of contract management
 - apply understanding of supplier issues and supply chain management in the context of procurement risk management
- initiative and enterprise skills to:
 - apply the content of complex documents, such as contracts, legislation and guidelines
 - apply OHS, environmental, sustainability and corporate social responsibility practices in the context of planning for contract management
- planning and organising skills to manage and update the contract management plan and sub-plans
- learning skills to keep up-to-date with:
 - best practice examples in procurement practice
 - relevant procurement legislation, policies and procedures
- technology skills to:
 - operate organisational IT systems
 - use electronic procurement templates

Required knowledge

- commonwealth, state or territory, and local government legislation, policies, practices and guidelines:
 - relating to contract management, including environmental purchasing, sustainability and corporate social responsibility guidance relevant to the contract
 - such as OHS and equity and diversity
- organisational procurement policies, practices and approval processes
- contract management planning for a range of contractual situations
- privacy and confidentiality issues
- probity principles and issues
- codes of conduct, codes of practice and standards of individual behaviour relating to management of contracts and relationships with contractors
- whole-of-life considerations

- financial and accounting issues relevant to the contract
- equal employment opportunity relevant to the contract
- OHS requirements relevant to the contract

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment Competency must be demonstrated in the ability to plan to manage a contract consistently in accordance with legislative and organisational requirements.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to:

- develop a contract management strategy in consultation with key stakeholders
- develop a contract management plan suited to more complex contracts, using templates if available, which may include sub-plans such as risk, transition and probity
- implement the contract management strategy and the contract management plan
- develop and maintain a sound business relationship with internal and external stakeholders
- manage the performance of contractors to ensure the effective delivery of value for money outcomes under the contract
- manage more complex contract disputes to achieve prompt resolution and refer to higher authority when necessary
- review contract throughout to identify opportunities for continuous improvement
- act within own delegations and refer issues to higher authority when necessary.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated by providing evidence of undertaking a range of relevant work tasks in an actual or simulated procurement environment on at least two separate occasions.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

The unit of competency is to be assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment.

Access may be required to:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to procuring goods and services and managing contracts

- codes of conduct and codes of practice
- workplace scenarios and case studies relating to a range of procurement activities associated with planning to manage a contract
- case studies that incorporate dilemmas, and probity requirements relating to planning to manage a contract.

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- questions to assess understanding of relevant legislation and procedures
- review of strategies and approaches adopted for planning to manage a contract
- review of contract management plans, contracts, probity plans, budgets, transition plans, approvals and sign-offs, and other documentation prepared by the candidate in a range of contexts
- review of stakeholder engagement approaches adopted by the candidate.

In all cases, practical assessment should be supported by questions to assess underpinning knowledge and those aspects of competency which are difficult to assess directly. Questioning techniques should suit the language and literacy levels of the candidate.

Guidance information for assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- PSPETHC501B Promote the values and ethos of public service
- PSPGOV507A Undertake negotiations
- PSPLEGN501B Promote compliance with legislation in the public sector
- PSPPROC503B Manage contract performance
- PSPPROC504B Finalise contracts
- PSPPROC505A Manage procurement risk
- PSPPROC507A Plan for procurement outcomes
- PSPPROC508A Make procurement decisions.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Legislation, public sector standards and organisational requirements may include:

- financial management legislation
- government procurement, purchasing and contracting legislation, policy and guidelines
- ethics standards
- codes of conduct and codes of practice
- environmental purchasing

Probity principles:

- may include:
 - accountability
 - transparency
 - confidentiality
 - managing conflict of interest
 - impartiality
- are maintained to:
 - ensure conformity to processes
 - facilitate accountability
 - ensure proponents are treated in a fair and equitable manner
 - encourage commercial completion
 - preserve public and private sector confidence in government processes

- in-house option directives

Contract requirements may include:

- terms and conditions
- specifications
- risk
- managing hospitality
- clauses dealing with:

- variations
- insurances
- notices
- disputes
- intellectual property
- privacy
- confidentiality
- milestones
- payments
- breaches

Delegations may include:

- financial delegations
- procurement delegations
- compliance with instructions or finance circulars
- special consideration if they concern travel, computers or software, leasing arrangements or issuing indemnities, or other special categories of goods and services
- other delegations, such as disposals and human resources
- confirmation by chief financial officer
- ministerial authorisation

Contract risks may include:

- contextual/environmental factors
- supplier inability to meet obligations
- end user or buyer inability to meet obligations
- unclear contract terms and conditions
- contractual disputes
- factors outside the control of either party, such as global health pandemic, failure of third-party businesses, and natural disasters
- implications if dependence on one supplier, versus risks in lack of continuity and consistency of services provided

Variation to agreements may arise from:

- change of scope
- negotiation of new terms and conditions
- dissolution of contracts

Procedures to resolve disputes may include:

- conference
- negotiation
- mediation
- arbitration
- resort to contractual conditions
- litigation

Disputes may include:

- disputes over:
 - requirements
 - delivery schedules

Administrative

processes may include:

- price changes
- additional tasking
- payment schedules
- complaints from third parties
- file and records management
- audit trail
- methodology for recording meetings
- notes and follow-ups of meetings and actions agreed

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

1. Manage contract establishment	1.1. Requirements of contracts and strategic initiatives are discussed, clarified and agreed by all parties. 1.2. Responsibilities for establishing and carrying out procedures are assigned to achieve contract outcomes. 1.3. Effective communication strategies and processes are established and implemented to assist ongoing communication between internal and external stakeholders and contractors. 1.4. Relationship management is undertaken of all levels of personnel involved in procurement and contract management, within probity boundaries. 1.5. Strategic relationships are established and managed within probity boundaries to improve procurement capability and performance. 1.6. Risk management plans are updated according to organisational policy and procedures.
2. Manage contract performance	2.1. Progress of contracts is monitored against set targets and performance measures to ensure success of procurement activities. 2.2. Should monitoring find that set targets, performance measures and probity requirements are not being met, action is taken to rectify performance in a timely manner. 2.3. Advice and support are provided to solve problems, make improvements and maintain progress. 2.4. Disputes are managed promptly according to contractual conditions to achieve resolution and maintain contract performance and progress. 2.5. Opportunities to continuously improve procurement outcomes are sought and negotiated with contractors. 2.6. Approvals are provided or gained for contract variations that are negotiated and agreed between the parties.

- 2.7. Opportunities are provided for stakeholders and contractors to have input into and receive feedback on progress during the performance of the contract.
- 2.8. Internal and external stakeholders are engaged as necessary throughout the life of the contract to maintain progress.

3. Manage contract evaluation

- 3.1. Evaluation of contract performance is undertaken relative to planned performance measures and in consultation with stakeholders and contractors.
- 3.2. Where stakeholders and contractors do not agree, dispute resolution is undertaken according to organisational policy and procedures.
- 3.3. Conclusions are detailed against agreed criteria to provide a complete picture of performance of contractors, organisation's procurement processes and value for money.
- 3.4. Performance of strategic initiatives is measured relative to planned outcomes in consultation with industry and other stakeholders.
- 3.5. Lessons learnt from evaluations of contracts and strategic initiatives are documented according to organisational requirements and used to continuously improve future procurement activities.
- 3.6. Contractors and stakeholders are advised of evaluation outcomes in a timely manner according to organisational guidelines.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- communication skills to:
 - consult and negotiate with stakeholders
 - network, within probity boundaries, with stakeholders
 - build and manage effective working relationships
 - write business cases, plans, reports, submissions and other complex documents

- implications of particular contracting arrangements
- whole-of-life considerations
- procurement management processes
- cultural issues relating to contract management and industry development
- relationship management at all personnel levels
- environmental, sustainability and corporate social responsibility principles relevant to managing strategic contracts

Evidence Guide

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment Competency must be demonstrated in managing strategic contracts consistently and in accordance with legislative and organisational requirements.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit Assessment must confirm the ability to:

- develop contract management plans and sub-plans suited to the nature of the contracts
- establish contract management relationships with stakeholders using strategic techniques such as start up workshops, service level agreements, etc.
- implement contract management plans
- manage contractors to ensure the delivery of contract outcomes, using flexibility and initiative to deal with issues as they arise
- implement contract performance measures
- provide contractors with performance feedback
- deal promptly and proactively with contract disputes and refer to higher authority when this is not possible
- communicate effectively with internal and external stakeholders about the operation of contracts
- uphold probity standards in all dealings with contractors.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated by providing evidence of undertaking a range of relevant work tasks in an actual or simulated procurement environment on at least two separate occasions.

Context of and specific resources for assessment The unit of competency is to be assessed in the workplace or a simulated workplace environment.

Access may be required to:

- legislation, policy, procedures and protocols relating to managing strategic contracts
- codes of conduct and codes of practice
- long-term government policy papers, such as White Papers
- strategic procurement plans and direction statements
- workplace scenarios and case studies relating to a range of strategic procurement and disposal activities.

Method of assessment

The following assessment methods are suggested:

- questions to assess understanding of relevant legislation and procedures
- review of strategies and approaches adopted for managing strategic contracts
- review of contract management plans and related sub-plans, such as transition plans, probity plans, contract variations, contract performance reports and reviews, budgets, negotiation notes from meetings with contractors, risk assessments, formal sign-offs and approvals, contract closure reports, and other documentation prepared or reviewed by the candidate in a range of contexts
- review of stakeholder engagement approaches adopted by the candidate.

In all cases, practical assessment should be supported by questions to assess underpinning knowledge and those aspects of competency which are difficult to assess directly. Candidates for this qualification must demonstrate a high level of understanding and practical workplace application of underpinning knowledge. Questioning techniques should suit the language and literacy levels of the candidate.

Guidance information for assessment

Evidence must be gathered over time in a range of contexts to ensure the person can achieve the unit outcome and apply the competency in different situations or environments.

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended, for example:

- PSPETHC601B Maintain and enhance confidence in public service
- PSPLEGN601B Manage compliance with legislation in the public sector
- PSPMNGT607B Develop a business case
- PSPMNGT608B Manage risk
- PSPPM601B Direct complex project activities
- PSPPROC604B Plan for strategic procurement
- PSPPROC605B Coordinate strategic procurement

- PSPPROC606B Negotiate strategic procurement.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Contracts and strategic initiatives may include:

- non-traditional procurement and finance activities
- strategic procurement activities, such as industry development
- in-house option directives
- inter and intra-government agreements
- memoranda of understanding and memoranda of agreement
- public private partnerships (PPP)
- purchases from suppliers
- coordinated procurement arrangements
- whole of government procurement arrangements
- cooperative procurement arrangements.

Stakeholders may include:

- end users

- technical or functional experts or advisers
- commonwealth, state or territory, and local government
- the organisation
- other public sector organisations
- employees, unions and staff associations
- industry bodies
- local communities
- lobby groups and special user groups.

Monitoring may involve:

- progress meetings and regular progress reports from contractor
- visits to contractor's premises
- provision of samples
- tests and verification
- independent audit
- end-user feedback.

Contract variation may include modification of:

- targets
- performance measures
- procurement plans
- resourcing
- monitoring and evaluation processes.

Evaluation of contractor performance may include:

- strengths and weaknesses
- client acceptance of service delivery (client satisfaction)
- meeting delivery and completion dates
- compliance with other contractual requirements
- performance in relation to relevant policy objectives, such as industry development, care for the environment, OHS and affirmative action
- achievements of the contractor in developing Australian and New Zealand supply networks
- general relationships, including effectiveness of communication at all levels
- performance of key technical personnel
- acceptability and cost of whole-of-life technical support, including lead times and availability of spares and maintenance services
- achievements in innovation and quality improvement programs
- acceptability and suitability for future agreements, including potential status as an approved contractor
- adherence to codes of practice and codes of conduct.

Evaluation of organisation's procurement processes may focus on:

- effectiveness of project management, including project plan and responsibilities and accountabilities set out in it
- quality of the business case, as indicated by achievement of planned outcome and contribution to program objectives
- effectiveness of contractor qualification processes
- value obtained in bid clarification and post-tender negotiation

Modification History

Release	TP version	Comments
2	PUA12 V1	Layout adjusted. Application, PC and Required Skills revised.
1	PUA00 V8.1	First release in TGA.

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the competency required to identify and prevent the development of workplace emergency situations, or to minimise their consequences, and to report if emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems are compromised.

For this unit the term workplace is defined as the area encompassed by an individual's responsibilities. All aspects of the unit must be undertaken in line with legislative requirements, workplace policies and procedures, and accepted safe practices.

This unit:

- has been developed to cover the broad range of emergencies and workplaces as considered in Australian Standard 37452002
- covers the work required before the emergency services or specialist response team arrives
- does not cover the specific use of equipment to prevent workplace emergency situations

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to employees in the workplace within all industries and in all contexts.

This unit places responsibility on individual employees in the workplace to identify, prevent and report potential workplace emergency situations. This requirement is consistent with the legislative obligations of employees as prescribed in OHS legislation. The unit may also be used for planning for future operations in the workplace.

The knowledge and skills gained through the completion of this unit may be applied by all employees across all industries.

2.6 Workplace procedures and accepted safe practices are regularly monitored and followed to ensure operability of emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required Skills

- communicate effectively
- identify hazards in the workplace that reduce the effectiveness of emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems
- monitor the work area to identify new and emerging risks on an on-going basis

Required Knowledge

- basic types, principles of operation and limitations of emergency protection systems and emergency control equipment typically installed in the workplace
- hazards in the workplace that reduce the effectiveness of emergency protection systems and emergency control equipment
- procedures for identifying, minimising or preventing, correcting and reporting situations within the organisation that may lead to workplace emergencies
- safe practices applicable to the workplace that help to prevent emergencies
- situations in the workplace that may lead to emergencies
- situations that may make emergency protection systems and emergency control equipment inoperable

Evidence Guide

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to identify emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems; to identify and report situations that may lead to or contribute to workplace incidents and/or emergencies.

Consistency in performance

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a Unit of Competency.

Performance Criteria describe the required performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the Range Statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the Evidence Guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

1. Ensure workplace emergency prevention processes are implemented

1.1 Workplace emergency prevention inspections are carried out according to workplace procedures, safe practices and workplace emergency management plan.

1.2 Situations that could lead to workplace emergencies are identified, mitigated or corrected, and recorded or reported.

1.3 Processes are reviewed and reported.

2. Ensure appropriate hazard analysis is undertaken and results are implemented

2.1 Workplace procedures are implemented to ensure that an emergency prevention hazard analysis in the area is routinely undertaken.

2.2 Personnel are designated to implement the processes according to the hazard analysis.

2.3 Workplace procedures are implemented to ensure personnel comply with identified emergency prevention processes.

3. Ensure workplace emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems remain effective

3.1 Workplace procedures are implemented to ensure work practices do not interfere with the area's emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems.

3.2 Workplace procedures are implemented to ensure problems or deficiencies with area emergency protection systems, emergency control equipment and evacuation systems are corrected and reported.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required Skills

- communicate effectively
- delegate affectively according to workplace procedures and level of responsibility
- effective leadership and decision-making to ensure safety in the workplace
- monitor and review the work area to identify new and emerging risks on an ongoing basis

Required Knowledge

- basic types, principles of operation and limitations of emergency prevention and protection systems and emergency control equipment typically installed in the workplace
- hazard analysis processes
- reporting procedures
- workplace procedures to rectify problems

Evidence Guide

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to identify workplace emergency prevention procedures and to ensure these procedures are routinely implemented.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated over time with a range of emergencies that could be expected in the workplace.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Context of assessment

Competency should be assessed in the workplace or in a simulated workplace.

Specific resources for assessment

Access to:

- scenarios that reflect a range of emergency situations that may be expected in the workplace
- relevant workplace hazard analysis results

Range Statement

The Range Statement relates to the Unit of Competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the Performance Criteria is detailed below.

Situations that could lead to workplace emergencies may include:

- deficient or ineffective security arrangements
- fire/smoke hazards
- poor housekeeping
- unreported faults
- unsafe practices
- unsafe storage and handling of dangerous goods and hazardous materials

Emergency protection systems may include:

- unsafe use of electrical or mechanical equipment
- automatic fire/leak/spill/movement detectors
- communications equipment
- CCTV
- fire/smoke doors
- manual alarms
- security infrastructure
- special hazard identification systems
- spill/leak containment systems (sprinkler and deluge systems)

Emergency control equipment may include:

- warning systems
- communications equipment
- escape equipment
- fire/smoke detection, alarm, mitigation and suppression systems
- first-aid kits
- forcible entry tools
- initial response firefighting equipment
- isolation barriers
- personal protection kits
- shower and eyewash
- spill control kits/equipment

Evacuation systems may include:

- access, egress
- exits
- procedures

Unit Descriptor

This unit covers the competency required to manage and monitor workplace emergency prevention and control structures for a complex workplace or a defined group of workplaces.

It involves managing problems and resolving issues in relation to the organisation's workplace emergency prevention process and emergency control structures.

This unit has been developed to cover the broad range of emergencies and workplaces as considered in Australian Standard 3745—2010

All aspects of the unit must be undertaken in line with legislative requirements, workplace policies and procedures, and accepted safe practices.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to employees in the workplace within all industries and in all contexts, who are delegated responsibility for implementing emergency prevention measures that may include:

- the purchasing, installation, commissioning, and maintenance of emergency control equipment
- hazard risk identification
- mitigation and recording of workplace emergency risks
- recording and reporting on emergency control equipment and faults
- monitoring and reviewing the currency and compliance of workplace emergency plans
- providing advice and guidance to the emergency planning committee and the emergency control organisation
- ensuring on-going compliance of workplace emergency procedures and training standards in accordance with relevant standards and statutory requirements

The knowledge and skills gained through the completion of this unit may be applied by employees across all industries.

| | 4.8 Training is provided and monitored in accordance with the workplace emergency plan and statutory requirements. |

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required Skills

- analyse operational effectiveness of emergency control equipment
- apply emergency prevention principles
- implement emergency prevention solutions
- implement maintenance auditing and fault reporting procedures
- report emergency prevention problems and suggestions for correction

Required Knowledge

- characteristics, use and limitations of workplace emergency procedures and emergency control equipment
- maintenance requirements of workplace emergency procedures and emergency control equipment
- principles of emergency prevention
- relevant legislation and standards
- typical applications of emergency prevention

- 4.6 Alternative pathways or methods of evacuation are identified, assessed and chosen according to workplace emergency procedures if usual means of evacuation are blocked or endangered.
- 4.7 Communication systems are used according to workplace procedures.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required Skills

- communicate effectively in an emergency situation as outlined in the workplace emergency procedures
- identify an emergency/potential emergency
- adhere to documented workplace emergency procedures

Required Knowledge

- circumstances where evacuation may need to be modified
- emergency reporting systems and procedures used on site
- emergency warning system, signals and instructions used on site
- evacuation alarms and workplace emergency procedures used at the workplace
- location of assembly areas and post-evacuation actions
- location of emergency equipment in the workplace
- procedures for reporting emergencies
- roles, responsibilities and authority of emergency personnel, emergency control organisation and emergency response team
- types of emergencies, the hazards and the evacuation actions associated with each one

Evidence Guide

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessment must confirm the ability to apply workplace procedures; to maintain own safety and the safety of others in emergency situations; and to follow workplace emergency procedures and the advice of emergency control organisation members.

Consistency in performance

Competency should be demonstrated over time with a range of emergencies that could be expected in the workplace including assisting people who may need assistance.

Assessment Requirements for RIIMPO502D Manage the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment

Modification History

Release	Comment
1	This unit replaces RIIMPO502A Manage the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment.
2	Editorial corrections; amend reference to Licensing requirements in Unit Application.
3	Required frequency and volume of evidence amended in Performance evidence. Substantial amendments made in Assessment Conditions field, including: references to Industry Sectors, assessor and subject matter expert experience requirements, how assessment should be conducted and what it should confirm.

Performance Evidence

Evidence is required to be collected that demonstrates a candidate's competency in this unit. Evidence must be relevant to the roles within this sector's work operations and satisfy all of the requirements of the performance criteria of this unit and include evidence that the candidate:

- locates and applies relevant legislation, documentation, policies and procedures
- implements procedures and techniques for the safe, effective and efficient management of the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment including:
 - analysing and resolving system issues
 - developing and implementing monitoring and measuring systems
 - facilitating operational meetings
 - managing the continual improvement of systems
- works effectively with others to undertake and complete the management of the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment including:
 - using a range of communications techniques and equipment to convey information to others
 - maintaining clear and legible written records and the reporting systems
 - interpreting and implementing policy
 - consulting with other parties
 - coordinating activities of others
 - managing information
 - applying interpersonal skills

- demonstrates completion of managing the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment that safely, effectively and efficiently meets all of the required outcomes on more than one (1) occasion including:
 - managing the implementation and continuous improvement of the traffic management system, including:
 - compiling and analysing relevant information and scope of the work
 - identifying viable options and the selection of options that best meet the required outcomes
 - developing and implementing systems and management plans
 - monitoring the implementation of systems
 - rectifying issues to the implementation of systems as authorised

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge of the following when managing the interaction of heavy and light vehicles and mining equipment:

- managing the limitations of transport monitoring systems
- identifying the functions, capabilities and limitations of vehicles and mine equipment
- reviewing project reporting guidelines
- identifying and communicating roles and responsibilities
- planning for and managing contingencies

Assessment Conditions

- An assessor of this unit must satisfy the requirements of the NVR/AQTF or their successors; and Industry regulations for certification and licensing; and,
- this unit must be assessed in the context of this sector's work environment; and,
- this unit must be assessed in compliance with relevant legislation/regulation and using policies, procedures, processes and operational manuals directly related to the industry sector for which it is being assessed; and,
- assessment may be conducted in conjunction with the assessment of other Units of Competency; and,
- assessment must confirm consistent performance can be applied in a range of relevant workplace circumstances; and,
- assessors must demonstrate the performance evidence, and knowledge evidence as outlined in this Unit of Competency, and through the minimum years of current* work experience specified below in an Industry sector relevant to the outcomes of the unit; or,
- where the assessor does not meet experience requirements a co-assessment or partnership arrangement must exist between the qualified assessor and an Industry subject matter expert. The Industry subject matter expert should hold the unit being assessed (or an equivalent unit) and/or demonstrate equivalence of skills and knowledge at the unit level. An Industry technical expert must also demonstrate skills and knowledge from the minimum years of current work experience specified below in the Industry sector, including time spent in roles related to the unit being assessed; and,

- assessor and Industry subject matter expert requirements differ depending on the Australian Qualifications Framework Level (AQF) of the qualification being assessed and/or Industry Sector as follows:

Industry sector	AQF Level	Required assessor or Industry subject matter expert experience
Drilling, Metalliferous Mining, Coal Mining, Extractive (Quarrying) and Civil Construction	1	1 Year
	2	2 Years
Drilling, Coal Mining and Extractive (Quarrying)	3-6	3 Years
Metalliferous Mining and Civil Construction	3-6	5 Years
Other sectors	Where this Unit is being assessed outside of the Resources and Infrastructure Sectors assessor and/or Industry subject matter expert experience should be in-line with industry standards for the sector in which it is being assessed and where no Industry standard is specified should comply with any relevant regulation.

*Assessors can demonstrate current work experience through employment within Industry in a role relevant to the outcomes of the Unit; or, for external assessors this can be demonstrated through exposure to Industry by conducting frequent site assessments across various locations.

Where a unit is being delivered outside of a Qualification the first numeric character in the Unit code should be considered to indicate the AQF level

Elements and Performance Criteria

Element	Performance Criteria
Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Interpret the need for innovation.	1.1.Observe the need for innovation within workplace context. 1.2.Challenge assumptions about products and processes to identify opportunities for innovation. 1.3.Project possible future contexts and environments for the innovation. 1.4.Define end user requirements . 1.5.Identify resources and constraints . 1.6.Research factors and ethical considerations that may impact on the idea. 1.7.Access relevant organisational knowledge .
2. Generate ideas.	2.1.Conceptualise ideas using a range of creative thinking techniques . 2.2.Apply relevant knowledge to explore a range of approaches. 2.3.Seek stimulation from alternative sources . 2.4.Test ideas against brief and other factors. 2.5.Select preferred option.
3. Collaborate with others.	3.1.Develop ideas in conjunction with relevant people . 3.2.Seek and accept feedback from relevant people in an appropriate fashion. 3.3.Modify ideas according to feedback. 3.4.Maintain and utilise a network of peers to discuss ideas.
4. Analyse and reflect on ideas.	4.1.Analyse ideas from different perspectives. 4.2.Use appropriate strategies to capture reflections . 4.3.Examine ideas to ensure they meet context requirements, best practice and future needs. 4.4.Allow time for the development and analysis of ideas.
5. Represent ideas.	5.1.Select an appropriate communication technique for the target audience . 5.2.Develop the presentation of the idea with the audience in mind. 5.3.Present the idea to educate and inform the client.

- 5.4.Modify the idea according to client feedback.
- 6. Evaluate ideas.
 - 6.1.Review ideas using appropriate evaluation methods to ensure they meet required needs.
 - 6.2.Modify ideas as required.

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills

- interpersonal skills to:
 - collaborate with others and represent ideas through clear and direct communication
 - ask questions to identify and confirm requirements
 - use language and concepts appropriate to cultural differences
 - use and interpret non-verbal communication
 - work within teams
- analytical and lateral thinking skills to examine self and external factors

Required knowledge

- relevant technical knowledge
- broad industry and market knowledge
- organisational culture
- social, environmental and work culture impacts
- principles of innovation

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit Evidence of the following is essential:

- interprets the need for innovation in the workplace
- identifies resources and constraints and researches affecting factors when generating innovative ideas
- generates ideas using creative thinking techniques
- tests ideas against brief and other relevant factors
- presents and discusses ideas with relevant people
- seeks feedback and modifies ideas accordingly

- analyses and reflects on ideas to ensure they meet end user requirements
- presents ideas using appropriate communication methods
- reviews and modifies idea using appropriate evaluation methods.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- a real or simulated work environment
- relevant documentation, such as store policy and procedures manuals
- a range of communication equipment.

Methods of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- observation of performance in the workplace
- third-party reports from a supervisor
- a detailed case study
- written or verbal questioning to assess knowledge and understanding
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below.

Innovation may include:

- generating new ideas or solutions
- developing new uses for old ideas and making them useful or a means of improvement.

End user requirements may refer to:

- who will be using the end product
- why the product or process is needed
- how will it be used
- advantages will it provide
- where it will be used.

Resources and constraints may

- time required

include:

- costs
- equipment
- human resources
- work culture
- management practice
- technology needed.

Factors and ethical considerations may include:

- aesthetic requirements
- functionality
- information available
- WHS
- environmental considerations.

Organisational knowledge may include:

- technical knowledge
- information gained from books and audiovisual resources
- knowledge from different work areas
- information from work colleagues
- work processes
- product
- materials
- systems
- tools
- working conditions.

Feedback may be:

- formal or informal
- verbal
- in writing
- in groups
- individual.

Creative thinking techniques may include:

- brainstorming
- visualising
- making associations
- building on associations
- telling stories
- creative writing
- lateral thinking games
- mind mapping, drawings
- six thinking hats
- using prompts.

Stimulation from alternative sources may include:

- reading books and industry journals
- talking with colleagues and friends

- visiting art galleries and museums
 - going to industry workshops
 - networks.
- Relevant people may include:
- colleagues
 - team members
 - supervisors
 - managers
 - the client.
- Maintaining a network of peers may include:
- participating in forums
 - participating in industry training
 - attending workshops
 - becoming a member of a network.
- Capture of reflections may include:
- mind mapping
 - assessing alternatives
 - drawing comparisons
 - imagining possible outcomes
 - imagining best and worst case scenarios.
- Communication techniques may include:
- writing a proposal
 - building a model
 - showing a film
 - presenting a talk
 - preparing a report
 - drawing a diagram.
- The audience may include:
- external contacts
 - internal contacts, such as management and other team members
 - groups or individuals
 - people from a range of social, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and with varying physical and mental abilities.
- Presentation of ideas may include:
- helping the client visualise and understand the idea
 - actively listening
 - asking questions
 - accepting others opinions
 - explaining the proposal
 - clarifying details.
- Formal review of the idea may involve:
- checking that the idea can be implemented
 - that it meets the client and end user needs
 - best practice

Evaluation methods may include:

- financial requirements
- resource requirements.
- developing checklists
- discussing the process with colleagues or supervisors
- writing a report of the outcomes.

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to lead a workplace team in ways that foster innovative work practices.

Application of the Unit

This unit applies to individuals leading work teams on individual projects or for work in general. The skills encompass the requirements for encouraging innovation within individual team members as well as a team as a whole. They include how to put a team together and keep it working well, how to structure work and monitor progress, how to ensure the team members have the information and skills they need and how to apply innovative work skills to the leadership role.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of endorsement.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Element	Performance Criteria
Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.	Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.
1. Organise team to maximise innovation.	1.1. Analyse the performance requirements for the team . 1.2. Gather information about team members . 1.3. Acknowledge strengths and weaknesses of individual team members. 1.4. Assign team roles to ensure a match between work requirements and individual team members' capacities. 1.5. Select team members to foster cross-fertilisation of ideas.
2. Organise work assignments within team to facilitate innovative work practices.	2.1. Structure and organise work to enable innovation. 2.2. Communicate work assignments to team members in ways that encourage and reinforce team based innovation. 2.3. Allocate tasks and activities to ensure the best use of team skills. 2.4. Ensure work assignments include timelines that allow for innovation.
3. Provide guidance and coaching to team members on innovation in the workplace.	3.1. Encourage team members to work collaboratively on work assignments. 3.2. Encourage team members to share work information, knowledge and experiences in their day-to-day work. 3.3. Encourage team members to seek external stimuli and knowledge and to set up and maintain networks. 3.4. Provide appropriate guidance to team members on the use of innovation in the workplace. 3.5. Coach team members to ensure they have the enabling skills to implement innovation in the workplace.
4. Provide a model of innovative work practice.	4.1. Share case studies and examples of the use and benefits of innovative work practices within teams with team members. 4.2. Ensure examples of the way innovative skills can be applied in the workplace are provided by the team leader. 4.3. Demonstrate the qualities of an effective team member , as team leader in working with the team. 4.4. Promote and reinforce the value placed by the organisation on innovation.

| 5. Monitor the team's ongoing use of innovative work practices. | 5.1. Actively encourage team members to reflect on team activities and opportunities for improvement and innovation.
5.2. Evaluate team activities based on feedback from team members, management, clients and other interested people.
5.3. Receive suggestions for work improvements in a positive manner, and act on them where appropriate.
5.4. Review and record evidence of the application of innovative work skills, and present findings as appropriate.
5.5. Review the innovation process and discuss and constructively analyse both positive and negative outcomes. |
| 6. Provide feedback on the use of innovative work skills. | 6.1. Debrief team members after work and training and evaluation exercises.
6.2. Discuss feedback from review processes within the team and use it to inform future planning.
6.3. Celebrate successful innovations and reward the team appropriately.
6.4. Discuss problems in the use of innovation in a constructive way. |

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the essential skills and knowledge and their level, required for this unit.

Required skills

- interpersonal skills to:
 - communicate work assignments
 - provide guidance and coaching and provide feedback through clear and direct communication
 - ask questions to identify and confirm requirements
 - share information
 - give instructions
 - use language and concepts appropriate to cultural differences
 - use and interpret non-verbal communication
- leadership skills to:
 - ability to apply innovative work skills in own work
 - motivate team
 - encourage innovation
 - apply conflict resolution techniques
 - apply counselling and consoling techniques
 - match staff competencies to task requirements

Required knowledge

- innovative work skills
- leadership principles
- techniques for evaluating team performance
- an understanding of group dynamics in a team
- coaching and learning principles

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, the range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit Evidence of the following is essential:

- organises team to maximise innovation, including gathering information on team members, assigning team roles and selecting team members
- organises work assignments within team to foster innovation
- provides guidance and coaching to team members on innovation in the workplace
- provides a model of innovative work practice
- monitors the team's ongoing use of innovative work practice.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Assessment must ensure access to:

- a retail work environment
- relevant documentation, such as store policy and procedures manuals
- a range of communication equipment
- a team.

Methods of assessment

A range of assessment methods should be used to assess practical skills and knowledge. The following examples are appropriate for this unit:

- observation of performance in the workplace
- third-party reports from a supervisor
- written or verbal questioning to assess knowledge and understanding
- review of portfolios of evidence and third-party workplace reports of on-the-job performance.

Guidance information for assessment

Holistic assessment with other units relevant to the industry sector, workplace and job role is recommended.

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording in the performance criteria is detailed below.

Team may include:

- small work team
- store team
- corporate team.

Information may include:

- work preferences
- past jobs
- interests
- working styles
- lifestyle preferences.

Team members may:

- come from a variety of social, cultural or ethnic backgrounds
- vary in literacy and numeracy skills
- vary in competencies.

Methods used to communicate may include:

- writing a proposal
- building a model
- showing a film
- presenting a talk
- preparing a report
- drawing a diagram.

Ways to encourage and reinforce team-based innovation may include:

- supportive communication
- allowing follow-through with ideas
- providing enough but not too much guidance and structure
- providing training and learning opportunities.

External stimuli and knowledge may come from:

- technical experts
- other organisations
- journals
- the internet
- networks.

Guidance may include:

- coaching
- mentoring
- counselling

- skills training
 - modelling.
 - fair
 - responsible
 - collaborative
 - reflective
 - sympathetic
 - equitable
 - hardworking.
- Qualities of an effective team member may include capacity to be:
- verbally
 - in writing
 - through presentations
 - at informal and formal meetings.
- Feedback may be sought and given:
- new and existing clients
 - internal or external clients
 - customers with a range of social, cultural and ethnic backgrounds and physical and mental abilities
 - customers with routine or special needs.
- Clients may include:
- feedback from team members or other staff
 - feedback from clients or work-based managers
 - work-related statistics and reports.
- Evidence may include:
- supervisors
 - team members
 - peers
 - clients
 - the learners
 - subject experts.
- Suggestions for work improvements may be received from:
- relate to:
 - existing staff competencies
 - level of competencies required by staff
 - be supervised by:
 - supervisor or manager
 - training coordinator
 - external consultant.
- Training and evaluation may:
- positive feedback presentation to peers and higher management
 - prizes
 - certificates
 - positive reinforcement through articles in newsletters.
- Rewards and promotion of innovation may include:

Unit Descriptor

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to contribute to the assessment process.

Application of the Unit

This unit typically applies to a person with technical or vocational expertise who is in a supervisory or mentoring/coaching work role and for whom collecting evidence for assessment is an adjunct to principal work responsibilities.

This unit is performed under the following conditions:

- the necessary assessment tools and assessment resources to guide the evidence collection process have been provided
- any adjustments to tools are determined by the qualified assessor (as defined by the Australian Quality Training Framework and the assessor requirements of the relevant training package), who provides guidance and supervision.

---------	----------------------

ELEMENT

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency .

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

1. Clarify role and responsibilities in the assessment process	1.1 Discuss and confirm purpose of assessment with relevant people 1.2 Discuss and confirm benchmarks for assessment with qualified assessor 1.3 Access, read and clarify assessment plan with qualified assessor 1.4 Discuss and agree with qualified assessor the specific responsibilities in gathering evidence and types of evidence to be gathered
2. Confirm organisational arrangements for evidence gathering	2.1 Access and confirm relevant assessment system policies and procedures; organisational, legal and ethical requirements; and other relevant advice on assessment 2.2 Clarify nominated assessment tools and methods for collecting evidence with qualified assessor, to ensure that procedures to be followed and instruments to be used are clear 2.3 Discuss and confirm with relevant people assessment context, including candidate's characteristics and any need for reasonable adjustments 2.4 Confirm and arrange resource requirements in consultation with relevant people
3. Collect evidence in accordance with the assessment plan	3.1 Explain assessment process to candidate, including the different responsibilities of the parties involved, and refer any candidate issues or concerns to qualified assessor prior to undertaking assessment activities 3.2 Use assessment instruments to gather quality evidence within available time and resources, according to organisational, legal and ethical requirements
4. Record and report findings	4.1 Organise and provide evidence to the qualified assessor in a format suitable for analysis according to assessment system policies and procedures

	4.2 Actively seek feedback from the qualified assessor on whether evidence-gathering activities meet the principles of assessment and whether evidence collected meets the rules of evidence 4.3 Document areas for improvement in collecting evidence, for future assessment activities

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- observation skills to observe candidate performance
- cognitive and interpretation skills to ensure collection of valid and reliable evidence
- organisational skills to collect evidence
- time-management skills to schedule assessment events and activities
- literacy skills to:
 - read and interpret relevant information
 - prepare required documentation and collate evidence in required format
- communication skills to:
 - discuss evidence-gathering processes with practitioners and candidates
 - provide constructive and supportive feedback
 - ask appropriate questions to clarify and confirm instructions for evidence gathering
 - provide clear and concrete options and advice.

Required knowledge

- competency-based assessment, including:
 - criterion referenced
 - competency standards as the benchmarks for assessment
 - competency-based reporting
- principles of assessment
- rules of quality evidence
- different purposes of assessment
- diversity of assessment contexts
- evidence, including different types of evidence
- evidence-gathering methods – what are assessment methods and different types of methods
- purpose and features of assessment tools and assessment plans
- potential barriers and processes relating to evidence-gathering procedures and assessment processes
- organisational assessment system policies and procedures relevant to this unit of competency

- technical or subject area being assessed
- cultural sensitivity and equity considerations
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation, that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the work role, and OHS considerations to be included in collecting evidence, including:
 - hazard identification and risk control measures
 - requirements for reporting hazards and incidents
 - emergency procedures
 - procedures for use of relevant personal protective equipment
 - safe use of relevant equipment
 - sources of OHS information
 - role of key workplace personnel
 - responsibilities of learners.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- verbal and non-verbal communication techniques, such as:
 - asking relevant and appropriate questions
 - providing explanations
 - demonstrating
 - using listening skills
 - providing information clearly
- safety skills to implement OHS requirements, by acting and responding safely in order to:
 - identify hazards
 - conduct prestart-up checks if required
 - observe and interpret learner behaviour that may put people at risk
- time-management, skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- ensure all learning objectives are covered
- pace learning
- reflection skills in order to:
 - identify areas for improvement
 - maintain personal skill development
- literacy skills to:
 - complete and maintain documentation
 - read and follow learning programs and plans
 - read and analyse learner information
- technology skills to operate audio-visual and technical equipment
- interpersonal skills to:
 - engage, motivate and connect with learners
 - provide constructive feedback
 - maintain appropriate relationships
 - establish trust
 - use appropriate body language
 - maintain humour
 - demonstrate tolerance
 - manage a group
 - recognise and be sensitive to individual difference and diversity
- observation skills to:
 - monitor learner acquisition of new skills, knowledge and competency requirements
 - assess learner communication and skills in interacting with others
 - identify learner concerns
 - recognise learner readiness to take on new skills and tasks

Required knowledge

- learner characteristics and needs
- content and requirements of the relevant learning program and/or delivery plan
- sources and availability of relevant learning resources and learning materials
- content of learning resources and learning materials
- training techniques that enhance learning and when to use them
- introductory knowledge of learning principles and learning styles
- key OHS issues in the learning environment, including:
 - roles and responsibilities of key personnel
 - responsibilities of learners
 - relevant policies and procedures, including hazard identification, risk assessment, reporting requirements, safe use of equipment and emergency

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- risk controls for the specific learning environment

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- carry out a minimum of three training sessions, involving demonstrating and instructing particular work skills for different groups; with each session addressing:
 - different learning objectives
 - a range of techniques and effective communication skills appropriate to the audience.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be provided.

Method of assessmentGuidance information for assessment

For further information about assessment of this and other TAE units, refer to relevant implementation guidance published on the IBSA website (www.ibsa.org.au).

Range StatementRANGE STATEMENT

RANGE STATEMENT

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included.

Learner characteristics may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • language, literacy and numeracy levels • learning styles • past learning and work experiences • specific needs • workplace culture.
Safe learning environment may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • exit requirements • personal protective equipment • safe access • safe use of equipment.
Instruction and demonstration objectives may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • competencies to be achieved • generic and technical skills, which may be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • provided by the organisation • developed by a colleague • individual or group objectives • learning outcomes.
Learning resources may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • any material used to support learning, such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • learner and user guides • trainer and facilitator guides • example training programs • specific case studies • professional development materials • assessment materials • a variety of formats • those produced locally • those acquired from other sources.
Learning materials may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • handouts for learners • materials sourced from the workplace, e.g. workplace documentation, operating procedures, and specifications.
Details may include:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • location and time • outcomes of instruction or demonstration • reason for instruction or demonstration • who will be attending instruction session.

OHS procedures may include:

- emergency procedures
- hazards and their means of control
- incident reporting
- use of personal protective equipment
- safe work practices
- safety briefings
- site-specific safety rules.

Delivery techniques may include:

- coaching
- demonstration
- explanation
- group or pair work
- providing opportunities to practise skills and solve problems
- questions and answers.

Coaching may include:

- learning arrangements requiring immediate interaction and feedback
- on-the-job instruction and 'buddy' systems
- relationships targeting enhanced performance
- short-term learning arrangements
- working on a one-to-one basis.

Measures may include:

- informal review or discussion
- learner survey
- on-the-job observation
- review of peer coaching arrangements.

Required Skills and Knowledge

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- presentation skills to ensure delivery is engaging and relevant, including:
 - synthesising information and ideas
 - preparing equipment, such as data projectors and computer presentation applications
 - speaking with appropriate tone and pitch
 - using language appropriate to audience
 - encouraging and dealing appropriately with questions
- group facilitation skills to ensure that:
 - every individual has an opportunity for participation and input
 - group cohesion is maintained
 - behaviour that puts others at risk is observed, interpreted and addressed
 - discussion and group interaction are enhanced
- conflict resolution and negotiation skills to:
 - identify critical points, issues, concerns and problems
 - identify options for changing behaviours
- oral communication and language skills to:

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- motivate learners to transfer skills and knowledge
- engage with the learner
- interpersonal skills to maintain appropriate relationships and ensure inclusivity
- observation skills to monitor individual and group progress

Required knowledge

- introductory knowledge of learning theories
- sound knowledge of learning principles
- sound knowledge of learner styles
- industry area and subject matter of the delivery
- learner group profile, including characteristics and needs of individual learners in the group
- content and requirements of the learning program and/or delivery plan
- different delivery methods and techniques appropriate to face-to-face group delivery
- techniques for the recognition and resolution of inappropriate behaviours
- behaviours in learners that may indicate learner difficulties
- organisational record-management systems and reporting requirements
- evaluation and revision techniques
- specific resources, equipment and support services available for learners with special needs
- relevant policy, legal requirements, codes of practice and national standards, including commonwealth and state or territory legislation that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the facilitation of group-based learning, including:
 - assessment and risk control measures
 - reporting requirements for hazards
 - safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
 - emergency procedures

 - providing clear and concrete options and advice
 - using appropriate industry/profession terminology and language
 - ensuring language, literacy and numeracy used is appropriate to learners

Required knowledge

- systems, processes and practices within the organisation where work-based learning is taking place
- operational demands of the work and impact of changes on work roles
- organisational work culture, including industrial relations environment
- systems for identifying skill needs
- introductory knowledge of different learning styles and how to encourage learning in each, for example:
 - visual learners
 - audio learners
 - kinaesthetic learners
 - theoretical learners
- relevant policy, legislation, codes of practice and national standards that may affect training and assessment in the vocational education and training sector
- OHS relating to the work role, including:
 - hazards relating to the industry and specific workplace

REQUIRED SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE

- reporting requirements for hazards and incidents
- specific procedures for work tasks
- safe use and maintenance of relevant equipment
- emergency procedures
- sources of OHS information

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The Evidence Guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

Assessment must address the scope of this unit and reflect all components of the unit. A range of appropriate assessment methods and evidence-gathering techniques must be used to determine competency. A judgement of competency should only be made when the assessor is confident that the required outcomes of the unit have been achieved and that consistent performance has been demonstrated.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Evidence of the ability to:

- prepare and facilitate work-based learning
- provide evidence of a minimum of two examples of developing work-based learning pathways, that include:
 - identifying needs for learning
 - analysing work practices, work environment and work activities
 - organising and allocating work in a way that reflects learning needs and provides effective learning opportunities through work processes
- provide a minimum of two examples of a learning facilitation relationship being conducted:
 - with different individuals
 - demonstrating communication skills and flexibility
 - demonstrating one or more of the processes or techniques identified.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

Evidence must be gathered in the workplace wherever possible. Where no workplace is available, a simulated workplace must be

- Work systematically with required attention to detail
- Operate and adapt to differences in equipment in accordance with standard operating procedures

Evidence GuideEVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required knowledge and skills, the range statement and the assessment guidelines for this Training Package.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

- The evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit must be relevant to and satisfy all of the requirements of the elements and performance criteria of this unit and include demonstration of applying:
 - the underpinning knowledge and skills
 - relevant legislation and workplace procedures
 - other relevant aspects of the range statement

Context of and specific resources for assessment

- Performance is demonstrated consistently over a period of time and in a suitable range of contexts
- Resources for assessment include:
 - a range of relevant exercises, case studies and/or other simulated practical and knowledge assessment, and/or
 - access to an appropriate range of relevant operational situations in the workplace
- In both real and simulated environments, access is required to:
 - relevant and appropriate materials and equipment, and
 - applicable documentation including workplace procedures, regulations, codes of practice and operation manuals

Method of assessment

- Assessment of this unit must be undertaken by a registered training organisation
- As a minimum, assessment of knowledge must be conducted through appropriate written/oral tests
- Practical assessment must occur:
 - through activities in an appropriately simulated
