Assessment Requirements for BSBPMG530 Manage project scope

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- manage project scope on at least two occasions.

In the course of the above, the candidate must:

- collaborate with stakeholders to produce a scope-management plan
- review and document scope-management implementation and recommend improvements.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- components of a project scope-management plan
- factors likely to impact the project scope
- formal change-control processes
- methods for measuring work outcomes and progress against plans
- methods for segmenting and documenting a work breakdown structure
- problem areas likely to be encountered in scope management
- procedures for reporting scope change
- project life cycle and the significance of scope management
- project management tools used for managing scope
- roles and responsibilities of project manager in relation to project planning
- types of project initiation documentation.

Assessment Conditions

Skills in this unit must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where the conditions are typical of those in a working environment in this industry.

This includes access to:

- workplace documentation used to document and manage project scope
- examples of feedback from project stakeholders regarding management of project scope.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBPMG637 Engage in collaborative alliances

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to enable a program manager to engage in collaborative alliances. It includes identifying opportunities and forging alliances with other organisations to facilitate attainment of program benefits.

Collaborative alliances are significantly different in focus and content from commercial contracts in that the parties operate as partners with shared interests and a higher degree of joint decision-making. Collaborative agreements often involve organisations that are part of the same legal entity such as business units of the same corporation or departments of the same government.

The unit applies to individuals who are program managers and those managing a suite of projects (a program). They operate within assigned authority levels, are responsible for their own performance, program outcomes, and sometimes the performance of others.

Individuals in this role may be operating within an organisation, a business or as a consultant.

BSBPMG814 Lead the portfolio

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to lead the portfolio. It covers provision of effective leadership and management within the portfolio, and ensuring a vision is developed and communicated.

A portfolio is the centralised management of one or more portfolios of projects, which includes identifying, prioritising, authorising, managing and controlling projects, programs and other related work, to achieve specific strategic business objectives.

The unit applies to individuals who operate at the strategic level within the organisation. Unlike projects or programs, a portfolio does not have a finite life, instead it is a continuous process and requires regular tending to ensure the portfolio remains in balance and is consistent with the strategic objectives of the organisation.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBPRC403 Conduct international procurement

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct international procurement. This includes sourcing potential suppliers, inviting offers, evaluating the offers received, preparing recommendations and contracting the successful supplier. It also covers arranging importation of the goods, satisfying regulatory requirements, arranging required payments and ensuring all contractual obligations are met.

It applies to individuals who conduct international procurement activities to reduce cost and increase efficiency. Individuals will be able to demonstrate the ability to localise and implement sourcing strategies based on market analysis, business requirements, and organisational objectives. Individuals undertaking this unit are typically undertaking procurement in accordance with an organisation's international procurement guidelines and work under minimal supervision of a senior procurement manager or in consultation with senior management.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBTEC301 Design and produce business documents

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- design, produce and finalise four different types of business documents, using at least two different software applications.

In the course of the above, the candidate must:

- comply with organisational policies and procedures for producing business documents
- adhere to task requirements when producing documents including:
 - applying basic design principles
 - applying consistent formatting
 - using appropriate styles
 - using correct layouts
 - proofreading
- use required data storage options.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- technology required to produce document
- key functions and features of contemporary computer applications
- organisational policies and procedures
- organisational requirements for document design, including style guide.

Assessment Conditions

Skills in this unit must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where the conditions are typical of those in a working environment in this industry.

This includes access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- relevant software applications
- style guide
- organisational policies and procedures.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBTEC302 Design and produce spreadsheets

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to develop spreadsheets through the use of spreadsheet applications.

The unit applies to individuals employed in a range of environments who tend to be personally responsible for designing and working with spreadsheets under minimal supervision. These individuals are generally required to have intermediate knowledge and understanding of a number of spreadsheet applications.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS211 Contribute to the health and safety of self and others

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to work in a manner that is healthy and safe in relation to self and others, and to assist in responding to incidents. It covers following work health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures, instructions and requirements; and participating in WHS consultative processes.

The unit applies to those who require a basic knowledge of WHS to carry out own work in a defined context, under direct supervision or with some individual responsibility, in a range of industry and workplace contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- actively participate in two different work activities that contribute to the health and safety of self and others
- identify and report at least one hazard to designated personnel.

During the above, the candidate must follow required procedures and instructions relating to work health and safety (WHS) and incidents.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- organisational safety policies, procedures, instructions and requirements relating to own work role in relation to:
 - checking systems and equipment
 - conducting routine work operations
 - personal protective equipment (PPE)
 - recording existing and potential WHS issues
 - responding to and reporting incidents and injuries
 - responding to fires and incidents
- meaning of commonly used hazard signs and safety symbols
- duty holder responsibilities, as specified in WHS laws, including:
 - self and co-workers
 - persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs)
 - officers
 - others in the workplace

- distinction between hazards and risks
- WHS hazards that may be present in the workplace, including the harm they can cause and how this harm occurs
- process of hazard identification and risk control.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, and WHS legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- organisational policies, standard operating procedures, and work instructions covered in the knowledge evidence
- WHS laws relevant to performance evidence requirements
- opportunities for interaction with others
- workplace equipment and resources required for the performance evidence.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS307 Apply knowledge of WHS laws in the workplace

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to understand work health and safety (WHS) laws, and comply with them in one's own workplace.

The unit applies to those who contribute to compliance with WHS laws as part of their WHS responsibilities, which are in addition to their main duties.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS311 Assist with maintaining workplace safety

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 7.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with implementing and monitoring an organisation's work health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures and programs as part of a small work team.

The unit applies to individuals who have roles in assisting with maintaining workplace safety in an organisation. Individuals closely monitor aspects of work associated with the safe delivery of products and services, and they contribute to influencing safety in the workplace.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- assist with implementing and monitoring at least three different organisational work health and safety (WHS) policies or procedures into a work team's processes.

During the above, the candidate must:

- assist with implementing and monitoring consultation about each policy or procedure according to legislative and organisational requirements
- identify opportunities to encourage work team to contribute to implementing improvements to each policy or procedure based on feedback received through consultation
- complete WHS documentation.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- characteristics and composition of the work team
- procedures related to the following:
 - identifying hazards
 - assessing and controlling risks to health and safety, including the hierarchy of control measures
- organisational WHS policies and procedures, including those relating to:
 - risk management
 - fire
 - emergencies
 - evacuation
 - incident investigation

- reporting
- relevant legislation, regulations and codes of practice from all levels of government that impact on business operations, including those relating to:
 - WHS and environmental issues
 - equal opportunity
 - industrial relations
 - anti-discrimination
- WHS aspects of other organisational systems and procedures.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, and WHS legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and include access to:

- safety processes relevant to the area of work
- organisational policies and procedures, standard operating procedures and plans
- standards, WHS laws and licensing requirements
- opportunities for interaction with others
- workplace equipment and resources required for the performance evidence.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS331 Participate in identifying and controlling hazardous chemicals

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to identify and control hazardous chemicals in the workplace. It requires knowledge of the potential hazards associated with chemicals and how to work safely with them. It involves supporting workplace safety by communicating information about hazardous chemicals using established consultation methods.

The unit applies to those who participate in identifying chemicals as part of their WHS responsibilities, which are in addition to their main duties. It applies to hazardous chemicals with the potential to harm human health, which may be solids, liquids or gases; pure substances or mixtures. When used in the workplace, these substances can generate vapours, fumes, dusts and mists.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to contribute to:

- identifying at least two different (WHS) hazards and controlling the risks associated with those hazards
- evaluating the effectiveness of the above risk controls.

During each of the above occasions, the candidate must:

- identify and interpret information and data about WHS requirements and apply them to the selection and application of techniques, tools and processes for hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control
- contribute to documenting processes
- communicate with required people about WHS requirements and compliance
- comply with WHS requirements for hazard identification, risk assessment, and risk control activities
- identify WHS duty holders and their duties.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- internal and external sources of WHS information and data relating to the performance evidence, and procedures for accessing them
- WHS hazard identification, risk assessment and risk control processes specified in:
 - required WHS laws
 - organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes, and systems
- risk management requirements, including:
 - identifying duty holders and their roles and responsibilities

- selecting and using hazard identification tools and techniques
- undertaking, documenting and communicating risk assessments
- evaluating risk controls
- documenting and communicating risk control plan
- differences between hazards and risks in the workplace
- range of common workplace hazards, and the nature, severity and likelihood of those hazards
- risk assessment and controls that can eliminate or minimise risks.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment, technology, software and consumables required to access information on WHS laws
- WHS laws, and organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems required to demonstrate the performance evidence

BSBWHS415 Contribute to implementing WHS management systems

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to implementing a plan for a work health and safety management system (WHSMS) that applies to own role.

The unit applies to individuals with responsibilities for contributing to the implementation of an organisation's WHSMS as part of their work health and safety (WHS) responsibilities in a range of industry and workplace contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.
3. For the purposes of this unit of competency 'safe systems of work' refers to a formal procedure that results from systematic examination of a task in order to identify all the hazards. It defines safe methods to ensure that hazards are eliminated or, where this is not possible, risks are minimised.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS416 Contribute to workplace incident response

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with actions and activities performed in response to workplace incidents according to work health and safety (WHS) legislative and organisational requirements.

The unit applies to those who contribute to workplace incident responses by undertaking a varied range of activities in a structured and familiar work environment as defined in written procedures. It applies to people who work in a broad range of WHS roles across all industries.

NOTES

1. The terms 'incident' and 'accident' are equivalent. Specific state/territory legislation may use one or the other. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, RTOs are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to the existing state/territory OHS legislative requirements and industry-specific legislative variances.
2. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
3. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS416 Contribute to workplace incident response

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- contribute to responding to at least two different workplace incidents according to work health and safety (WHS) legislative and organisational requirements.

During the above, the candidate must:

- identify duty holders relevant to incident response
- contribute to:
 - communicating WHS requirements clearly and accurately to individuals and/or parties involved
 - reporting each incident according to WHS legislative and organisational requirements
 - obtaining information about each incident using appropriate data-collection techniques
 - developing and contributing to implementing required actions in response to each incident
 - investigating incident
 - communicating and implementing recommendations from investigation.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- WHS laws about investigating and reporting workplace incidents
- sources of internal and external WHS information and data relating to incidents, and procedures for accessing them
- organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems relevant to own role or work area that relate to incident response and investigation, including those for:

- recording information relating to workplace incident responses
- reporting information to external authorities
- implementing improvements to policies, procedures, processes and systems as a result of an incident
- communication strategies to facilitate engagement of individuals and/or parties in incident response
- roles and responsibilities of self and duty holders in responding to workplace incidents.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- organisational policies, standard operating procedures, procedures and plans required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- WHS legislation, licensing requirements and standards required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- WHS data required to contribute to incident response
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- workplace equipment and resources
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS417 Assist with managing WHS implications of return to work

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with managing the WHS implications of activities that facilitate an injured worker's return to work. It involves identifying those with roles, duties, rights and responsibilities for return to-work, as well as assisting in preparing, implementing and evaluating the return to work.

The unit applies to those in an organisation who assist with the WHS implications of return-to-work activities. In many organisations, this role will be performed alongside others from within the organisation or external parties, including those working in human resources, workers' compensation, workplace rehabilitation, other professional and administrative capacities, and other roles relating to return to work.

NOTES

1. The unit does not in any way address the process of treating workers for their injury or illness, which is the task of health and medical professionals.
2. Workers' compensation legislation and associated duties will differ between jurisdictions. RTOs are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to the requirements of existing state/territory workers' compensation legislation.
3. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
4. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS418 Assist with managing WHS compliance of contractors

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to assist with managing the work health and safety (WHS) implications of using contractors. It involves identifying contractor duties, establishing organisational WHS compliance requirements associated with those duties, establishing and communicating the requirements expected of contractors, monitoring contractor compliance with WHS requirements, and implementing required responses to identified non-compliance.

The unit applies to those who work in a broad range of WHS roles across all industries in organisations that use contractors to supply services, including labour hire and temporary workers, cleaning, catering, security, maintenance, repairs, installations and alterations, and major contracts and projects, as relevant to the organisation. This includes casual and volunteer workers. It does not cover visitors, or outworkers or suppliers of goods, materials or products to workplaces.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to monitoring a range of physical agents and conditions relating to work health and safety (WHS) in the workplace. It involves the use of a range of measuring devices to collect, interpret and report on workplace information and data in relation to those physical agents and conditions.

The unit applies to those working in a broad range of WHS roles across all industries.

The unit does not extend to hazard identification, risk assessment or developing risk controls based on the outcomes of monitoring, which are covered in BSBWHS414 Contribute to WHS risk management.

This unit does not qualify individuals to perform duties as a registered officer under any legislation.

NOTES

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- contribute to monitoring at least three different physical agents or conditions relating to work health and safety (WHS) typically found in the workplace.

During each of these occasions, the candidate must:

- identify regulatory requirements and standards that apply to monitoring physical agents and/or conditions relevant to WHS
- identify context of measurements to be undertaken, including:
 - physical agents and/or conditions to be measured and their characteristics
 - where measurements will be taken
 - area or space available
 - movements of people and equipment, tasks or activities being undertaken, number of persons occupying area, and other factors that may impact on the sampling or data-collection processes and the health and safety of self and others
 - physical features of equipment, such as emitting sources
- prepare and collect WHS data and information
- consult and communicate with individuals and parties regarding monitoring process
- seek expert advice, support and equipment as required.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- internal and external sources of WHS information and data
- typical physical agents and/or conditions relevant to WHS, including:

- biological agents, such as insects, mites and bacteria
- electricity
- fibres, dusts and particulates
- fumes, mists, gases and vapours
- heat and humidity
- light
- noise
- radiation, including ionising, non-ionising and laser
- vibration
- aspects of WHS laws and standards relevant to using testing equipment and measuring physical agents and/or conditions and how they apply to the organisation
- mode of action of common physical agents and/or conditions on the body and how they produce discomfort and harm
- characteristics, modes of action and units of measurement for major physical agents and/or conditions
- environmental conditions that impact on measurements
- types of measuring and monitoring equipment and techniques for correct and safe use, including limitations on use and output, adjustment, maintenance and any in-built alarms
- personal communication strategies to facilitate engagement with workplace parties and individuals
- organisational policies and procedures for:
 - identifying physical agent and/or condition to be measured
 - determining sampling process and defining a plan
 - checking operability of equipment to ensure it meets organisational and work activity requirements
 - maintaining own health and safety and that of others present during process described in the performance evidence
 - reinstating equipment to pre-use condition, including for dismantling and cleaning equipment and parts
 - storing and re-using equipment
 - retaining results and records.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- measuring devices and equipment
- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, licensing requirements and standards required to demonstrate the performance evidence

- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS431 Develop processes and procedures for controlling hazardous chemicals in the workplace

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to develop processes and procedures for controlling hazardous chemicals in the workplace, and then monitoring their effectiveness. The unit requires the application of knowledge associated with work health and safety (WHS) legislation, and organisational policies and procedures relating to controlling hazardous chemicals.

The unit applies to those who work under supervision and use some discretion and judgement to respond to monitoring hazardous chemicals in the workplace. It applies to hazardous chemicals with the potential to harm human health, which may be solids, liquids or gases – pure substances or mixtures. When used in the workplace these substances often generate vapours, fumes, dusts and/or mists.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.
3. For the purposes of this unit of competency ‘safe systems of work’ refers to a formal procedure that results from systematic examination of a task in order to identify all the hazards. It defines safe methods to ensure that hazards are eliminated or, where this is not possible, risks are minimised.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- on at least two different occasions, develop processes and procedures to control hazardous chemicals in the workplace.

During each of these occasions, the candidate must:

- identify hazardous chemicals in the workplace through inspections and consultation with required personnel
- monitor and report on implementation of control processes and procedures
- communicate requirements and compliance associated with hazardous chemicals in the workplace
- comply with work health and safety (WHS) requirements for hazardous chemical monitoring
- implement training and development opportunities to address non-compliance
- identify WHS duty holders and their duties, and seek specialist advice as required.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- range of common workplace hazardous chemicals and the origin and nature of associated harm
- requirements for controlling hazardous chemicals as specified in:
 - relevant WHS laws, licences and permit conditions
 - organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems

- documentation about the safe use, handling, processing, storage, transportation, and disposal of hazardous chemicals in the workplace, including safety data sheets (SDSs)
- risk control processes and procedures, including:
 - identifying hazards and assessing risks
 - responding to incidents involving hazardous chemicals
- organisational policies and procedures for:
 - accessing internal and external sources of WHS information and data
 - recording outcomes of monitoring process and distributing to required personnel according to workplace policies and procedures
- key features and components of controls for hazardous chemicals in the workplace, including:
 - workplace register for hazardous chemicals
 - labelling of hazardous chemicals
 - workplace signposting
 - current and complete SDSs for hazardous chemicals in the workplace
 - risk controls in line with the hierarchy of control measures
 - safe work practices that eliminate, or where this is not possible, minimise risks
- emerging issues about hazardous chemicals and identifying potential risks from exposure to hazardous chemicals
- hierarchy of control measures suited to identified hazardous chemicals
- training and development procedures and protocols.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, standards and guidelines required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS504 Manage WHS risks

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct work health and safety (WHS) risk management processes.

It applies to individuals who manage WHS risks, based on the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS), WHS information system (WHSIS) and risk-management approach (as covered in BSBWHS503 Contribute to the systematic management of WHS risk). These individuals will work in a range of WHS roles across all industries and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS504 Manage WHS risks

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- access information and data on hazards and how to manage associated risks
- identify duty holders and legislative requirements for work health and safety (WHS) risk management
- use the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS) and WHS information system (WHSIS) to conduct the following risk management processes:
 - identify hazards and potential hazards
 - assess the associated risks
 - identify control options
 - select suitable options
 - develop and implement a risk control plan
 - evaluate risk controls
- carry out hazard identification and risk management.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- describe the basic principles of workplace incident, injury and disease causation
- explain the meanings of 'hazard' and 'risk' and how they differ
- identify formal and informal communication and consultation processes and key personnel related to communication
- describe how the characteristics and composition of the workforce impact on WHS risk and the management of WHS, including:
 - communication skills
 - cultural background and diversity

- gender
- labour market changes
- language, literacy and numeracy levels of the workforce
- structure and organisation of the workforce, including part-time, casual and contract workers; shift rosters and geographical location
- workers with specific needs and limitations
- workplace culture in relation to alcohol and other drug use
- identify internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them
- explain the limitations of generic hazard identification and risk assessment checklists and risk ranking processes
- outline methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS legislation
- describe the nature of workplace processes (work flow, planning and control) and hazards relevant to the workplace
- describe organisational culture as it impacts on the work team
- summarise organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- list other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- outline the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- outline Commonwealth and state or territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidance material and other publications relevant to the organisation
- outline risk management as a duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings or officers under WHS legislation
- describe the roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS legislation
- outline standard industry controls for a range of hazards
- identify techniques, tools and processes for identifying health and safety hazards and assessing and controlling the associated risks, including:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk-throughs.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- workplace policies and procedures
- office equipment and resources
- relevant Acts, regulations, codes of practice, standards and guidelines relating to risks found in the workplace

- case studies and, where possible, real situations.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS512 Contribute to managing work-related psychological health and safety

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to managing work-related psychological health and safety. It requires the ability to identify psychosocial hazards, assess their risk, and implement control methods for psychosocial hazards that apply in the workplace.

The unit applies to those with work health and safety (WHS) supervisory responsibilities who work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia (SWA) for further information.
3. Safe Work Australia national guidance material refers to ‘psychosocial hazards or factors’ as ‘anything in the design or management of work that increases the risk of work-related stress’ and states that ‘work-related stress if prolonged and/or severe can cause both psychological and physical injury’. (SWA, Work-related psychological health and safety: A systematic approach to meeting your duties)

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS512 Contribute to managing work-related psychological health and safety

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- contribute to managing at least two different work-related psychological health and safety issues.

During the above, the candidate must:

- identify legislative requirements and workplace responsibilities
- collect, document and analyse relevant information and data to assist with identifying work-related psychosocial hazards according to organisational policies and procedures, including those relating to privacy and confidentiality
- identify potential work-related psychosocial hazards, with input from others, and document them in a risk register
- record at least two psychosocial risk assessments
- determine options for addressing identified work-related psychosocial hazards or minimising the risk
- evaluate effectiveness of existing risk controls and document areas for their improvement, identifying when a review of risk controls is needed.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to work-related psychological health and safety:
 - duty of care
 - due diligence
 - privacy and confidentiality

- organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems relating to work-related psychological health and safety:
 - collecting, documenting and analysing information and data relevant to work-related psychosocial hazards
 - communicating control methods for work-related psychosocial hazards
 - personal protective equipment (PPE) requirements
 - reporting procedures
 - recordkeeping procedures and prescribed period for keeping records
 - privacy and confidentiality
- techniques and procedures for identifying common work-related psychosocial hazards and factors contributing to them:
 - level of job demands, job control, support, workplace relationships, role clarity, recognition and reward, organisational change management, organisational justice, and environmental conditions
 - remote work and isolated work
 - violent and traumatic events, including secondary and vicarious trauma
- internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and procedures for accessing them
- key personnel who contribute to managing work-related psychological health and safety
- common work-related psychological health and safety controls
- elements of a WHS management system that relate to work-related psychological health and safety
- methods of collecting valid and reliable work-related psychological health and safety information
- roles and responsibilities of WHS personnel
- WHS information needs of individuals and/or parties.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS513 Lead WHS risk management

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to lead the management of work health and safety (WHS) risks in an organisation. The unit includes facilitating the identification of hazards and potential hazards, leading the assessment of associated risks, selecting and implementing suitable risk controls, and evaluating the overall effectiveness of the organisational WHS risk management process. It involves communicating with stakeholders throughout the process.

The unit applies to those in an organisation who provide specialised knowledge and guidance to a range of personnel when leading the management of WHS risks.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- plan, implement and evaluate a systematic process for managing work health and safety (WHS) risk in a work area.

During the above, the candidate must:

- identify, interpret and apply information from a range of sources, including organisational and legislative requirements
- review WHS risk-management process according to established scope and key performance indicators
- consult effectively with required stakeholders using appropriate interpersonal communication skills.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- commonwealth and state/territory WHS laws relating to WHS risk management, including WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and standards
- WHS information and data that applies to WHS risk-management process, including:
 - organisational and duty holder legal requirements
 - organisational policies and procedures relating to identifying hazards, assessing risks and implementing risk controls
 - key components of the work health and safety management system (WHSMS)
- internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and procedures for accessing them

- organisational behaviour and culture in relation to WHS risk management activities and their impact on WHS and the work team, including organisation's risk appetite
- key components of effective consultation and participation strategies
- tools and techniques to:
 - identify health and safety hazards
 - assess risks, taking into account nature and impact of risk, and likelihood of risk arising
 - identify and select suitable risk controls
 - facilitate effective communication and consultation processes, and identify key personnel related to communication
- application and limitations of techniques and tools for identifying hazards, and analysing and assessing risks
- hierarchy of control measures:
 - its use in establishing level of risk
 - factors limiting effectiveness of types of controls
 - role and limitations of procedural controls
 - use of personal protective equipment
- other functional areas in the organisation that impact on the management of WHS-related risks
- impact of workforce characteristics and composition on WHS risk and its management, including:
 - cultural background/diversity
 - gender
 - labour market changes
 - levels of language, literacy and numeracy skills in the workforce
 - workforce structure and organisation, including part-time, casual and contract workers, shift rosters and geographical location
 - workers with specific support needs and limitations
 - workplace cultural attitudes towards alcohol and other drug use
- principles of decision-making.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS514 Manage WHS compliance of contractors

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to lead and coordinate organisational arrangements for managing the work health and safety (WHS) compliance of contractors. It involves determining the WHS legislative and organisational requirements applicable to contractors, and managing compliance of contractors.

The unit applies to those in managerial positions overseeing functions within organisations across all industries that are supplied with services by contractors, including labour hire and temporary workers, cleaning, catering, security, maintenance, repairs, installations and alterations, and major contracts and projects, as relevant to the organisation. This includes casual and volunteer workers. It does not cover visitors, or outworkers or suppliers of goods, materials or products to workplaces.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to lead the initial response to work health and safety (WHS) incidents. The unit also includes planning, conducting and reporting on investigations of WHS incidents that have resulted in, or have the potential to result in, injury or damage. This may include accessing specialist expertise.

The unit applies to those who work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts. It does not apply to those undertaking an investigation in order to provide legal advice or prepare for legal proceedings.

NOTES

BSBWHS516 Contribute to developing, implementing and maintaining an organisation's WHS management system

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to the development, implementation and maintenance of elements of a work health and safety management system (WHSMS). WHSMSs support organisations in systematically managing work health and safety (WHS) in the workplace. WHSMSs consist of a documented set of plans, actions and procedures that target improvements.

The unit applies to those with organisational responsibilities for contributing to tasks in relation to elements of a WHSMS appropriate to the nature and scale of the organisation and its WHS risks. These people will have supervisory responsibilities, work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTES

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- contribute to developing, implementing, reviewing and improving a work health and safety management system (WHSMS) for an organisation.

During the above, the candidate must:

- communicate and explain the WHSMS and associated implementation plan to others to facilitate their contribution and ensure their commitment to the system
- apply effective consultation and communications processes and protocols
- use suitable and sufficient tools to measure and evaluate WHSMS performance.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- commonwealth and state/territory WHS laws, guidance material and publications relating to developing and implementing WHSMS
- organisational requirements for WHSMS:
 - commitment from line management and supervisors to provide leadership in WHS and prioritise WHS as part of operational planning and activity
 - compliance with required policies, procedures, processes, and tools
 - requirements for recordkeeping that address WHS, privacy and other relevant legislation
- elements of effective WHSMS with reference to required commonwealth and state/territory WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and standards, including:
 - policies and procedures

- WHSMS certification standards
- duty holders and their responsibilities
- consultation and communication arrangements
- required training and induction
- WHS risk assessment, including risk controls
- sources of information to determine required form, content, purposes and functions of WHSMS to be developed and implemented
- key components of WHSMS plan:
 - required resources to implement plan within set timeframes
 - management roles and responsibilities in supporting WHSMS implementation and operation
 - roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties under WHS laws
 - procedures, protocols and tools for measuring WHS performance, including WHS-related lead and lag key performance indicators (KPIs)
- barriers to implementing WHSMS, and strategies to address them
- benefits to an organisation of having a WHSMS, and an integrated return-to-work and injury management program
- instruments issued by WHS regulators and how they apply to the organisation
- duties, rights and obligations of individuals and parties under WHS laws.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

BSBWHS517 Contribute to managing a WHS information system

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to contribute to managing a work health and safety information system (WHSIS) that supports the effective management of WHS. It involves accessing, collecting and analysing WHS information and data; evaluating the effectiveness of the WHSIS and contributing to improving the management of WHS; and communicating the change.

The unit applies to those who contribute to managing a WHSIS. These people work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts. Individuals will apply skills and knowledge to enable them to manage information and data management processes, including analysis of the data. They are not required to design the actual information system or process.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS517 Contribute to managing a WHS information system

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- collect, analyse, record and store a set of work health and safety (WHS) information and data
- provide advice and support on operation of a WHS information system (WHSIS) to at least three different system users, and action their identified training needs within scope of own role
- use the WHSIS to generate at least one report to an external body within required timeframes
- contribute to identifying and implementing an improvement measure for a WHSIS based on analysis of information and data, and communicate measures to required personnel according to WHS legislative and organisational requirements.

During the above, the candidate must:

- follow WHS legislative requirements and organisational policies and procedures
- consult with, advise and support system users.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- WHS information and data relevant to organisation and its needs (which is a function of the size and nature of the organisation), and to specific hazards in the workplace
- commonwealth and state/territory WHS legislative requirements relating to:
 - roles and responsibilities of individuals and parties in relation to WHSIS
 - consultation
 - collecting, recording and storing WHS information and data

- privacy and confidentiality
- legislative and organisational requirements of a WHSIS:
 - duty holders and roles
 - WHS information for effective WHS management
 - functions and purposes
 - user needs
 - workplace-specific factors
 - internal and external sources of WHS information and data
- nature of information and data that provides valid and reliable measures of performance of WHS management processes and their limitations
- organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems, including:
 - accessing, collecting, analysing and recording WHS information and data
 - storing, retrieving and retaining WHS information and data
 - external reporting requirements
- security, privacy and confidentiality requirements relating to accessing, collecting and storing WHS information and data
- requirements for reporting under WHS and other relevant legislation, including obligations for notification and reporting of incidents
- methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS laws
- tools and techniques for:
 - collecting accurate, current and relevant WHS information and data
 - reviewing effectiveness of WHSIS
- systems for accessing, storing and retrieving WHS information and data
- communication strategies for facilitating engagement of system users
- user training arrangements.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- reports and sample software for WHS information and data collation and analysis
- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS518 Manage WHS hazards associated with maintenance and use of plant

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to effectively manage work health and safety (WHS) hazards and to comply with WHS laws, as they apply to the management or control of items of plant being maintained and used in a workplace. It requires strong communication skills and systematic approaches to identify and resolve WHS issues associated with plant.

The unit applies to those who provide guidance to others in the workplace in managing WHS hazards associated with plant. The unit does not apply to the design, manufacture, supply, installation, construction or commissioning of plant or issuing of licences associated with plant.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- develop and implement work health and safety (WHS) related risk controls for at least two different items of plant according to the hierarchy of control measures, WHS legislative requirements and organisational policies and procedures
- identify and manage licensing and training requirements associated with at least two different items of plant.

During the above, the candidate must:

- manage effective identification of hazards
- communicate, according to established protocols, to:
 - advise relevant personnel of their rights, obligations, and duties in relation to hazards and risk controls associated with plant
 - seek specialist advice as required.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- key features of WHS Acts, regulations, codes of practice and other instruments issued by WHS regulators relating to managing WHS hazards associated with plant, including role and duty of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs)
- organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems relating to hazard management process, including:
 - identifying and accessing internal and external sources of WHS information and data
 - inspecting plant and its use
 - consulting with internal and external personnel

- recording and reporting identified WHS hazards
- recording and reporting risk assessment outcomes and risk controls
- developing risk controls and monitoring the effectiveness of their implementation
- documenting registration, licensing and certification requirements
- monitoring and reporting compliance with regulatory requirements for registration, licensing and certification
- basic principles of incident causation and injury processes relating to plant
- differences between a hazard and a risk
- factors that impact on risk
- hierarchy of control measures and its use in choosing between different risk controls
- strategies for identifying risk controls and monitoring their effectiveness, including:
 - workplace inspections
 - robotic and technological processes, and their potential risks and limitations
 - review of adequacy of plant operating procedures
- high-risk work licences required for specific plant
- methods for providing evidence of compliance with WHS laws
- plant-specific knowledge:
 - basic physics of fluids under pressure and pressure vessels, and behaviour of pressurised fluid when pressure is released
 - hazards associated with plant
 - systems of work associated with plant
 - industry practices related to permit to work, and isolation and tag-out systems
 - registration requirements of plant, licensing and certification competencies
- risk controls relating to operation of plant, including:
 - strategies for guarding moving parts in machinery
 - access and egress
 - dangerous parts
 - emergency stops and warning devices
- WHS-related training requirements for plant operators relating to:
 - items of new plant
 - new or changed systems of work associated with plant.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

BSBWHS519 Lead the development and use of WHS risk management tools

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to lead the development and use of work health and safety (WHS) risk management tools.

The unit applies to those responsible for managing hazards in the workplace whose role requires them to provide leadership in WHS risk management.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.
3. WHS risk management tools are used in the four steps identified by the Safe Work Australia model code of practice, How to manage work health and safety risks – identify hazards, assess risks, control risks and review control measures.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS520 Manage implementation of emergency procedures

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to implement initial response procedures for emergencies. Its focus is on the implementation of procedures already developed for short-term emergency responses. It assumes that expert advice will be available in identifying potential emergencies and in formulating response plans.

The unit applies to those with supervisory responsibilities for managing work health and safety (WHS) in the workplace who contribute to the implementation of procedures for responding to emergencies. These people work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. - commonwealth and state/territory work health and safety (WHS) legislation and how it applies to managing the implementation of initial response procedures
- organisational and workplace WHS policies and procedures relating to initial response, including:
 - identifying and reporting emergencies
 - categorising major types of potential emergencies
 - essential communication and actions in an emergency
 - reporting on response to emergency
- internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and procedures for accessing them
- organisational structure, roles and responsibilities of WHS personnel managing the implementation of initial response procedures

- workplace emergency response equipment, including:
 - emergency alerting systems
 - emergency protection systems
 - smoke alarms, fire alarms and fire extinguishers
 - required safety wear
 - security systems
- nature of work, work site and hazards that may result in an emergency situation
- hazards arising and precautions to be taken during emergency response
- information needs of emergency response personnel during reporting, arrival and response to an emergency
- principles and priorities of fire protection and emergency response applicable to performance evidence
- accepted industry practice when responding to workplace emergencies.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace equipment and resources
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS521 Ensure a safe workplace for a work area

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to establish, maintain and evaluate an organisation's work health and safety (WHS) policies, procedures and programs in a work area to ensure a safe workplace, according to WHS legislative requirements. It takes a systems approach and addresses compliance with relevant legislative requirements.

The unit applies to those working in a range of contexts who have, or are likely to have, responsibility for WHS as part of their broader management role. It is relevant for people with obligations under WHS laws, for example persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers, as defined by WHS laws.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS522 Manage WHS consultation and participation processes

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to manage the identification, review, development, implementation and evaluation of consultation and participation processes as an integral part of managing work health and safety (WHS).

The unit applies to those responsible for facilitating consultation about and participation in WHS management and decision-making across the organisation. These people work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

BSBWHS531 Implement and evaluate system of work for managing hazardous chemicals

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to implement a system of work for managing the use, handling, processing, storage, transportation and disposal of hazardous chemicals in the workplace; and to verify and validate the effectiveness of that system and the control methods in place against safety data sheet (SDS) requirements. The unit includes the application of the hierarchy of control measures, and applicable legislative requirements and licensing conditions imposed on the workplace in managing these hazardous chemicals.

The unit applies to those accountable for ensuring that a system of work is in place for managing hazardous chemicals in a specified work area. The system of work to be implemented protects all those potentially at risk in the workplace from exposure to hazardous chemicals, including internal and external personnel.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

Assessment Requirements for BSBWHS603 Implement WHS risk management

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- manage effective work health and safety (WHS) risk management consultation and participation processes including:
 - identifying those who need to be involved
 - reviewing and improving existing processes
 - ensuring processes are appropriate to the organisation and WHS risks
- arrange for necessary resources during WHS risk management, including:
 - identifying and budgeting for requirements
 - procuring resources and ensuring availability
- review and improve existing WHS risk management processes, including:
 - using workplace information and data
 - consulting with individuals and parties
 - considering effectiveness, current risk controls, lessons learnt from events, changes in the internal and external contexts, emerging risks and performance against indicators
- develop a WHS risk management framework including:
 - using suitable sources of information and data to determine the purposes, objectives, principles and structure
- establish the context for WHS risk management including:
 - identifying duty holders, legislative requirements, impacting individuals, parties and factors
 - defining risk criteria
- assess risks including:
 - identifying hazards
 - undertaking risk analysis and evaluation
 - addressing requirements of WHS legislation, WHS risk assessment and workplace WHS information and data
- control risks including:

- selecting from control options according to outcomes of risk assessment, WHS hazards and risk controls, and WHS legislation
- preparing and implementing risk control measures
- monitor and review the WHS risk management process according to the organisation's WHS management system (WHSMS) requirements
- record the WHS risk management process according to the organisation's WHS information system (WHSIS) requirements.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain different definitions of hazard and risk and how they are used by different individuals and parties
- outline internal and external sources of WHS information and data and how to access them
- identify organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems
- identify other functional areas that impact on the management of WHS
- describe the principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- describe the principles of duty of care, including concepts of causation, foreseeability and preventability
- describe the principles of incident causation and injury processes
- list a range of risk analysis and assessment techniques and tools and their application and limitations
- outline relevant and applicable Australian legislation, standards and publications
- define risk as the effect of uncertainty on objectives
- define risk management as a duty of persons conducting businesses or undertakings (PCBUs) or officers under WHS legislation
- give examples of standard industry risk controls for a range of hazards
- outline techniques, tools and processes for identifying health and safety hazards and controlling risks:
 - hazard and risk checklists
 - hazard hunts
 - job safety analyses
 - manifests and registers, including for dangerous goods, hazardous chemicals and plant
 - safe work method statements
 - surveys using questionnaires, interviews and other survey techniques
 - workplace inspections and walk-throughs
- describe toxicology of hazardous chemicals and potential health effects in the workplace.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced by individuals carrying out work health and safety duties in the workplace and include access to:

- office equipment and resources
- relevant WHS legislation, standards and guidelines
- workplace policies and procedures
- reports from other parties consulted during the approach to WHS risk management
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- interaction with others.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

BSBWHS605 Develop, implement and maintain WHS management systems

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 1.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to develop, implement and maintain a Work Health and Safety management system (WHSMS) or parts of a WHSMS.

It applies to individuals with organisational responsibilities and who have advanced practical knowledge required to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program in an organisation.

NOTE: The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

BSBWHS611 Develop and implement strategies that support work-related psychological health and safety

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to develop, implement and evaluate strategies that support work-related psychological health and safety and the control of work-related psychosocial hazards.

The unit applies to those who are in a position to apply the principles of work-related psychological health and safety risk management to develop appropriate strategies in their organisation. These people work in a range of WHS roles across all industries, and apply a substantial knowledge base and well-developed skills in a wide variety of WHS contexts.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia (SWA) for further information.
3. Safe Work Australia national guidance material refers to ‘psychosocial hazards or factors’ as ‘anything in the design or management of work that increases the risk of work-related stress’ and states that ‘work-related stress if prolonged and/or severe can cause both psychological and physical injury’. (SWA, Work-related psychological health and safety: A systematic approach to meeting your duties)

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- develop and implement an organisational strategy to support work-related psychological health and safety
- evaluate effectiveness of the implemented strategy.

During the above, the candidate must:

- provide information to stakeholders about how to implement strategy and its associated procedures, using effective communication methods
- store records and information according to required privacy and confidentiality protocols.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- commonwealth and state/territory WHS laws and other relevant publications and guidelines relating to information and data, consultation, participation and work-related psychological health and safety, including:
- Safe Work Australia national guidance material Work-related psychological health and safety: A systematic approach to meeting your duties
- workplace factors that support or detract from work-related psychological health and safety
- features of strategies that support work-related psychological health and safety, including:
 - organisational systems and protocols for managing risk and providing information to relevant stakeholders about how to report work-related psychological health and safety concerns

- organisational systems and protocols for reporting and communicating intervention strategies
- procedures for reporting work-related psychological health and safety incidents and complaints
- procedures for supporting individuals and/or parties impacted by work-related psychological health and safety, including referring to appropriate resources
- methods for providing individuals with information and resources for managing own work-related psychological health and safety
- communication and consultation processes that promote work-related psychological health and safety
- resources required to support strategy implementation, including supportive technology
- organisational information, data and procedures that support implementation of work-related psychological health and safety strategies
- processes and procedures for evaluating effectiveness of implemented work-related psychological health and safety strategies
- internal and external sources of information and data about work-related psychosocial hazards and risks, and how to access them
- requirements for recordkeeping that use and store personal information according to privacy and confidentiality laws, and organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems
- work-related psychological health and safety duties of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs), officers and workers in relation to WHS risks.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- organisational documentation, information and data
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS612 Develop and implement a strategy to support a positive WHS culture

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to support the development of a strategy that embeds and promotes a just work health and safety (WHS) culture in a workplace. It includes facilitating workforce commitment to implementation and continuous improvement of the strategy, specifically from those in leadership positions. It also involves supporting organisational learning and development to strengthen the WHS culture in the workplace.

The unit applies to those responsible for directly supporting the development of workplace WHS culture.

NOTES

1. For the purposes of this unit of competency 'WHS culture' is defined as the shared values, attitudes, perceptions, competencies and patterns of behaviour that determine the commitment to, and the style and proficiency of, an organisation's health and safety management. Organisations with a just WHS culture are characterised by communications founded on mutual trust, by shared perceptions of the importance of safety, and by confidence in the efficacy of preventive measures.
2. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
3. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to WHS culture, including privacy and confidentiality considerations of WHS records and information
- internal and external sources of information relating to theories, programs and policies about WHS culture
- organisational policies and procedures for:
 - assessing information about the current WHS culture in the organisation
 - developing key performance indicators relating to WHS culture
 - evaluating implementation of strategy and documenting outcomes of evaluation
 - using feedback tools and obtaining feedback
 - establishing and supporting workforce learning and development needs

- key features of a positive WHS culture
- key features of good-practice strategies for creating a positive WHS culture
- communication and consultation processes relating to creating a positive WHS culture and strategy implementation
- workforce factors impacting on WHS culture, including:
 - workforce language, literacy and cultural profiles
 - organisational behaviour
 - leadership attitudes and behaviour
- roles and responsibilities of personnel involved in developing, implementing and promoting a strategy for WHS culture.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- WHS laws relating to WHS culture
- organisational documentation, information and data relating to strategy developed for the performance evidence
- real situations and, where possible, case studies
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS613 Evaluate the WHS performance of an organisation

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to evaluate the effectiveness of an organisation's work health and safety (WHS) performance, including its hazard identification and WHS risk management arrangements, its processes for monitoring performance, and the outcomes of its WHS management arrangements. It also incorporates assessing and advising on compliance with established benchmarks and required legislation.

The unit applies to those who apply advanced practical knowledge to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program in an organisation.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.

2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative, or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- evaluate and report on the effectiveness of the work health and safety (WHS) performance of at least one organisation.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- WHS laws, guidance material and links to other legislation relevant to organisation's WHS performance, including:
 - hazard-specific WHS laws
 - requirements for recordkeeping
 - requirements for reporting, including obligations for notification and reporting of incidents
 - WHS information and data
 - WHS consultation and participation
 - roles of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers under WHS laws
- organisational WHS policies, procedures, processes and systems, including those for:
 - developing WHS performance assessment tools, including positive performance indicators (PPIs)
 - formal and informal communication and consultation processes
 - collecting information and data
 - providing evidence of compliance with WHS laws
 - recordkeeping
- legal liability in relation to providing advice

- nature and use of information and data that provide valid and reliable results about performance of WHS risk-management processes and PPIs, and limitations of other types of measures
- nature of workplace processes (workflow, planning and control) and WHS hazards relevant to workplace
- principles and practices of a systematic approach to managing WHS
- roles and responsibilities in relation to communication and consultation
- sampling methodologies and applications and related statistical measures
- methodologies for identifying and representing trends in performance data
- standard industry risk controls for a range of WHS hazards
- techniques, tools and processes for identifying WHS hazards and controlling associated risks, and their limitations.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- workplace strategic and operational plans, policies and procedures
- WHS information and data

BSBWHS614 Conduct a WHS audit under the guidance of a lead auditor

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct a work health and safety (WHS) audit in a work area to establish if an organisation is implementing planned arrangements for managing WHS risks. It involves systematic examination against audit criteria to determine compliance against identified benchmark criteria.

The unit applies to those required to conduct a WHS audit under the guidance of a lead auditor. The WHS audit may be conducted by an individual or by a team, and may be concurrent with other management system audits or conducted as a standalone exercise.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- prepare for and conduct one work health and safety (WHS) audit under the guidance of a lead auditor.

During the above, the candidate must:

- outline purpose, scope and objectives of audit in a preliminary meeting
- develop and implement a WHS audit plan suited to the work area, which reflects nature and scope of required audit
- select, develop, trial and modify WHS audit tools suited to audit and work area
- gather information, data and WHS records, consulting required range of workplace personnel
- report on WHS audit outcomes
- make recommendations in areas where improvements are identified
- work effectively under the guidance of a lead auditor.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- WHS legislative responsibilities, duties and obligations of managers, supervisors, workers and persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers
- WHS legislative requirements regarding:
 - communication, consultation and participation processes in a WHS audit
 - notification of incidents
 - audit recordkeeping
 - hazard identification and risk assessment methods

- procedures for identifying WHS audit tools and assessing their suitability
- nature and use of information and data that provide valid and reliable results about performance of WHS risk-management processes and positive performance indicators, and limitations of other types of measures
- key components of a WHS audit plan, including:
 - nature of information and data to be collected
 - key audit personnel
 - information and data collection strategies that ensure security, confidentiality, impartiality and equity
 - process that includes opportunities for corroborating performance evidence collected
- principles and practices of WHS audit, including:
 - reflecting understanding of nature of workplace, work processes, and hazards and controls relevant to workplace
 - methods for collecting reliable WHS information and data
 - methods for interviewing those subject to audit, including arrangements to validate audit findings
 - strategies for addressing commonly encountered problems in collection, and adapting to contingencies as they arise to meet WHS legislative and audit outcome requirements
 - methods for collecting evidence of compliance with WHS laws
 - consulting with required personnel, including lead auditor
- key components of audit findings, including:
 - recommendations
 - non-compliances, uncontrolled hazards and associated risks
 - objective evidence and rationale
- procedures for developing and using benchmark criteria during WHS audit, including positive performance indicators (PPIs)
- features of good-practice WHS audit tools
- internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and procedures for accessing them
- requirements for recordkeeping that address WHS, privacy, confidentiality and other legislative requirements
- roles and responsibilities of internal and external personnel as they apply to WHS audit
- legal liability in relation to providing WHS audit advice
- role of lead auditor and own relationship to lead auditor.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- lead auditor

- organisational documentation, information and data required for WHS audits
- WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS616 Apply safe design principles to control WHS risks

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to apply safe design principles to control work health and safety (WHS) risks in a product's life cycle. It involves engaging at different points of the supply chain to provide advice based on safe design principles. The central feature of safe design is the application of relevant information and data about human experience, capabilities and behaviour to the design of objects, facilities, procedures and environments that people use.

The unit applies to those who apply the principles of safe design in their organisation, which may be at one or more stages of the product's life cycle, including procurement, installation, operation and disposal. Products may refer to plant, tools and equipment. The application of safe design principles aims to eliminate or minimise hazards and their associated risks before an existing product, or a product being developed or modified, is introduced into the workplace.

NOTES

1. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. For the purposes of this unit of competency 'safe design' refers to a process defined as the integration of hazard identification and risk assessment methods to eliminate or minimise the risk of injury throughout the life cycle of plant, tool or equipment being designed.
3. For the purposes of this unit of competency a 'product' refers to any plant, tool or equipment.
4. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- apply safe design principles to control work health and safety (WHS) risks that may occur throughout the life cycle of at least two different products.

During the above, the candidate must:

- provide advice based on WHS legislative requirements and safe design principles in relation to:
 - developing a systematic WHS risk-management approach to safe design
 - consultation processes relating to safe design in a product's life cycle
 - procurement systems to minimise 'purchased' WHS hazards and their associated risks.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- commonwealth and state/territory WHS laws, publications and guidelines relating to consultation, participation and safe design, including:
 - Safe Work Australia codes of practice and guidance information that relate to safe design
 - requirements for managing WHS risks and implementing controls at each life-cycle stage of a product
 - requirements relating to consultation processes
 - legislative duties of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers who are designers or are responsible for safe design processes
- factors involved in selecting WHS risk controls for product design, including:

- ensuring that level and reliability of risk control is commensurate with likelihood and impact of risk
- impact on safety of alterations to product during its life
- minimising impact of possible failure or defect by ensuring controls include fail-safe action
- WHS principles, materials, technology and systems that apply to product design
- internal and external sources of WHS information and data, and procedures for accessing them
- human cognitive and perceptual capabilities and other basic factors relevant to the safe design of products in the performance evidence
- factors affecting safe design, including work-related psychosocial factors, occupational violence, shift work, repetitive work, awkward postures, lighting, thermal environment and work layout
- principles of anthropometry and biomechanics as they relate to safe design principles to control WHS risks
- communication and consultation processes, and key personnel related to communication
- hierarchy of control measures and criteria for choosing between different WHS risk controls
- key personnel, including change agents, within workplace management structure
- legal liability in relation to providing advice
- organisational behaviour and culture as they impact on WHS, and on change
- WHS risk management and the principles and practices of a systematic approach to WHS management.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- reports from other parties consulted about WHS risk in a product's life cycle
- legislation, standards, guidelines, research and industry data required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to apply the principles, processes and methods of ergonomics to work health and safety (WHS) risk management, and to the enhancement of WHS-related planning and design activities and processes.

The unit applies to those who manage WHS risks and who need to consider the role ergonomics plays in this process. These individuals will apply advanced skills and knowledge to coordinate, facilitate and maintain the WHS program in an organisation. This role may involve working with ergonomists or human-factor specialists.

NOTES

1. The terms ‘occupational health and safety’ (OHS) and ‘work health and safety’ (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
2. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.
3. Ergonomics applies theories, principles, data and methods to design in order to optimise human wellbeing and overall system performance.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- identify at least three different work health and safety (WHS) hazards relating to ergonomics, and manage their associated risks
- apply ergonomic interventions in at least two different WHS-related planning and design activities
- seek specialist input during at least one of the above activities.

During the work, the candidate must ensure these ergonomics activities are:

- compliant with:
 - legislative requirements
 - organisational policies and procedures
 - applicable professional standards
- appropriate to:
 - available resources
 - own role and capabilities.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- ergonomics-related content of applicable WHS laws and other relevant documents, such as policies, standards, guidance publications and alerts issued by the relevant WHS regulators and professional bodies
- organisational policies and procedures relating to ergonomics and the performance evidence

- key theories, principles, data and methods relating to ergonomics, and the domains of specialisation within the discipline of ergonomics
- principles, processes and methods of ergonomics applicable to:
 - identifying WHS hazards and managing associated risks
 - WHS-related planning and design activities and processes
- expertise, roles and functions of ergonomists, and skills and techniques relevant to the performance evidence
- scope and broad content of Australian and international ergonomics standards
- systems and system concepts used in ergonomics.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- WHS laws required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- reports from other parties consulted when developing ergonomic interventions
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

BSBWHS631 Apply occupational hygiene principles to manage WHS risks

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to apply occupational hygiene principles, knowledge, skills and techniques to manage work health and safety (WHS) risks. It includes identifying workplace hazards and managing risks associated with occupational hygiene, and engaging specialist assistance. It requires in-depth knowledge of the hierarchy of control measures and its use in developing risk control strategies for occupational hygiene. The unit also includes ensuring that occupational hygiene activities are appropriate, and that training needs are met.

The unit applies to those who apply occupational hygiene principles to manage WHS risks.

NOTES

1. For the purposes of this unit of competency 'occupational hygiene' refers to the use of science and engineering to measure the extent of worker exposure to something in the work environment that has the potential to cause harm. An occupational hygiene approach to WHS risks uses science and engineering to design and implement appropriate risk control strategies to prevent ill health caused by the work environment.
2. The terms 'occupational health and safety' (OHS) and 'work health and safety' (WHS) are equivalent, and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where model WHS laws have not been implemented, registered training organisations (RTOs) are advised to contextualise this unit of competency by referring to existing WHS legislative requirements.
3. The model WHS laws include the model WHS Act, model WHS Regulations and model WHS Codes of Practice. See Safe Work Australia for further information.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package Version 5.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, and to:

- apply occupational hygiene principles, processes, skills and techniques in managing at least two different work health and safety (WHS) hazards that present occupational hygiene risks to workers, using:
 - workplace WHS information
 - knowledge of WHS laws, and organisational policies and procedures relating to occupational hygiene
 - knowledge of occupational hygiene principles, processes, skills and techniques
 - the hierarchy of control measures to design and implement risk controls
- seek specialist input or advice during at least one of these activities.

During the above, the candidate must:

- assess occupational hygiene risk associated with these WHS hazards
- monitor, evaluate and modify risk controls relating to occupational hygiene
- ensure occupational hygiene activities are legislatively and organisationally compliant and appropriate.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- WHS laws relating to occupational hygiene, including roles and responsibilities of persons conducting a business or undertaking (PCBUs) or officers under WHS laws
- exposure standards and other standards and guidelines used in occupational hygiene, including their limitations and practical applications
- occupational hygiene principles, knowledge, skills, techniques and methodologies

- characteristics of WHS hazards and risks addressed by occupational hygiene, their effects on people and how these effects occur
- common risk controls for a range of environmental hazards and associated occupational hygiene risks, their effectiveness and their limitations
- organisational policies, procedures, processes and systems relating to occupational hygiene and the performance evidence
- key principles, uses and components of the hierarchy of control measures in managing risks associated with occupational hygiene, including:
 - nature and scope of risk controls
 - requirements for selecting personal protective equipment (PPE), and limitations of its use
- key concepts, processes and procedures for applying occupational hygiene in managing WHS risks:
 - sources of environmental hazards and routes of exposure to them
 - sources of occupational disease and its prevention
 - risks addressed by occupational hygiene
 - developing, implementing and evaluating occupational hygiene risk controls
 - methods for occupational hygiene assessments and investigations
 - training, education, roles, functions and skills of occupational hygienists
 - types, purposes, functions and uses of occupational hygiene equipment
 - requirements for individual training and instruction in risk controls, including in the use of PPE
- workplace processes, activities, jobs and tasks relevant to occupational hygiene
- roles and functions of specialists, including occupational hygienists, occupational medicine physicians, other medical doctors and toxicologists
- procedures for working with occupational hygiene specialists and other WHS personnel to control WHS risks.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must comply with WHS laws, legal responsibilities and duty of care required for this unit. It must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities undertaken by individuals carrying out WHS duties in the workplace, and must include access to:

- WHS laws, standards and guidelines required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- occupational hygiene equipment that meets relevant standards for function and performance
- organisational policies and procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence
- case studies and, where possible, real situations
- opportunities for interaction with others.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- capture, apply data cleansing, and store one set of transactional and one set of non-transactional big data relating to specific workplace needs
- create a report relating to data capture for a specific workplace need for at least one set of transactional and one set of non-transactional big data.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to big data capture and storage, including data protection, security and privacy laws and regulations
- organisational policies and procedures relating to big data capture and storage, including for:
 - capturing, storing and reporting transactional and non-transactional sources of big data
 - cleansing methodologies when capturing big data
 - business intent of big data capture
 - re-creating and recovering big data lost during capture process
 - privacy concerns of predictive analytics organising security and retrieval of big data
 - quality assuring captured big data
- data capture techniques to produce analytic ready data and datasets
- big data features and their impact on data capture and storage, including velocity, volume, variety, value, and veracity
- variability and complexity of big data:
 - structured and unstructured
 - transactional and non-transactional
- framework for distributed storage of big data

- platform solutions for capturing and storing big data
- key features of organisational products and services related to big data capture
- technologies, techniques and protocols for capturing, storing and retrieving big data
- secure data access and control mechanisms of captured and stored big data
- high availability and scalability challenges with big data.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be assessed in a workplace or simulated environment where conditions are typical of a work environment that uses big data.

Access is required to:

BSBXBD402 Test big data samples

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package 6.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to test captured transactional and non-transactional big data samples prior to using them in the organisation. It involves assembling or obtaining raw big data, processing that big data, and testing it in a way that enables it to be used more broadly within the organisation.

It applies to those who work in a broad range of industries using data analysis techniques in the management of their day-to-day work.

| ELEMENT | PERFORMANCE CRITERIA |
|--|--|
| Elements describe the essential outcomes. | Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. |
| 1. Validate assembled or obtained big data sample | 1.1 Establish a sampling strategy for big data testing and identify a representative sample for big data testing 1.2 Assemble or obtain sample of raw big data according to legislative requirements and organisational policies and procedures 1.3 Validate big data sample from various sources to ensure that big data is correct |
| 2. Validate big data sample process and business logic | 2.1 Align datasets to relevant parts of the organisation 2.2 Implement data aggregation and segregation rules on a small set of sample data and datasets |

| | 2.3 Consult with required personnel to clarify and resolve identified anomalies 2.4 Conduct performance testing for data throughput, data processing and sub-component performance |
| 3. Validate output of captured big data sample and record results | 3.1 Design, formulate and select suitable test scenarios and test cases to validate output of big data sample 3.2 Implement selected test scenarios and test cases with big data sample using common testing tools and according to organisational procedures 3.3 Isolate sub-standard data and correct data acquisition paths as required 3.4 Generate and store results of validation activity and associated supporting evidence according to organisational policies and procedures, and legislative requirements |
| 4. Optimise big data sample results and documentation | 4.1 Perform data cleansing on big data sample following testing according to industry practices and organisational procedures 4.2 Collate validated output of testing, confirming absence of big data corruption in sample 4.3 Recommend configuration optimisation changes based on performance testing results 4.4 Communicate final sample results to required personnel |

Foundation Skills

Assessment Requirements for BSBXBD402 Test big data samples

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package 6.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- test two different big data samples: one transactional and one non-transactional
- conduct performance testing on two different big data samples: one transactional and one non-transactional.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to testing big data sources, including data protection and privacy laws and regulations
- industry protocols and procedures required to write queries and scripts for big data testing
- organisational policies and procedures relating to testing big data sources, including:
 - assembling and obtaining raw big data
 - performing data cleansing following extract, transform and load (ETL) testing
 - isolating sub-standard data and correcting data acquisition paths
 - quality assuring output
 - testing transactional and non-transactional sources of big data
 - storing test results and associated support evidence
- big data validation protocols, including:
 - big data testing methodologies
 - test scripting
- features and formats of common big data sources, including:
 - batched
 - real time
 - interactive
- protocols and techniques for:

- performance testing big data throughput
- processing and reporting issues.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be assessed in a workplace or simulated environment where conditions are typical of a work environment that uses big data.

Access is required to:

- information and telecommunications equipment required to test big data sources
- big data sets to be tested
- industry standards, organisational procedures, and legislative requirements required to demonstrate the performance evidence.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for BSBXCS301 Protect own personal online profile from cyber security threats

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package 6.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- conduct one audit of own personal online profile and identify existing and potential cyber security threats
- identify and address three potential cyber security risks to own personal online profile.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to reporting cyber security threats
- organisational policies and procedures relating to online profiles, including escalation routes for cyber security issues
- basic principles of cyber security, including:
 - importance of data confidentiality, integrity and availability
 - common cyber security terms
 - common cyber security threats that individuals might be exposed to online
 - secure internet browsing
- risk factors relating to own personal online profile, including:
 - password management practices:
 - strength of created passwords
 - number of passwords used for multiple accounts
 - frequency of change to passwords
 - own work role within organisation
 - regular tasks in own work that raise personal risk level, including internet browsing
 - potential targets for cyber attack in own direct professional network
 - protocols for handling personally identifiable information

- physical safety of devices
- industry-specific risk factors and their risk to online profiles
- common strategies, tools and techniques for improving security of own personal online profile, including for:
 - password protection
 - secure password management and account replicating and splitting
 - fundamentals of two-factor authentication
 - billing and account privacy settings
 - software patching
 - connecting to public Wi-Fi via virtual private networks (VPNs)
- common methods and practices for:
 - responding to cyber security issues, including reporting protocols
 - secure internet browsing, including banking and email
- common cyber security threats that individuals and data might be exposed to, including:
 - phishing
 - social engineering
 - social media
 - malware
 - physical threats, including data loss due to working insecurely in public spaces.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be assessed in a workplace or simulated environment where conditions are typical of a work environment requiring cyber secure practices, processes and procedures.

Access is required to:

- information and data sources relating to cyber security
- device with active internet connection
- internet browser
- industry standards and organisational procedures required to demonstrate the performance evidence.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

| Release 1 | This version first released with BSB Business Services Training Package 6.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- use data protection techniques to manage workplace information for one work area over the life of a small project or work cycle.

In the course of the above, the candidate must store and share personally identifiable information (PII) in a secure manner.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- legislative requirements relating to securely managing PII and workplace information, including:
 - data protection
 - implications of Notifiable Data Breach legislation on an organisation and other associated Australian privacy laws
 - established international legislation
- organisational policies and procedures relating to:
 - identifying sensitive data
 - securely storing, sharing and managing customer information
 - encryption, and protocols for its uses
 - data classification
 - media and document labelling
 - monitoring and reporting faults and malfunctions in IT infrastructure
- industry best practice and Australian government sources of information relating to access control, including:

- password protection
- storage locations
- securely sharing
- data deletion
- risks and benefits of cloud storage
- risks of communicating sensitive information via non-secure means e.g. email and SMS
- framework for distributed storage
- technologies, techniques and protocols for storing and retrieving data
- data protection protocols and industry-standard compliance standards relating to:
 - back-up
 - data sharing
 - data storage
 - disposal of sensitive information
 - privacy impact assessments.

Application

This unit of competency specifies the outcomes required to implement and monitor purchasing processes for goods and services. It requires the ability to follow procurement procedures, determine and arrange appropriate suppliers, and check that final procurement meets client objectives.

The unit supports workers in the property industry who are involved in implementing and monitoring purchasing processes for goods and services. It applies to real estate agents, property managers, strata managers and facility managers.

Licensing, legislative, regulatory or certification requirements apply to this unit in some States and Territories. Relevant state and territory regulatory authorities should be consulted to confirm those requirements.

Assessment Requirements for CPPDSM4047 Implement and monitor procurement process

Modification History

Release 1.

Replaces superseded equivalent CPPDSM4047A Implement and monitor procurement process.

This version first released with CPP Property Services Training Package Version 5.

Performance Evidence

A person demonstrating competency in this unit must satisfy all of the elements, performance criteria, foundation skills and range of conditions of this unit.

The person must also implement and monitor purchasing processes for two different goods or services relating to managing a building or facility.

Each product or service must be procured using a different procurement method selected from the following:

- open tendering
- request for proposal
- request for quotation
- restricted tendering
- single source
- two-stage tendering.

In doing the above, the person must:

- review procurement objectives and relevant information to determine procurement processes, and source appropriate authority or delegations for procurement
- finalise procurement process within agreed timeframes, using business equipment and technology to maintain records and reports
- apply knowledge of organisation's practices, ethical standards, and legislative requirements associated with implementing and monitoring purchasing processes for goods and services
- use effective oral and written communication to effectively monitor the implementation of the procurement process against budget parameters.

Knowledge Evidence

A person demonstrating competency in this unit must demonstrate knowledge of:

- benefits and risks associated with, and procedures for, the following procurement processes:
 - open tendering
 - request for proposal
 - request for quotation
 - restricted tendering
 - single source
 - two-stage tendering
- best practice procurement principles
- implications of warranties, guarantees and exclusions relating to goods and services
- key principles of procurement, including:
 - accountability and recording
 - ethics and fair dealing
 - open and effective competition
 - planning and professionalism
 - value for money
- limitations of own work role, responsibilities and professional abilities
- key requirements of federal, state or territory legislation and local government regulations relating to:
 - anti-discrimination
 - consumer protection
 - environmental issues
 - equal employment opportunity (EEO)
 - financial probity
 - franchise and business structures
 - industrial relations
 - work health and safety (WHS).

Assessment Conditions

The following must be present and available to learners during assessment activities:

- equipment:
 - computer system with internet, email and printing facilities
- specifications:
 - details of goods or services to be procured
 - organisational procurement policies and procedures
 - organisational procurement process checklist
 - guides on procurement processes and procedures

- relationship with team members and supervisor:
 - member of a work team in a property industry context.

Assessor requirements

As a minimum, assessors must satisfy the assessor requirements in the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) current at the time of assessment.

CPPWMT3044A Identify wastes and hazards

Modification History

Revised unit

Unit updated and equivalent to PRMWM44B Identify wastes and hazards

Unit Descriptor

This unit of competency specifies the outcomes required to identify a range of wastes and potential hazards and risks that may be present in the work environment.

Application of the Unit

This unit of competency supports individuals with responsibilities for identifying wastes and potential hazards and risks in a team environment. It includes following direction, systems and plans, as well as recognising the need for expert advice.

Licensing/Regulatory Information

Pre-Requisites

Not applicable.

Employability Skills Information

This unit contains employability skills.

Elements and Performance Criteria Pre-Content

Elements describe the essential outcomes of a unit of competency.

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. Where bold italicised text is used, further information is detailed in the required skills and knowledge section and the range statement. Assessment of performance is to be consistent with the evidence guide.

Elements and Performance Criteria

- | | | | |
|---|-----------------------------|-----|---|
| 1 | Identify waste. | 1.1 | Waste characteristics are identified. |
| | | 1.2 | Types of wastes are differentiated by waste stream or waste categories . |
| | | 1.3 | Hazardous and dangerous waste and non-conforming waste are detailed. |
| | | 1.4 | Contaminants present in waste are noted. |
| | | 1.5 | Further information on waste is obtained by questioning appropriate personnel to ensure correct identification. |
| 2 | Identify hazards and risks. | 2.1 | Other potential hazards and risks present in work environment are listed. |
| | | 2.2 | Supervisor and team members are informed of job requirements, hazards and risks. |
| | | 2.3 | Safe work practices that prevent risk behaviour are outlined to supervisor. |
| | | 2.4 | Emergency response procedures are practised with team members. |

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

- analytical skills to:
 - identify hazards and risks
 - identify waste types and waste non-conformances
 - segregate valuable resources in composite materials
 - segregate waste types, including potentially hazardous waste
- interpersonal skills to work in a team environment
- literacy skills to:
 - list potential hazards and risks
 - document and keep records

- read and interpret:
 - emergency requirements
 - hazard advice
 - job sheets
 - work requirements and material safety data sheets (MSDS)
- oral communication skills to:
 - follow instructions
 - provide information
 - ask questions
- self-management skills to:
 - apply signalling techniques
 - conduct work practices safely and efficiently
 - plan and undertake routine tasks
 - prioritise duties
 - use emergency and personal protective equipment (PPE)

Required knowledge

- identification of:
 - waste contaminants
 - waste monitoring procedures
 - waste non-conformances
 - waste non-conformance handling procedures
 - waste types
 - waste management options
 - waste storage requirements
 - waste disposal and recovery routes
- procedures for containing segregated waste types, including containment and isolation of hazardous waste
- emergency response procedures relating to:
 - confined space procedures
 - duty of care
 - identification of work areas, including location of:
 - alarms
 - emergency equipment
 - communications equipment
 - coding systems
 - environmental agencies
 - environmental regulations
 - reporting requirements
 - signalling techniques

- waste management hierarchy
- waste containment methods and isolation of emergencies
- occupational health and safety (OHS) requirements relating to:
 - chemical storage and decanting
 - dangerous goods and hazardous substances
 - OHS hierarchy of control
 - basic first aid appropriate to likely hazards and risks in work environment
- potential hazards and risks relating to:
 - dangerous goods
 - potential incidents

Evidence Guide

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

| Overview of assessment | This unit of competency could be assessed by observation of practical demonstration in the workplace or in a simulated environment. |
| Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit | A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to provide evidence of the required skills and knowledge specified in this unit. In particular the person should demonstrate the ability to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • identify a range of waste streams, hazardous wastes and waste contaminants • identify a range of potential hazards and risks present in the workplace • observe OHS requirements. |
| Context of and specific resources for assessment | Assessment of essential underpinning knowledge may be conducted in an off-site context. It is to comply with relevant regulatory or Australian standards' requirements. Resource implications for assessment include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • work plans and approved specifications • forms and procedures manuals. |
| Method of assessment | The process of identifying waste and hazards must meet industry expectations. If the environment is narrowly defined or is not representative of industry needs, it may be necessary to refer to portfolio case studies to assess competency in the identification of |

|-------------------------------------|--|
| | waste and hazards. Assessment methods must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • satisfy the endorsed Assessment Guidelines of the Property Services Training Package • include direct observation of tasks in real or simulated work conditions, with questioning to confirm the ability to consistently identify and correctly interpret the essential underpinning knowledge required for practical application • reinforce the integration of employability skills with workplace tasks and job roles • confirm that competency is verified and able to be transferred to other circumstances and environments. |
| Guidance information for assessment | Reasonable adjustments for people with disabilities must be made to assessment processes where required. This could include access to modified equipment and other physical resources, and the provision of appropriate assessment support. Assessment processes and techniques should as far as is practical take into account the language, literacy and numeracy capacity of the candidate in relation to the competency being assessed. This unit could be assessed on its own or in combination with other units of competency relevant to the job function, for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CPPWMT3005A Identify and segregate waste • CPPWMT3014A Manually sort waste. |

Range Statement

The range statement relates to the unit of competency as a whole. It allows for different work environments and situations that may affect performance. Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- manage care and maintenance procedures to meet specific collection and organisational needs
- systematically review and monitor the organisation's policies and procedures for collection care, maintenance and preservation
- apply organisation's collection development policies and procedures, particularly the digital preservation policy
- evaluate the care and maintenance procedures of specific collections
- interact with colleagues and specialist experts on development issues, as required, to complement own skill set
- pursue opportunities for own professional development regarding new and emerging trends in maintenance and preservation procedures and strategies
- model due diligence and professionalism in complex judgements and decisions.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- detail strategies for the storage, display, preservation and conservation of different types of information materials
- identify risk factors for different types of information materials
- describe the nature of cooperative arrangements that exist between information services providers in relation to collection care and maintenance
- analyse issues that affect the care, maintenance and preservation of specific types of information materials, both print and electronic

- identify copyright, moral rights and intellectual property issues that affect collection care and management
- review organisational collection development policies on the care, maintenance and preservation of specific information collections
- describe cultural protocols that impact on collection care and management
- discuss the purposes and objectives of existing digital preservation policies
- discuss the benefits and limitations of digital preservation.

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced in creative arts industry environments. The assessment environment must include access to:

- a collection for which procedures must be managed
- relevant policies and procedures manuals, including those relating to the preservation of digital collections.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational educational and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for FNSTPB402 Establish and maintain payroll systems

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|---|
| Release 1 | This version first released with FNS Financial Services Training Package Version 3.0. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify, calculate and input data from time-recording systems for payments into manual or computerised payroll systems
- produce a payroll report according to organisational and legislative requirements
- present a payroll report for verification and approval
- maintain records according to organisational and legislative requirements that relate to security and confidentiality of information.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate the following knowledge to effectively complete the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, and to manage tasks and reasonably foreseeable contingencies in the context of the work role.

- Scope of services offered by a business activity statement (BAS) agent providing payroll services
- Key principles of award and enterprise agreements and industrial instruments required to maintain payroll systems
- Organisational policy and procedures that affect payroll, including the structure of authority in organisations
- Industry codes of practice relevant to payroll operations
- Key features of manual and computerised payroll systems
- Legislative and record-keeping requirements from all levels of government that affect business operation and reporting requirements, especially in regard to:

- Fair Work Act
- National Employment Standards
- Superannuation Guarantee (Administration) Act
- corporations law
- workers compensation and work health and safety
- state payroll tax relating to payroll activities
- Privacy Act and requirements relating to confidentiality and security of records
- Higher Education Loan Program (HELP)
- Medicare levy
- Tax Agent Services Act (TASA)
- current commonwealth, state and territory industry and modern awards, and enterprise bargaining agreements
- individual employment agreements
- commonwealth, state and territory leave Acts, including annual, personal, paid parental and long service
- Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) Act
- Current Australian Taxation Office (ATO) requirements relating to payroll systems, including:
 - Australian business number (ABN)
 - payment summaries
 - employment termination payments (ETPs)
 - tax file number (TFN) declaration
- Tax Practitioners Board (TPB) requirements relating to payroll systems, including:
 - registration and scope of services documentation requirements for BAS agents
 - code of professional conduct
- Key requirements of taxation law relating to payroll systems, including:
 - pay as you go instalment (PAYGI) tax
 - pay as you go withholding (PAYGW) tax
 - fringe benefits tax (FBT) as it relates to salary packaging
- Key aspects of routine and non-routine requirements for payroll, including:
 - routine: award payments, salary amount, salary packaging, superannuation guarantee and superannuation reporting
 - non-routine: termination payments and superannuation guarantee charge

Assessment Conditions

Assessment must be conducted in a safe environment where evidence gathered demonstrates consistent performance of typical activities experienced in the bookkeeping field of work and include access to:

- office equipment, technology, software and consumables required to establish and maintain a payroll system, including:
 - workplace reference materials, such as procedural manuals and organisational policy
 - actual or simulated payroll data.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the assessor requirements in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

This unit is designed to meet the education requirements of the Tax Practitioner Board (TPB). Where registration with the TPB is sought, assessment must reflect the conditions described by the regulator which stipulate that a significant amount (at least 40%) must be completed under some form of independent supervision. Where recognition of prior learning (RPL) is used, it must also meet the requirements of the Board's policy on RPL.

Details of requirements can be accessed on the TPB website at <http://www.tpb.gov.au>.

If undertaking this unit for BAS agent registration, the following items in the Range of Conditions must be addressed in the assessment to meet educational requirements for registration with the TPB:

- payroll preparation
- payroll records.

FSKDIG002 Use digital technology for routine and simple workplace tasks

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with FSK Foundation Skills Training Package Version 2.0. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to use digital technology to undertake workplace tasks that are simple and routine in nature. It requires the ability to identify and interpret technical instructions, and setup and apply a range of digital technologies to achieve predetermined outcomes.

An individual performing these tasks may work with an expert or mentor where support is available if requested.

This unit applies to individuals who use, or are preparing to use, digital skills to complete workplace activities. This includes existing workers and individuals preparing for employment through vocational education and training. This unit should be integrated and contextualised with vocational training to support achievement of vocational competency.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

| Release 1 | This version first released with FSK Foundation Skills Training Package Version 2.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- use digital technology to complete at least three routine and simple workplace tasks with different required outcomes and in accordance with workplace procedures.

During the above, the candidate must use the main features and functions of the selected digital technology and suitable security protocols.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, including knowledge of:

- outcomes of routine and simple workplace tasks
- familiar types of digital technology commonly used in the workplace, their purposes and their uses
- familiar workplace instructions and procedures for the use of digital technology relevant to routine and simple workplace tasks
- relevant ethical and security practices applicable to workplace digital technology
- simple conventions of online etiquette
- strategies to review and improve performance.

Assessment Conditions

Competency is to be assessed in the workplace, a workplace simulated environment or a vocational training context.

Skills must be demonstrated using routine and simple tasks that reflect those typically found in a workplace.

The following resources are to be made available:

- an expert or mentor to provide support to learner if requested
- digital technology required to complete the performance evidence
- workplace procedures required to complete the performance evidence
- own familiar support resources.

Assessors must:

- satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards, and
- have sound knowledge of the ACSF, and
- have demonstrable expertise, knowledge and skills in the vocational contextualisation and assessment of digital technology, and
- have completed the following or equivalent:
 - TAESS00009 Address Foundation Skills in Vocational Practice Skill Set; or
 - a higher level education qualification, such as:
 - TAE80113 Graduate Diploma of Adult Language, Literacy and Numeracy Practice (and its equivalent TAE70111); or
 - Bachelor of Education, Graduate Certificate or Graduate Diploma of Education, or higher. This may include qualifications relating to TESOL, adult education or vocational education.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- participate in and review the success of at least two different spoken exchanges in a workplace team.

Participation must include speaking and listening.

Knowledge Evidence

During the above spoken exchange the candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- common purposes and audiences of routine workplace team interactions
- appropriate register for formal and informal workplace team interactions
- relevant oral communication strategies that support participation in workplace teams
- intelligible pronunciation of key language
- routine and some specialised vocabulary non-verbal feedback strategies and how to use them in workplace team interactions
- strategies to review success in meeting identified purpose of presentation and to identify areas of improvement.

Assessment Conditions

Competency is to be assessed in the workplace, a workplace simulated environment or a vocational training context. Spoken exchanges must be undertaken with real individuals in a team.

Skills must be demonstrated using routine oral exchanges that reflect those typically undertaken in a workplace.

The following resources are to be made available:

- own familiar support resources
- participants for spoken exchanges described in performance evidence.

Assessors must:

- satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards, and
- have sound knowledge of the ACSF and performance features of the ACSF level being assessed, and
- have demonstrable expertise, knowledge and skills in the vocational contextualisation and assessment of the core skill, oral communication, and

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to provide a first aid response to a casualty. The unit applies to all workers who may be required to provide a first aid response in a range of situations, including community and workplace settings.

Specific licensing /regulatory requirements relating to this competency, including requirements for refresher training should be obtained from the relevant national/state/territory Work Health and Safety Regulatory Authorities.

Elements and Performance Criteria

ELEMENT

PERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements define the essential outcomes.

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

1. Respond to an emergency situation

- 1.1 Recognise an emergency situation
- 1.2 Identify, assess and manage immediate hazards to health and safety of self and others
- 1.3 Assess the casualty and recognise the need for first aid response
- 1.4 Assess the situation and seek assistance from emergency response services

2. Apply appropriate first aid procedures

- 2.1 Perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in accordance with Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines
- 2.2 Provide first aid in accordance with established first aid principles
- 2.3 Display respectful behaviour towards casualty
- 2.4 Obtain consent from casualty where possible
- 2.5 Use available resources and equipment to make the casualty as comfortable as possible
- 2.6 Operate first aid equipment according to manufacturer's instructions
- 2.7 Monitor the casualty's condition and respond in accordance with first aid principles

3. Communicate details of the incident

- 3.1 Accurately convey incident details to emergency response services
- 3.2 Report details of incident to workplace supervisor as appropriate
- 3.3 Maintain confidentiality of records and information in line with statutory and/or organisational policies

ELEMENTPERFORMANCE CRITERIA

Elements define the essential outcomes.

Performance criteria specify the level of performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element.

4. Evaluate the incident and own performance

4.1 Recognise the possible psychological impacts on self and other rescuers involved in critical incidents

4.2 Participate in debriefing to address individual needs

Foundation Skills

The Foundation Skills describe those required skills (language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills) that are essential to performance.

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- Followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:

- performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor
- performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface
- responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting
- managed the unconscious breathing casualty
- followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions
- followed the prompts of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED)
- Responded to at least two simulated first aid scenarios contextualised to the candidate's workplace/community setting, including:
 - conducted a visual and verbal assessment of the casualty
 - demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
 - post-incident debrief and evaluation
 - provided an accurate verbal or written report of the incident
- Applied first aid procedures for the following:
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - bleeding control
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - envenomation, using pressure immobilisation
 - fractures, sprains and strains, using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation techniques
 - respiratory distress, including asthma
 - shock

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
 - ARC Guidelines relevant to provision of CPR and first aid
 - safe work practices to minimise risks and potential hazards
 - infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions
 - requirements for currency of skill and knowledge
- legal, workplace and community considerations including:
 - awareness of potential need for stress-management techniques and available support following an emergency situation
 - duty of care requirements

- respectful behaviour towards a casualty
- own skills and limitations
- consent
- privacy and confidentiality requirements
- importance of debriefing
- considerations when providing first aid including:
 - airway obstruction due to body position
 - appropriate duration and cessation of CPR
 - appropriate use of an AED
 - chain of survival
 - standard precautions
 - how to conduct a visual and verbal assessment of the casualty
- principles and procedures for first aid management of the following scenarios:
 - abdominal injuries
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - basic care of a wound
 - bleeding control
 - burns
 - cardiac conditions, including chest pain
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - crush injuries
 - diabetes
 - dislocations
 - drowning
 - envenomation
 - environmental impact, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
 - eye and ear injuries
 - fractures
 - febrile convulsions
 - head, neck and spinal injuries
 - minor skin injuries
 - needle stick injuries
 - poisoning and toxic substances
 - respiratory distress, including asthma
 - seizures, including epilepsy
 - shock
 - soft tissue injuries, including strains and, sprains
 - stroke

- unconsciousness
- basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
 - how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
 - chest
 - response/consciousness
 - upper airway and effect of positional change
 - considerations in provision of first aid for specified conditions

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates' skills and knowledge.

Assessment resources must include:

- adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
- adrenaline auto-injector training device
- AED training device
- placebo bronchodilator and spacer device
- roller bandages
- triangular bandages
- workplace First Aid kit
- workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form for written reports
- wound dressings

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessor requirements

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

| Release 2 | Minor changes to formatting to improve readability. |
| Release 1 | This version was released in HLT Health Training Package release 1.0 and meets the requirements of the New Standards for Training Packages. Significant changes to elements and performance criteria, changes to scope of unit. New evidence requirements for assessment, including use of contextualised remote scenarios. |

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the job role.

There must be evidence that the candidate has completed the following tasks in line with state/territory regulations, first aid codes of practice, Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) guidelines and workplace procedures:

- Followed DRSABCD in line with ARC guidelines, including:
 - performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) (5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations) on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor

- performed at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single rescuer CPR (5 cycles both compressions and ventilations) on an infant resuscitation manikin placed on a firm surface
- responded appropriately in the event of regurgitation or vomiting
- managed the unconscious breathing casualty
- followed single rescue procedure, including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions
- followed the prompts of an Automated External Defibrillator (AED)
- Responded to at least three simulated first aid scenarios contextualised to the candidate's remote and/or isolated situation:
 - demonstrated safe manual handling techniques
 - conducted a visual and verbal secondary survey assessment of the casualty
 - assessed vital signs, including respirations, pulse and temperature
 - post-incident debrief and evaluation
 - provided an accurate verbal and written report of the incident
- Applied first aid response in a remote situation for the following:
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - basic care of a wound
 - bleeding control
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - envenomation, using pressure immobilisation
 - environmental impacts, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
 - fractures, sprains and strains, using arm slings, roller bandages or other appropriate immobilisation techniques
 - head, neck and spinal injuries, using immobilisation principles
 - respiratory distress, including asthma
 - shock

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge required to effectively complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit, manage tasks and manage contingencies in the context of the work role. This includes knowledge of:

- State/Territory regulations, first aid codes of practice and workplace procedures including:
 - ARC guidelines relevant to provision of CPR and first aid
 - safe work practices to minimise risks and potential hazards
 - infection control principles and procedures, including use of standard precautions
 - requirements for currency of skill and knowledge
- legal, workplace and community considerations including:

- awareness of potential need for stress-management techniques and available support following an emergency situation
- duty of care requirements
- respectful behaviour towards a casualty
- own skills and limitations
- consent
- privacy and confidentiality requirements
- importance of debriefing
- considerations when providing first aid, including:
 - airway obstruction due to body position
 - appropriate duration and cessation of CPR
 - appropriate use of an AED
 - chain of survival
 - standard precautions
 - how to conduct a visual and verbal secondary survey assessment
 - assessment and interpretation of vital signs, including respirations, temperature and pulse
- principles and procedures for first aid management of the following scenarios, contextualised to the candidate's remote and/or isolated situation:
 - abdominal injuries
 - allergic reaction
 - anaphylaxis
 - basic care of a wound
 - bleeding control
 - burns
 - cardiac conditions, including chest pain
 - choking and airway obstruction
 - crush injuries
 - diabetes
 - dislocations
 - drowning
 - envenomation
 - environmental impact, including hypothermia, hyperthermia, dehydration and heat stroke
 - eye and ear injuries
 - febrile convulsions
 - fractures
 - head, neck and spinal injuries
 - minor skin injuries
 - needle stick injuries

- poisoning and toxic substances
- respiratory distress, including asthma
- seizures, including epilepsy
- shock
- soft tissue injuries, including sprains and strains
- stroke
- unconsciousness
- remote considerations in the provision of first aid, including:
 - typical hazards and strategies for preparing supplies to address contingencies
 - management options relating to transporting casualty, including aero-medical evacuation
 - how to identify and prepare areas for safe evacuation, including aero-medical evacuation
 - how and when to access emergency response services
 - communication systems, equipment and methods available in remote situations
 - priorities of management in first aid when dealing with life-threatening conditions
 - specific considerations contextualised to alpine, desert, marine, rural/remote settings and tropical environments
- basic anatomy and physiology relating to:
 - how to recognise a person is not breathing normally
 - chest
 - response/consciousness
 - upper airway and effect of positional change
 - considerations in provision of first aid for specified conditions, including specific considerations for remote settings

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated working individually in an environment that provides realistic in-depth, industry-validated scenarios and simulations to assess candidates' skills and knowledge.

- Assessment resources must include:
 - adult and infant resuscitation manikins in line with ARC Guidelines for the purpose of assessment of CPR procedures
 - adrenaline auto-injector training device
 - AED training device
 - placebo bronchodilator and spacer device
 - roller bandages
 - thermometer
 - triangular bandages
 - workplace First Aid kit suitable for remote locations

- workplace injury, trauma and/or illness record, or other appropriate workplace incident report form
- wound dressings

Simulated assessment environments must simulate the real-life working environment where these skills and knowledge would be performed, with all the relevant equipment and resources of that working environment.

Assessor requirements

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

| Elements describe the essential outcomes. | Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element. |
| 1. Prepare for job | 1.1 Identify job specifications 1.2 Scale original image 1.3 Clean and prepare work surfaces and confirm images are dust free 1.4 Mount original image according to enterprise procedures |
| 2. Prepare scanner | 2.1 Set up scanner and calibrate according to manufacturer specifications 2.2 Enter data from copy evaluation onto scanner 2.3 Select scanner software |
| 3. Produce images | 3.1 Identify medium being scanned 3.2 Confirm disk capacity is sufficient for the job |

|---------|---|
| | 3.3 Set and check processor according to job specifications 3.4 Scan images according to work health and safety (WHS) requirements 3.5 Check scanned images against technical specifications of job and make required adjustments |

Foundation Skills

This section describes those language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills that are essential to performance but not explicit in the performance criteria.

| Skill | Description |

Assessment Requirements for ICPPRP3220 Digitise images for reproduction

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with ICP Printing and Graphic Arts Training Package Version 4.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of the unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- use a full colour digital device to reproduce:
 - one line-art
 - one greyscale
 - one colour transparency (positive)
 - one colour reflective
 - one negative
 - one re-screen.

In the course of the above, the candidate must:

- comply with work health and safety (WHS) requirements for digital devices
- identify and select the settings on the digital device to meet job requirements.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- scanner settings for printing processes and electronic media
- procedures for calibration of scanner
- colour mixing principles and separation requirements for:
 - primary colours
 - tone gradation and grey balance
- procedures for colour correction
- factors that contribute to, and methods for minimising, colour separation
- requirements for screen ruling and dot percentage
- impact of output resolution on final screen ruling

- WHS requirements for operating a scanner and handling solvents in the workplace
- manufacturer manuals, enterprise procedures and WHS and other documentation relevant to the task, including location and purpose.

Assessment Conditions

Skills in this unit must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where the conditions are typical of those in a working environment in this industry. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the area of work.

This includes access to:

- scanner
- industry standard computer hardware and software.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Assessment Requirements for ICPPRP422 Digitise complex images for reproduction

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with ICP Printing and Graphic Arts Training Package Version 1.0. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- safely use a medium to high-end full colour scanner (with full software capabilities) to reproduce at least TWO colour continuous tone originals with different contrast characteristics and ONE rescreen
- provide high-quality colour, grey balance, tone reproduction and cast removal in scanned images
- match technical aspects of scanned image to selected printing process and substrate
- safely operate and monitor production on a flat-bed or drum scanner with full colour capabilities
- find and use information relevant to the task from a variety of information sources.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- explain why scanner settings need to be varied to suit subsequent printing processes or electronic output
- list factors that influence selection of highlight and shadow aim points
- describe critical qualities of a copy that need evaluation prior to reproduction
- explain main points to be considered when preparing a copy for scanning
- describe how grey balance requirements are determined prior to applying colour correction
- describe factors that determine requirement for colour correction
- describe purpose of catchlight controls and how they are applied
- describe considerations necessary to ensure predictability and repeatability at the output stage

- list methods of storage and filing of images for retrieval
- explain criteria used for evaluating scanned images
- explain how common file formats relate to the scan saving process
- identify other file formats available for saving scans and when they are used
- identify manuals, safety and other documentation relevant to this task and where are they kept, and information included in them
- identify other sources of available information.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the Pre-Press field of work and include access to:

- a flat-bed or drum scanner with full colour capabilities
- industry software packages.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

| Release 1 | This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 1.0. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- identify basic new and emerging industry specific technologies and techniques
- use basic features and functions of identified industry specific technologies to an industry standard.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- outline current technology trends and directions in information and communications technology (ICT), and specifically of the major industry technology standards used in the specified area
- outline vendor product directions
- describe current industry hardware and software products, with broad knowledge of general features and capabilities, and their application
- outline information gathering techniques.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the general ICT industry, and include access to:

- a site where industry specific technologies may be used
- industry specific technologies currently used in industry
- documents detailing work health and safety (WHS) standards, environmental guidelines and organisational requirements.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

| Release 1 | This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 4.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit; including evidence of the ability to:

- For one organisation:
 - interpret a strategic plan and objectives of the organisation
 - evaluate the current state of ICT in the organisation
 - identify possible gaps and opportunities in ICT and evaluate organisational impact with reference to the strategic plan and the objectives
 - determine and prioritise proposed changes to meet organisational needs
 - evaluate the difficulty of implementing proposed changes
 - develop an action plan for implementation

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes:

- Key sections of an action plan for ICT implementation projects
- Methods of evaluation and planning approaches to technical problems and strategic objectives
- Methods of evaluation of competing and complementary internal and external ICT systems and products
- Current and emerging system and product trends and directions

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where conditions are typical of those in an ICT working environment or ICT workplace. This includes:

- A site where ICT needs and strategic directions of the organisation are coordinated
- Detailed information relating to a strategic organisation plan, objectives, and direction

Performance Evidence

Evidence of the ability to:

- investigate client support requests and provide a documented solution after consultation with client
- convey comprehensive technical information to clients in a clear, concise, jargon-free and coherent manner
- use technical manuals and 'help' documentation.

Note: If a specific volume or frequency is not stated, then evidence must be provided at least once.

Knowledge Evidence

To complete the unit requirements safely and effectively, the individual must:

- identify and describe the available in-house and vendor support
- explain contract and service agreements with vendors
- identify features of different types of hardware supported by the organisation
- identify sources of information relevant to the provision of services and support
- identify operating system:
 - functions and basic features
 - supported by the organisation
- identify and describe security and network guidelines and procedures
- identify the advanced features of software, including the functions and support provided by the organisation.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Noise levels, production flow, interruptions and time variances must be typical of those experienced in the systems administration and support field of work and include access to:

- peers and supervisors for obtaining information
- relevant information sources
- technical records and documentation.

Assessors must satisfy NVR/AQTF assessor requirements.

Assessment Requirements for ICTWEB306 Develop web presence using social media

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|--|
| Release 1 | This version first released with ICT Information and Communications Technology Training Package Version 6.0. |

Performance Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate the ability to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including evidence of the ability to:

- develop social networking presence and upload and link at least three different file types using social media platforms, tools and applications.

In the course of the above, the candidate must:

- evaluate use of social media tools and application and action required changes
- confirm security of social media interactions according to cyber security procedures and protocols
- seek review from required personnel.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate knowledge to complete the tasks outlined in the elements, performance criteria and foundation skills of this unit, including knowledge of:

- basic technical terminology in relation to social networking, social media applications and tools
- basic methods of uploading images, text files, portable document format (PDF) files, audio files, video files and linking associated files
- features and functions of social media applications
- import and export software functions
- different types of social media tools and applications, benefits and issues associated with their use
- tagging process and facilitating collaborative folksonomy
- social media applications
- organisational procedures applicable to developing web presence through social media
- cyber security procedures and protocols.

Assessment Conditions

Skills in this unit must be demonstrated in a workplace or simulated environment where the conditions are typical of those in a working environment in this industry.

This includes access to:

- required hardware and its components
- online resources
- social media tools and applications that may be used to develop web presence through social media.

Assessors of this unit must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

Understanding of relevant regulatory and legislative requirements is demonstrated. |

Required Skills and Knowledge

This section describes the skills and knowledge required for this unit.

Required skills

Look for evidence that confirms skills in:

- planning and sequencing operations
- checking and clarifying task-related information
- performing EAR (expired air resuscitation) and CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) on a mannequin
- simulated first aid treatment for the full range of injuries covered by the range statement
- reading, interpreting and following emergency first aid procedures and related documents
- entering information onto proformas and other relevant documents
- communicating effectively with injured persons, appropriate personnel and authorities

Required knowledge

Look for evidence that confirms knowledge of:

- applicable regulatory and legislative requirements
- use and application of any applicable personal protective equipment
- hazards and control measures associated with performing emergency first aid, including housekeeping
- instances where EAR and CPR should be performed
- procedures for preparing a person for the administration of EAR and CPR
- procedures for performing EAR and CPR on a child and an adult
- dangers and precautions to be taken when administering EAR and CPR
- emergency first aid procedures for injuries covered by the scope of this unit
- details to be recorded of first aid administered
- procedures and reasons for recording first aid administered
- relevant regulatory and legislative requirements with respect to emergency first aid
- the impact of regulatory/legislative requirements on the individual and others
- safe work practices and procedures

Evidence Guide

EVIDENCE GUIDE

The evidence guide provides advice on assessment and must be read in conjunction with the performance criteria, required skills and knowledge, range statement and the Assessment Guidelines for the Training Package.

Overview of assessment

A person who demonstrates competency in this unit must be able to perform emergency first aid.

Critical aspects for assessment and evidence required to demonstrate competency in this unit

Assessors must be satisfied that the candidate can competently and consistently perform all elements of the unit as specified by the criteria, including required knowledge, and be capable of applying the competency in new and different situations and contexts.

Context of and specific resources for assessment

This unit may be assessed on the job, off the job or a combination of both on and off the job. Where assessment occurs off the job, that is the candidate is not in productive work, then an appropriate simulation must be used where the range of conditions reflects realistic workplace situations. The competencies covered by this unit would be demonstrated by an individual working alone or as part of a team. The assessment environment should not disadvantage the candidate.

This unit could be assessed in conjunction with any other units addressing the safety, quality, communication, materials handling, recording and reporting associated with performing emergency first aid or other units requiring the exercise of the skills and knowledge covered by this unit.

Method of assessment

Assessors should gather a range of evidence that is valid, sufficient, current and authentic. Evidence can be gathered through a variety of ways including direct observation, supervisor's reports, project work, samples and questioning. Questioning techniques should not require language, literacy and numeracy skills beyond those required in this unit of competency. The candidate must have access to all tools, equipment, materials and documentation required. The candidate must be permitted to refer to any relevant workplace procedures, product and manufacturing specifications, codes, standards, manuals and reference materials.

Guidance information for assessment

Range Statement

Bold italicised wording, if used in the performance criteria, is detailed below. Essential operating conditions that may be present with training and assessment (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) may also be included. | |

MSMENV472 Implement and monitor environmentally sustainable work practices

Modification History

Release 1. Supersedes and is equivalent to MSAENV472B Implement and monitor environmentally sustainable work practices

Application

This unit of competency covers the skills and knowledge required to effectively analyse the workplace in relation to environmentally sustainable work practices, and to implement improvements and monitor their effectiveness.

This unit of competency applies to those who have responsibility for a specific area of work or who lead a work group or team. It addresses the knowledge, processes and techniques necessary to implement and monitor environmentally sustainable work practices, including the development of processes and tools.

It includes identifying areas for improvement, developing plans to make improvements, and implementing and monitoring improvements in environmental performance.

This unit of competency applies to all sectors of the manufacturing industry and members of its value chain. It may also be applied to all sections of an organisation, including office and warehouse. This unit will need to be appropriately contextualised as it is applied across an organisation and across different industry sectors.

This unit of competency applies to an individual working alone or as part of a team/work group and working in liaison with other shift team members and the control room operator, as appropriate.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Elements and Performance Criteria

Elements describe the essential outcomes

Performance criteria describe the performance needed to demonstrate achievement of the element

|---|--|-----|--|
| 1 | Investigate current practices in relation to resource usage | 1.1 | Identify environmental regulations applying to the enterprise |
| | | 1.2 | Assess procedures for assessing compliance with environmental regulations |
| | | 1.3 | Collect information on environmental and resource efficiency systems and procedures and provide to the work group, as required |
| | | 1.4 | Measure and record current resource usage by members of the work group |
| | | 1.5 | Analyse and record current purchasing strategies |
| | | 1.6 | Analyse current work processes to access information and data, and assist in identifying areas for improvement |
| 2 | Set targets for improvements | 2.1 | Seek input from stakeholders, key personnel and specialists |
| | | 2.2 | Access external sources of information and data as required |
| | | 2.3 | Evaluate alternative solutions to workplace environmental issues |
| | | 2.4 | Set efficiency targets |
| 3 | Implement performance | 3.1 | Source and use techniques/tools to assist in achieving targets |

|-------------------------------|-----|--|
| improvement strategies | 3.2 | Apply continuous improvement strategies to own work area of responsibility, and communicate ideas and possible solutions to the work group and management |
| | 3.3 | Integrate environmental and resource efficiency improvement plans for own work group with other operational activities and implement them |
| | 3.4 | Seek suggestions and ideas about environmental and resource efficiency management from stakeholders and act upon them where appropriate |
| | 3.5 | Implement costing strategies to fully value environmental assets |
| 4 Monitor performance | 4.1 | Document outcomes and communicate reports on targets to key personnel and stakeholders |
| | 4.2 | Evaluate strategies and environmental performance, including breaches or potential breaches of regulations and occurrences outside of standard procedure which may lead to lower environmental performance |
| | 4.3 | Set new targets and investigate and apply new tools and strategies |
| | 4.4 | Promote successful strategies and reward participants where possible |

Foundation Skills

This section describes those language, literacy, numeracy and employment skills that are essential to performance.

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit of competency.

Range of Conditions

This field allows for different work environments and conditions that may affect performance. Essential operating conditions that may be present (depending on the work situation, needs of the candidate, accessibility of the item, and local industry and regional contexts) are included.

Regulatory framework

The latest version of all legislation, regulations, industry codes of practice and Australian/international standards, or the version specified by the local regulatory authority, must be used, and include one or more of the following:

- legislative requirements, including work health and safety (WHS)
- industry codes of practice and guidelines
- environmental regulations and guidelines
- Australian and other standards
- licence and certification requirements
- ISO 14001:2015 Environmental management systems

Procedures

All operations must be performed in accordance with relevant procedures.

Procedures are written, verbal, visual, computer-based or in some other form, and include one or more of the following:

- work instructions
- standard operating procedures (SOPs)
- safe work method statements (SWMS)
- formulas/recipes
- batch sheets
- temporary instructions
- any similar instructions provided for the smooth running of the plant

Assessment Requirements for MSMENV472 Implement and monitor environmentally sustainable work practices

Modification History

Release 1. Supersedes and is equivalent to MSAENV472B Implement and monitor environmentally sustainable work practices

Performance Evidence

Evidence required to demonstrate competence in this unit must be relevant to and satisfy the requirements of the elements and performance criteria and must include the ability to:

- investigate/analyse resource usage
- evaluate improvement alternatives and set targets
- implement improvements within the limit of own authority
- monitor the performance of improvements.

Knowledge Evidence

Evidence must be provided that demonstrates knowledge of:

- relevant environmental and resource efficiency issues, specific to industry practices, including:
 - contribution to climate change and other macro threats that can arise from materials and work processes used
 - regulated environmental issues
 - issues relevant to licencing conditions
- best practice environmental approaches relevant to own area of responsibility
- methods for measuring and calculating resource usage.

Assessment Conditions

- The unit should be assessed holistically and the judgement of competence based on a holistic assessment of the evidence.
- The collection of performance evidence:
 - should occur over a range of situations
 - will typically include a supervisor/third-party report focusing on consistent performance and problem recognition and solving. A supervisor/third-party report must be prepared by someone who has a direct, relevant, current relationship with the person being assessed and who is in a position to form a judgement on workplace performance relevant to the unit of competency
 - will typically include the use of appropriate tools, equipment and documents

- may use industry-based simulation for all or part of the unit particularly where safety, lack of opportunity or significant cost is an issue.
- Assessment should occur in operational workplace situations. Where this is not possible, or where personal safety or environmental damage are limiting factors, assessment must occur in a sufficiently rigorous simulated environment reflecting realistic operational workplace conditions. This must cover all aspects of workplace performance, including environment, task skills, task management skills, contingency management skills and job role environment skills.
- Assessment in a simulated environment should use evidence collected from one or more of:
 - walk-throughs
 - pilot plant operation
 - demonstration of skills
 - industry based case studies/scenarios
 - ‘what ifs’.
- Knowledge evidence may be collected concurrently with performance evidence (provided a record is kept) or through an independent process, such as workbooks, written assessments or interviews (provided a record is kept).
- Assessment processes and techniques must be appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy requirements of the work being performed and the needs of the candidate.
- Conditions for assessment must include access to all tools, equipment, materials and documentation required, including relevant workplace procedures, product and manufacturing specifications associated with this unit.
- The regulatory framework will be reflected in workplace policies and procedures and is not required to be independently assessed.
- Foundation skills are integral to competent performance of the unit and should not be assessed separately.
- As a minimum, assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations 2015 assessor requirements.

MSS014013 Contribute to sustainability related audits

Modification History

Release 1. Updated unit code. Changes to performance criteria. Range of conditions removed. Assessment requirements amended. Equivalent outcome.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge to contribute to sustainability related audits either as an audit team member or through specifically nominated research and investigations for the audit team. It includes understanding the context of the sustainability audit; concepts of resource usage and waste and how they can be expressed as carbon and carbon equivalents.

This unit applies to sustainability related audits of a part or whole organisation or its value chain. The audits may be conducted to assist in regulatory compliance or as part of a strategy to improve the sustainability of an organisation's operations.

This unit applies to team leaders, technicians or others who may be required to assist in such an audit as part of their work role. It does not cover the skills needed to lead sustainability related audits.

No licensing or certification requirements exist at the time of publication. Relevant legislation, industry standards and codes of practice within Australia must be applied.

Assessment Requirements for MSS014013 Contribute to sustainability related audits

Modification History

Release 1. Updated unit code. Changes to performance criteria. Range of conditions removed. Assessment requirements amended. Equivalent outcome.

Performance Evidence

There must be evidence the candidate has completed the tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, and:

- contributed to at least 1 sustainability related audit, including:
 - assisting in identifying improvement strategies
 - assisting in providing recommendations
 - consulting with stakeholders.

Knowledge Evidence

There must be evidence the candidate has knowledge of:

- sources of material and energy muda (waste)
- balancing techniques for process and process steps
- methods of measuring actual process amount and flows
- concepts of carbon and carbon equivalence as it applies to sustainability
- muda (waste) reduction strategies and methods along with costs, effectiveness and alternative strategies
- cost-benefit analysis
- legislation, regulation and protocols relevant to work area
- sustainability related process mapping
- process and changes which occur within the process
- environmental impacts of materials and energy used and emitted in both actual and carbon equivalents
- environmental sensitivities of all areas impacted by the work, process area and containment
- root cause analysis and problem solving
- sustainability issues relevant to the work and process area
- AS/NZS ISO 14000 Environmental Management Systems or its authorised replacement.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must have been demonstrated in the workplace or in a simulated environment that reflects workplace conditions, contingencies, facilities, equipment and resources.

Assessors must satisfy the NVR/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors.

MSS015022 Develop strategies for more sustainable use of resources

Modification History

Release 1. Updated unit code. Range of conditions removed. Assessment requirements amended. Equivalent outcome.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge to identify strategies for more sustainable uses of resources. The unit includes the identification of waste (muda) as part of a strategy for achieving better sustainability outcomes in a process as well as quantifying theoretical and actual resource (including energy) consumption.

This unit applies inside organisations and their value chains and specifically applies to the use of resources as part of an overall response to improving sustainability.

Where the carbon footprint (or water footprint or similar) of an organisation or value chain is known, the unit can be applied to developing strategies for the reduction of that footprint. A manager or technical specialist who has a major responsibility for sustainability as part of a broader work role would typically undertake this, or sustainability may be their primary work responsibility.

No licensing or certification requirements exist at the time of publication. Relevant legislation, industry standards and codes of practice within Australia must be applied.

MSS015025 Develop a business case for sustainability improvements

Modification History

Release 1. Updated unit code. Changes to performance criteria. Range of conditions removed. Assessment requirements amended. Equivalent outcome.

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge to develop an appropriate business case for proposed changes which will deliver improvements to the sustainability of a process or organisation. It includes cost benefit and return on investment (ROI) analyses. The business case may be required for sustainability related improvements in response to regulatory, Board, employee, shareholder or community requests or pressure.

This unit applies inside organisations and their value chains.

This unit applies to a manager or technical specialist who has a major responsibility for sustainability as part of a broader work role or sustainability may be their primary work responsibility. The manager or technical specialist may undertake this alone or as part of a team.

PUACOM008 Develop and organise public safety awareness programs

Modification History

Release 1. This is the first release of this unit of competency in the PUA Public Safety Training Package.

Application

This unit of competency involves the skills and knowledge required to develop, implement and evaluate public safety awareness programs. It includes determining scope of program and developing, implementing and evaluating the effectiveness of public safety awareness programs.

The unit is applicable to personnel who formally liaise with other organisations to increase response effectiveness and community safety.

Pre-requisite Unit

The fire sector is those sections of government departments, statutory authorities or organisations that have responsibility under jurisdictional arrangements for the delivery of firefighting and fire management services.

It is essential that the prerequisite units listed below are obtained prior to the issuance of this unit to individuals within the fire sector or the units contributing to the attainment of a fire qualification.

PUAFER001 Identify, prevent and report potential facility emergency situations

Modification History

Release 1. This is the first release of this unit of competency in the PUA Public Safety Training Package.

Application

This unit of competency involves the skills and knowledge required by occupants to identify and prevent the development of facility emergency situations or to minimise their consequences, and to report if emergency protection systems and/or equipment is compromised.

It applies to a broad range of emergencies and covers the work required before an emergency services and/or specialist response team arrives; it does not include the specific use of equipment to prevent facility emergency situations.

The unit has been developed to cover facilities as specified in Australian Standard 3745 and AS 4083. For this unit, as covered by AS 3745 and/or AS4083, occupants are people attending a facility on a permanent or temporary basis such as an employee, contractor, student or resident, but not a visitor or patient and a facility is a building, structure or workplace that is, or may be, occupied by people (occupants).

All aspects of the unit must be undertaken in accordance with legislative requirements, organisational policies and procedures and approved safe practices. It applies to occupants who are required to be 'emergency aware' in their facility.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

As a minimum, assessment must satisfy applicable regulatory requirements, which include requirements in the Standards for Registered Training Organisations current at the time of assessment.

Assessment processes and techniques must be appropriate to the language, literacy and numeracy requirements of the work being performed and the needs of the candidate.

Assessment must occur in workplace operational situations. Where this is not appropriate, assessment must occur in industry approved simulated workplace operational situations that reflect workplace conditions.

Resources for assessment must include access to

- a range of relevant exercises, case studies and/or simulations
- relevant and appropriate materials, equipment, tools and personal protective clothing and equipment currently used in industry
- applicable documentation including organisational policies and procedures, industry standards, equipment specifications, regulations, codes of practice and operation manuals.

RIIVEH305E Operate and maintain a four wheel drive vehicle

| Release | Comment |
|---------|--|
| 1 | This unit replaces RIIVEH305D Operate and maintain a four wheel drive vehicle. Amended element 5 and performance evidence to use of recovery equipment and remove use of snatch straps. Added mapping table. |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to operate and maintain a four wheel drive vehicle in the Resources and Infrastructure Industries.

This unit is appropriate for those working in supervisory and technical specialist roles.

Licensing, legislative, regulatory and certification requirements that apply to this unit can vary between states, territories, and industry sectors. Relevant information must be sourced prior to application of the unit.

Elements and Performance Criteria

| 1. Identify four-wheel drive specific terms, terminology and techniques | 1.1 Access, interpret and apply four wheel drive vehicle documentation and ensure the work activity is compliant 1.2 Identify the structural and handling differences between a conventional two wheel drive and a four-wheel drive vehicle 1.3 Identify and demonstrate the purpose and use of front wheel hubs 1.4 Identify factors affecting tyre size, fitment, rating, and pressure 1.5 Identify recovery hooks and mounting features 1.6 Identify hazards associated with incorrect use of vehicle features or equipment |
| 2. Plan for minimal environmental impact | 2.1 Determine types of impact likely to occur during four-wheel driving activities 2.2 Demonstrate compliance with land management principles and policies when planning exploration activities 2.3 Comply with policies and management plans relevant to the activity area 2.4 Plan and conduct activities in a manner which minimises |

| | environmental impact 2.5 Adopt and implement procedures to ensure minimisation of harm to the environment from four-wheel drive activities 2.6 Demonstrate cooperation and consideration towards other land users |
| 3. Perform pre-departure checks | 3.1 Perform routine pre-departure checks under the bonnet, under the body, on external and internal items and accessories 3.2 Take action to correct any deficiency 3.3 Determine food and water requirements for journey 3.4 Select navigation equipment 3.5 Interpret weather conditions, determine suitability for driving 3.6 Apply safe vehicle loading practices 3.7 Secure items of personal luggage 3.8 Advise passengers of any special safety precautions to be taken when traversing rough terrain |
| 4. Use four-wheel drive mode | 4.1 Operate four-wheel drive both on and off road, in accordance with road rules, principles of four-wheel driving and WHS regulations 4.2 Apply smooth accelerator control strategies over a range of terrain types 4.3 Demonstrate recommended braking techniques for hard top surfaces and off road conditions 4.4 Identify situations where the engagement of four-wheel drive is required 4.5 Engage four-wheel drive mode 4.6 Survey track to identify hazards, assess risk and select a best route 4.7 Select routes to minimise damage to the environment 4.8 Use appropriate range, gear, speed, driving and braking technique, negotiate a range of terrain types whilst maintaining control of vehicle, being aware of contextual/environment issues 4.9 Maintain appropriate hand positioning on steering wheel 4.10 Check brakes and undercarriage after negotiating varying terrain 4.11 Assess and perform repairs to damaged tracks 4.12 Use standard operating procedures when travelling in company with other vehicles |

| recover a vehicle | operating practices, and communication requirements are adhered to 5.2 Identify equipment and methods to recover a stuck vehicle 5.3 Identify risks associated with vehicle recovery and develop and implement strategies to minimise risks 5.4 Identify correctly rated recovery equipment and attachment points 5.5 Demonstrate procedures for preparing vehicles for recovery 5.6 Identify techniques to minimise impact on the environment during vehicle recovery 5.7 Coordinate safe recovery of a four-wheel drive vehicle using designated equipment and recovery method 5.8 Perform post recovery checks and report any vehicle or environmental repairs needed 5.9 Return recovery equipment to a reusable condition |
| 6. Perform maintenance and minor repairs on four-wheel drive vehicles | 6.1 Select/access maintenance equipment, including spares and fluids, prior to departure, considering contextual issues of the trip 6.2 Check vehicles prior to and regularly during trip, and perform routine maintenance/repair tasks 6.3 Submit vehicle written performance reports 6.4 Demonstrate safe use of a jack to change a wheel on a four-wheel drive vehicle |

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit. Further information is available in the Resources and Infrastructure Industry Training Package Companion Volume.

Assessment Requirements for RIIVEH305E Operate and maintain a four wheel drive vehicle

| Release | Comment |
|---------|---|
| 1 | This unit replaces RIIVEH305D Amended element 5 and performance evidence to use of recovery equipment and remove use of snatch straps. Added mapping table. |

Performance Evidence

- Evidence is required to be collected that demonstrates a candidate's competency in this unit. Evidence must be relevant to the roles within this sector's work operations and satisfy all of the requirements of the performance criteria of this unit and include evidence that the candidate:
- locates and applies relevant documentation, policies and procedures
- works effectively with others to undertake and complete effective operation and maintenance of a four wheel drive vehicle to meet all required outcomes including:
 - preparing for and organising work activities to meet all task requirements
 - communicating clearly and concisely with others to receive and clarify work instructions
 - using a range of communication techniques and aids to advise others of work activity
- demonstrates completion of the operation and maintenance of a four wheel drive vehicle that safely, effectively and efficiently meets all of the required outcomes on more than one (1) occasion including:
 - performing pre-departure checks
 - selecting and programming navigation equipment
 - operating a four wheel drive vehicle on and off road
 - applying correct braking techniques according to terrain
 - engaging four wheel drive mode
 - carrying out stop stall key start recovery procedures (only applies to manual licencees)
 - selecting routes and applying techniques to minimise damage to the environment
 - identifying and using multiple types of recovery equipment
 - performing recovery of four wheel drive
 - operating a jack to support a four wheel drive on unstable ground

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge of the following when operating and maintaining a four wheel drive vehicle:

- problem solving skills for operation and maintenance of a four wheel drive vehicle
- handover procedures
- technical information, including manufacturer's manuals related to operation and maintenance of a four wheel drive vehicle
- operating vehicles within specifications and limitations
- faults in vehicles and ancillary equipment
- driving techniques and handling characteristics of four-wheel drives in different terrain
- differences between optional four-wheel drive and constant four-wheel drive vehicles and their impacts on vehicle operation and capability
- tyre management principles
- hazards associated with vehicle recovery, including:
 - slopes
 - pot holes
 - power lines
 - wet, slippery conditions
 - mud
 - changes in terrain
 - obstacles such as tree branches or poles
- travelling in convoy
- area restrictions
- knowledge of basic four wheel drive maintenance procedures, including:
 - charging batteries
 - changing fuses and globes
 - jump-starting
 - battery safety

Assessment Conditions

- Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) 2015/AQTF mandatory competency requirements for assessors; and industry regulations for certification and licensing; and,
- this unit must be assessed in the context of this sector's work environment; and,
- this unit must be assessed in compliance with relevant legislation/regulation and using policies, procedures, processes and operational manuals directly related to the industry sector for which it is being assessed; and,
- assessment may be conducted in conjunction with the assessment of other units of competency; and,

- assessment must confirm consistent performance can be applied in a range of relevant workplace circumstances; and,
- assessors must demonstrate the performance evidence, and knowledge evidence as outlined in this unit of competency, and through the minimum years of current* work experience specified below in an industry sector relevant to the outcomes of the unit; or,
- where the assessor does not meet experience requirements a co-assessment or partnership arrangement must exist between the qualified assessor and an industry subject matter expert. The industry subject matter expert should hold the unit being assessed (or an equivalent unit) and/or demonstrate equivalence of skills and knowledge at the unit level. An industry technical expert must also demonstrate skills and knowledge from the minimum years of current work experience specified below in the industry sector, including time spent in roles related to the unit being assessed; and,
- assessor and Industry subject matter expert requirements differ depending on the Australian Qualifications Framework Level (AQF) of the qualification being assessed and/or industry sector as follows:

| Industry sector | AQF Level | Required assessor or industry subject matter expert experience |
|--|---|--|
| Drilling, Metalliferous Mining, Coal Mining, Extractive (Quarrying) and Civil Construction | 1 | 1 Year |
| | 2 | 2 Years |
| Drilling, Coal Mining and Extractive (Quarrying) | 3-6 | 3 Years |
| Metalliferous Mining and Civil Construction | 3-6 | 5 Years |
| Other sectors | Where this unit is being assessed outside of the Resources and Infrastructure Sectors, assessor and/or industry subject matter expert experience should be in-line with industry standards for the sector in which it is being assessed and, where no industry standard is specified, should comply with any relevant regulation. | |

*Assessors can demonstrate current work experience through employment within industry in a role relevant to the outcomes of the unit; or, for external assessors this can be demonstrated through exposure to industry by conducting frequent site assessments across various locations.

Where a unit is being delivered outside of a qualification the first numeric character in the unit code should be considered to indicate the AQF level.

| 1 | The unit replaces RIIOHS202A Enter and work in confined spaces. |
| 2 | Editorial corrections. |
| 3 | Amended Application field. |
| 4 | Required frequency and volume of evidence amended in Performance evidence. Substantial amendments made in Assessment Conditions field, including: references to Industry Sectors, assessor and subject matter expert experience requirements, how assessment should be conducted and what it should confirm. |

Application

This unit describes a participant's skills and knowledge required to enter and work in confined spaces in the Resources and Infrastructure Industries.

This unit is appropriate for those working in operational roles undertaking work in confined spaces.

Licensing, legislative, regulatory and certification requirements that apply to this unit can vary between states, territories, and Industry sectors. Relevant information must be sourced prior to application of the unit.

Note: The terms Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) and Work Health and Safety (WHS) are equivalent and generally either can be used in the workplace. In jurisdictions where the National Model WHS Legislation has not been implemented RTOs are advised to contextualise the unit of competency by referring to the existing State/Territory OHS legislative requirements.

|--|---|
| 1 Plan and prepare for working in confined space | 1.1 Access, interpret and apply procedures for confined space entry and the environmental management plan and ensure the work activity is compliant 1.2 Obtain, confirm, clarify and apply work instructions and agreed procedure 1.3 Obtain, confirm, clarify and apply safety requirements |
|--|---|

|--------------------------|---|
| | 1.4 Obtain and confirm authorisation (entry permit) meets regulatory requirements 1.5 Confirm the emergency response procedure is with the stand-by person and understood 1.6 Identify, obtain and implement signage and barrier requirements 1.7 Select tools and equipment for the tasks, check for serviceability and rectify or report any faults 1.8 Identify, confirm and apply the environmental protection requirements 1.9 Position rescue equipment by the entry permit |
| 2 Work in confined space | 2.1 Gain access to confined space 2.2 Ensure that the atmosphere is tested and monitored for harmful elements 2.3 Correctly apply tagging and lock-out procedures 2.4 Enter the confined space correctly 2.5 Maintain ongoing communication with the stand-by person 2.6 Comply with entry permit requirements 2.7 Monitor and adhere to allocated entry time |
| 3 Exit confined space | 3.1 Exit confined space correctly 3.2 Recover tools, equipment and materials 3.3 Conduct inspection of the confined space 3.4 Secure access to the confined space 3.5 Remove tagging and lock-out 3.6 Accurately complete confined space entry permit |
| 4 Clean up | 4.1 Clear work area and dispose of or recycle materials 4.2 Clean, check, maintain and store tools and equipment 4.3 Remove, clean and store barriers and signs |

Foundation Skills

Foundation skills essential to performance are explicit in the performance criteria of this unit. Further information is available in the Resources and Infrastructure Industry Training Package Companion Volume.

 - obtain appropriate entry permit and instructions for performing work in confined space
 - interpreting and applying safe work method statements
 - apply tagging and lock out
 - selecting, wearing and caring for personal protective equipment applicable to all tasks and environment identified
 - entering the confined space
 - using atmospheric monitoring devices prior to entering the confined space
 - working in the confined space
 - using atmospheric monitoring devices during confined space activity
 - applying safe materials handling methods
 - exiting the confined space
 - remove tagging and lock out

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge of enter and work in confined spaces through:

- identifying areas that constitute confined spaces
- complying with site and equipment safety requirements
- complying with the entry and exit procedures, risks and regulations
- types of air contaminants and toxic gases
- identifying the limitations of breathing apparatus
- identifying equipment types, characteristics, technical capabilities and limitations
- complying with site isolation and site control responsibilities and authorities
- locations of safety data sheets (SDS) information and application
- using confined space and Industry terminology

Assessment Conditions

- An assessor of this unit must satisfy the requirements of the NVR/AQTF or their successors; and Industry regulations for certification and licensing; and,
- this unit is best assessed in the context of this sector's work environment;
- where personal safety or environmental damage are limiting factors, assessment may occur in a simulated environment provided it is realistic and sufficiently rigorous to cover all aspects of this sector's workplace performance, including environment, task skills, task management skills, contingency management skills and job role environment skills; and,

| 2 | Editorial corrections. Amended Application field. |
| 3 | Required frequency and volume of evidence amended in Performance evidence. Substantial amendments made in Assessment Conditions field, including: references to Industry Sectors, assessor and subject matter expert experience requirements, how assessment should be conducted and what it should confirm. |

Performance Evidence

Evidence is required to be collected that demonstrates a candidate's competency in this unit. Evidence must be relevant to the roles within this sector's work operations and satisfy all of the requirements of the performance criteria of this unit and include evidence that the candidate:

- locates and applies relevant legislation, documentation, policies and procedures
- demonstrates completion of the application of the mine work health and safety management plan that safely, effectively and efficiently meets all of the required outcomes on more than one (1) occasion including:
 - providing clear and timely instruction and supervision of those involved in applying the mine Work Health and Safety Management Plan
 - identifying and reporting on risks
 - evaluating hazards and reviewing procedures to eliminate or manage hazards
 - determining health & hygiene training needs of site personnel
 - writing an action plan to maintain site health and safety that specifies resources and plans to control established hazards
 - organising activities on site to support the plan requirement
 - applying and monitoring mine site procedures and systems
 - conducting enquiries/investigations and preparing written reports of outcomes
 - recording of injury, incidents and health and hygiene issues

- accessing, evaluating and applying data from monitoring systems and equipment / plant
- reviewing and auditing site processes and techniques

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must demonstrate knowledge of the following when applying the mine Work Health and Safety Management Plan:

- relevant legislative and industry WHS standards and compliance requirements
- relevant work processes
- health and hygiene standards
- isolation of plant and equipment techniques
- hazard identification and risk management
- observation and inspection methods
- impacts of drug and substance abuse on fitness for work
- relevant mine hazards associated with:
 - hazardous substances, dusts, noise, vibration
 - the mining processes
 - explosives (where used)
 - high-wall/low-wall failure and water ingress
 - mining equipment and haul roads
- emergency procedure planning and preparation
- conventional signage use

Assessment Conditions

- An assessor of this unit must satisfy the requirements of the NVR/AQTF or their successors; and Industry regulations for certification and licensing; and,
- this unit is best assessed in the context of this sector's work environment;
- where personal safety or environmental damage are limiting factors, assessment may occur in a simulated environment provided it is realistic and sufficiently rigorous to cover all aspects of this sector's workplace performance, including environment, task skills, task management skills, contingency management skills and job role environment skills; and,
- this unit must be assessed in compliance with relevant legislation/regulation and using policies, procedures, processes and operational manuals directly related to the industry sector for which it is being assessed; and,
- assessment may be conducted in conjunction with the assessment of other Units of Competency; and,
- assessment must confirm consistent performance can be applied in a range of relevant workplace circumstances; and,
- assessors must demonstrate the performance evidence, and knowledge evidence as outlined in this Unit of Competency, and through the minimum years of current* work experience specified below in an Industry sector relevant to the outcomes of the unit; or,

- where the assessor does not meet experience requirements a co-assessment or partnership arrangement must exist between the qualified assessor and an Industry subject matter expert. The Industry subject matter expert should hold the unit being assessed (or an equivalent unit) and/or demonstrate equivalence of skills and knowledge at the unit level. An Industry technical expert must also demonstrate skills and knowledge from the minimum years of current work experience specified below in the Industry sector, including time spent in roles related to the unit being assessed; and,
- assessor and Industry subject matter expert requirements differ depending on the Australian Qualifications Framework Level (AQF) of the qualification being assessed and/or Industry Sector as follows:

| Industry sector | AQF Level | Required assessor or Industry subject matter expert experience |
|--|--|--|
| Drilling, Metalliferous Mining, Coal Mining, Extractive (Quarrying) and Civil Construction | 1 | 1 Year |
| | 2 | 2 Years |
| Drilling, Coal Mining and Extractive (Quarrying) | 3-6 | 3 Years |
| Metalliferous Mining and Civil Construction | 3-6 | 5 Years |
| Other sectors | Where this Unit is being assessed outside of the Resources and Infrastructure Sectors assessor and/or Industry subject matter expert experience should be in-line with industry standards for the sector in which it is being assessed and where no Industry standard is specified should comply with any relevant regulation. | |

*Assessors can demonstrate current work experience through employment within Industry in a role relevant to the outcomes of the Unit; or, for external assessors this can be demonstrated through exposure to Industry by conducting frequent site assessments across various locations.

Where a unit is being delivered outside of a Qualification the first numeric character in the Unit code should be considered to indicate the AQF level

SIRXOSM005 Develop a basic website for customer engagement

Modification History

Not applicable.

Application

This unit describes the performance outcomes, skills and knowledge required to plan and build a basic website suited to organisation purposes and customer requirements. It requires the ability to plan and develop both the structure and content for the site, and to test and evaluate the site before it goes live.

It covers those skills needed by an organisation that chooses to develop its own site, using website building platforms, rather than using the services of information technology specialists.

It applies to individuals who work independently or with limited guidance from others, including senior operational personnel, business unit managers and, particularly to small business owner operators.

This unit applies to self-employed individuals, and owners and employees of any type of organisation including commercial, not-for-profit and government organisations.

No occupational licensing, certification or specific legislative requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit in the context of the job role, and:

- develop and implement a plan to retail drive sales that includes:
 - comprehensive overview of current operations:
 - sales process and selling environment
 - average spend and conversion rates
 - stock levels in relation to customer demand
 - customer feedback
 - trends in consumer behaviour
 - competitor activity
 - economic activity
 - organisational sales targets
 - traffic generators for new customers
 - tactics to retain existing customers
 - tactics to increase average spend and conversion rates
- monitor and review sales results against a sales plan for one sales period and identify areas for improved sales performance.

Knowledge Evidence

Demonstrated knowledge required to complete the tasks outlined in elements and performance criteria of this unit:

- key elements and features of a sales plan
- internal factors impacting on sales
- external factors impacting sales in the retail environment:
 - trends in consumer behaviour
 - competitor activity
 - economic activity
- role of customer feedback in growing sales
- customer traffic generators
- techniques for growing sales within the retail environment for:
 - new customers

- existing customers
- increasing average spend and conversion rates
- marketing activities and their role in sales:
 - promotions
 - social media campaigns
 - advertising campaigns.

Assessment Conditions

Skills must be demonstrated in a services industry environment. This can be:

- an industry workplace
- a simulated industry environment.

Assessment must ensure access to:

- relevant business technology with internet capability
- organisational documentation:
 - sales strategy
 - sales performance records
 - sales targets
- sources of customer feedback.

Assessors must satisfy the Standards for Registered Training Organisations' requirements for assessors.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, including:

- clarifying the role to be taken during the assessment
- clarifying the assessment plan with the qualified assessor, including agreement about:
 - what evidence will be collected
 - how the evidence will be collected
- carrying out a minimum of three evidence-gathering activities and, on each occasion:
 - document evidence in a clear and concise manner
 - document feedback from others involved in the assessment

reporting findings to the qualified assessor, including an explanation of how the assessment meets the rules of evidence on each of the three occasions.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge to effectively complete the task outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- competency-based assessment
- the principles of assessment
- the rules of evidence
- the different purposes of assessment
- the diversity of assessment contexts
- different types of evidence
- evidence-gathering methods
- the purpose and features of assessment tools, and assessment plans

- potential barriers and processes relating to evidence-gathering procedures, and assessment processes
- the organisational policies and procedures relevant to this unit of competency.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Conditions must be typical of those experienced in the training and assessment environment, and include access to qualified assessors for consultation.

Assessors must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, including:

- preparation and presentation of a minimum of two examples of learning strategies designed by the candidate, with differentiated design structures in each that:
 - reflect the specific requirements of the qualification or skill set, and
 - reflect client needs and the contexts of application
- documentation of a review that provides outcomes and evidence of continuous improvement.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge to effectively complete the task outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- Training Packages, including the content of Training Packages relevant to the learning strategy
- accredited courses and the similarities and differences between them and the skill sets, or qualifications, within training packages
- NVR/AQTF requirements for Registered Training Organisations (RTOs) in terms of their effect on the design, and development, of learning strategies
- The Australian Qualifications Framework (AQF) including:
 - key features of each qualification type
 - AQF pathways policy including credit transfer
- industry and enterprise requirements, including:

- those relevant to the learning strategy
- industry licensing arrangements, where relevant
- the main branches of learning theory incorporating behavioural learning theory, cognitive learning theory, experiential learning theory, information processing theory and current research on learning, as it relates to teaching in an adult environment
- assessment approaches, including:
 - the basis and rationale for different assessment methods appropriate to the learning strategy.

| Release 1 | This version first released with TAE Training and Education Training Package Version 2.0 . |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to initiate, and implement, practices that support the improvement of learning strategies in an organisational context. It includes:

- evaluating ways to improve learning practice, managing and monitoring the means by which to improve learning, analysing, and advancing adoption of improved learning practice
- methods for improving learning practice, including developing individual staff members from the perspective of the organisation's needs and imperatives, and enhancing outcomes for learners and candidates.

It applies to leaders or managers who use research, theoretical analysis and professional investigation, to identify ways in which to implement learning practices that build organisational capabilities within a small to medium-sized organisation, or to a significant unit of activity in a large organisation.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.

Performance Evidence

The candidate must show evidence of the ability to complete tasks outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit, including:

- implementing improved practice in at least one learning environment, including documentation to show:
 - an evaluation of ways in which to improve learning practice
 - how the process was managed and monitored
 - how learning was improved
 - how improved learning practice was advocated for
 - how colleagues were mentored in order to promote learning practice.

Knowledge Evidence

The candidate must be able to demonstrate essential knowledge to effectively complete the task outlined in the elements and performance criteria of this unit. This includes knowledge of:

- adult learning practice
- contemporary policy and approaches to vocational learning and assessment
- the content and requirements of the relevant delivery and assessment strategies
- the content of learning resources and learning materials
- the design and management of learning objects and content
- different learning styles, and how to encourage learners, including:
 - theoretical learners
 - pragmatic learners
 - activist learners
 - reflective learners
 - kinaesthetic learners
 - audio learners

- visual learners
- tactile learners
- left and right brain learners
- learning strategies, teaching, and assessment methods
- research relating to pedagogical theory and practice, learner interests and changing learning styles, and the application of information and communications technology (ICT) to learning and teaching
- the sources and availability of relevant learning resources, and learning materials
- the theory and practice relating to adult learning
- training techniques that enhance learning and when to use them, including:
 - instruction and explanation
 - questioning
 - practice
 - written information
 - group, pair and team activities
 - individual activities
 - demonstration.

Assessment Conditions

Gather evidence to demonstrate consistent performance in conditions that are safe and replicate the workplace. Conditions must be typical of those experienced in the training and assessment environment.

Assessors must satisfy the requirements for assessors in applicable vocational education and training legislation, frameworks and/or standards.

TAELED804 Review enterprise e-learning systems and solutions implementation

Modification History

| Release | Comments |
|-----------|---|
| Release 1 | This version first released with TAE Training and Education Training Package Version 2.0 . |

Application

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to design, review and implement advanced enterprise electronic learning (e-learning) solutions, as a member of a senior management team. It includes evaluating trends in e-learning in relation to organisational plans, monitoring e-learning resources, and ensuring any proposed solutions are tested, and evaluated, against organisational requirements.

This unit applies to leaders or managers working to ensure learning can enhance individual, team and organisational capabilities.

No licensing, legislative or certification requirements apply to this unit at the time of publication.
